HOUSE PASSES BILL PROVIDING BIG PARK FUND

SEVERE BLOW DEALT TOLL-BRIDGE PLANS

PERMISSION GRANTED TO POWER PROJECTS

The House passed the $23,000,000 Cramton park-development bill by a vote of 199 to 24 yesterday, and in doing so sought to deal a death blow to plans for a $1,000,000 private toll bridge across the Potomac at Great Falls.

Not only did the House adopt an amendment prohibiting the erection of a private toll bridge but it adopted one specifically directing the erection of a free bridge at the same spot.

The Cramton bill now goes to the Senate, where Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, arch enemy of private toll bridges, is expected to lead the fight for retention of the House amendments

Toll Bridge Authorized.

The Great Falls Bridge Co., made up of Washington, Maryland and Virginia business men, was authorized to build the toll bridge by an act passed in the last Congress. Its plans for the bridge have been approved by the War Department and actual construction, it is understood, is about to be started.

What the company will do now, its officials decline to say, but there is a possibility that it may go ahead with the building of the bridge on the theory that the span can be finished before the Federal Government and Maryland and Virginia acquire the land around Great Falls. The acquisition of this land will take considerable time.

Before passing the Cramton bill yesterday the House adopted another amendment to permit the development of water power at Great Falls if such development should be authorized by Congress in the future.

The same amendment would, under like conditions, permit the linking of the upper Potomac with the Ohio River in a great waterway project.

$16,000,000 Loan Authorized.

The bill, which was sponsored by Representative Louis C. Cramton (Republican), Michigan, provides a Federal loan of $16,000,000 to the District government for the purchase of park and playground lands within the city, this to be paid back without interest at the rate of $1,000,000 a year.

Then it appropriates $7,000,000 to help Maryland and Virginia buy land for the proposed George Washington Memorial Parkway, stretching from Mount Vernon to Great Falls on the Virginia side of the Potomac River and from Fort Washington to Great Falls on the Maryland side. The two States would be required to pay half the cost.

Part of the $7,000,000 would be advanced to extend Rock Creek and Anacostia Parks into Maryland, the State to pay two-thirds of the cost.

Misapprehension Cleared.

From the debate, it was clear that many members, indeed most members, thought that the Federal Government was investing $23,000,000 of its own money in the George Washington memorial parkway along the Potomac.

Representative Bowman (Republican), of West Virginia, however, pointed out that $16,000,000 was exclusively for the purchase of park lands within the city of Washington, and he pointed out further that, with the exception of the comparatively small sum that the Federal Government now is contributing toward the District's expenses, this $16,000,000 would come entirely out of the pockets of the local taxpayers.

On the other hand, Bowman said, the Federal Government is helping Maryland and Virginia to the extent of paying half the cost of the George Washington memorial parkway.

Boston Budget Cited.

Representative Dallinger (Republican), of Massachusetts, told Mr. Bowman that the city already is spending $1,000,000 a year for parks. This sum, he said, is carried in the annual District appropriation bill. So, too, he said, would be the $1,000,000 a year that the District would pay to reimburse the Federal Government for its $16,000,000 loan.

With this $16,000,000 immediately available, he said, the city could buy and that it otherwise would lose or have to pay more for later on, and thus the result would be a big saving.

BROOKHART INDICTS CLUB OF PRESIDENT

MORE EVIDENCE HINTED

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.)—President Hoover is among a long list of distinguished members of the Century Association, the club referred to today in a letter read in the Senate by Senator Brookhart.

Officers of the association could not be reached for comment on the charges contained in the letter. A clerk at the club said:

"Well, Senator Brookhart knows more than we do."

Charles A. Platt is president of the association. Among its other officers are Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, first vice president, and George W. Wickersham, head of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, second vice president.

The association was organized in 1847.

The club is one of the most exclusive in New York. It was founded by William Cullen Bryant. Although its spirit is essentially artistic it does not limit itself to artists. Its membership includes many distinguished names.

It sponsors an art exhibit every month, and because of its varied membership it is able to provide its members with regular lectures by members which may deal with anything from playwrighting to deep-sea fishing or politics.

Temperature Probably Will Stay Below Freezing and Halt Melting of Capital's Heaviest Fall Since Knickerbocker Disaster Eight Years Ago.

Traffic was moving steadily though slowly again last night in the District after almost 1,500 men had worked all day with plows, scrapers and shovels clearing the streets of exactly a foot of snow that fell late Wednesday night and throughout yesterday.

The snow, the heaviest here in eight years, had practically stopped falling by dusk last night, though flurries of fine flakes were still in the air. The temperature began going down as night came, and a minimum temperature of 16 degrees was predicted before morning.

The official measurement of the snow, taken by the United States Weather Bureau at 9 o'clock, just after the fall ceased, was 12 inches. Following the cold wave last night, the temperature will rise slowly today under clear skies, the bureau predicted.

The prediction of rising temperature today and tomorrow held no hope for disappearance of the heavy snow, Weather Bureau officials, while making no definite forecast, indicated that the rise would hardly carry the temperature above the freezing mark during the next 48 hours, thus holding out the prospect of a "white week-end" for the Capital.

School children were released a few hours earlier than usual yesterday afternoon to permit them to get home before dark and to enjoy the snow. Elementary classes were dismissed at 1 o'clock and junior and senior grades at 2 o'clock.

Most Government departments also permitted employes to go home an hour or a half hour earlier so that there would not be such a jam at 4:30 o'clock.

Even President Hoover was affected by the heavy snowfall. Instead of walking from the White House to his office in the State, War and Navy Building, just across the street, he made the short trip in one of the executive automobiles.

District departments, the two street car companies and bus line concerns cooperated yesterday before daybreak in clearing streets so that Washington's working population could get to its tasks on time. Shortly after midnight street car sweepers, street plows and scrapers were on the job.

One thousand men, many of them borrowed from the highway, sewer, water and other divisions, were employed by the District Government throughout the day. Two hundred trucks, a large number with scrapers attached, and 38 plows were used in an effort to rid the streets of the banks of snow.

The work will continue today where it was left off at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. As yesterday, men seeking employment can get jobs shoveling snow at the rate of $3.44 per diem by applying to the street cleaning department or any foreman of any gang engaged in the task.

It was estimated by the street cleaning department that the snow

HOOVERS HOLD FETE IN HONOR OF SENATE

FIRST LADY IS PRESENT

By JEAN ELIOT.

When the President and Mrs. Hoover gave their reception to the Senate last night, open fires gave a cheery aspect to the White House in pleasant contrast to the blanket of snow without, glimpsed through long windows. "And the presence of Mrs. Hoover, most gracious in the role of hostess, added measurably to the charm of the fete. She had been absent because of illness at the first of the State receptions of the season at which the judiciary were guests of honor.

In spite of the inclement weather, more than 1,000 guests were present, a goodly representation from resident

Potomac's Ice Holds Naval Duck Hunters

Commander Ducey and Capt. McDowell Fail to Bag Any Birds, But Are Finally Rescued From Mush-Filled River.

It looked like lovely weather for ducks yesterday.

And in view of the fact that today ends the duck season, Capt. Willis McDowell, captain of the Washington Navy Yard, and Commander David F. Ducey, staff commander of battle divisions of the battle fleet, came to the conclusion that it was a case of now or never, do or die, and things like that.

While the rest of the naval forces of the Nation were still dreaming sweet dreams about the London conference, the two intrepid nimrods climbed into the captain's dinghy and set sail for the Virginia shore of the Potomac, where Commander Ducey knew a place.

Came the dawn, and, with it, realization. The placid waters of the river, over which their light craft had skimmed so gracefully but a few brief hours before, was now a solid, churning mass of gooey ice—not the kind of ice that people skate on, but that powdered type that night clubs charge a dollar a bowl for. It would be easier to row a boat across an editor's glue pot than through that viscid stream.

Nine o'clock, the hour of the daily navy yard conference, came and went. The officers hoped that Admiral Willard, commandant of the yard, would realize that their absence was not from choice. As a matter of fact, the commandant, when questioned many hours later, said he didn't even know they had missed the conference until the reporter supplied the information. Such is fame.

Time continued to pass, as time often does, but the trouble was that nothing else appeared to pass the duck blind where the two officers sat wondering what to do about it. At last the bulk of the Army transport Gen. D. H. Rucker hove in sight around a bend in the river, on its way to Fort Washington.

Capt. McDowell fired three shots, and both officers yelled, thanking their years of giving orders to gobs for lungs that could project a voice when projection was a vital necessity.

But nothing happened. The transport continued on its way, the frantic S O S apparently having been unheeded. And two naval officers began to find their thoughts drifting to dismal hopes that their bodies would be found before the spring freshets came to wash their bones down to Quantico to be kicked around by a flock of leathernecks.

The signal had been heard, however, although Capt. W. W. Rowles, commander of the Rucker, knowing the futility of trying to drive the transport through packed cracked ice, had kept on until he reached the fort, where he telephoned to the Harbor Police here. The police boat, com-

Man in Union Suit Dashes Through Snow to Bakery

Andrew Madden awakened in his Spring road apartment at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, reached for his clothes, and blinked at the chair, which held only a flimsy undergarment.

"I locked up all your clothes," his wife laughed. "You bet me $50 you'd run up to the bakery at Fourteenth street without any shoes, any coat or pants on. Guess I collect, don't I?"

Andrew Madden, 23 years old, dived into the union suit and rushed from the apartment. His bare feet pattered through banks of snow and falling flakes pelted his unclothed expanse. A couple of women stood wide-mouthed. Another almost fainted. Three-quarters of a block away, with street cars and automobiles plowing through the drifts, Andrew Madden rushed panting into the bakery.

"A pint of milk; keep the change," he commanded breathlessly as he flung a dime on the counter. Three customers made room for him, his single garment dripping with snow, sticking fast to his body.

He was gone in a moment, racing, heedless of spectators, back to his apartment. His wife took one look at him, thrust out the $50 bill.

"Yeah, it was an easy $50," soliloquized Andrew Madden.

Exact Terms of France's Limitation Compromise

London, Jan. 30 (A.P.)—The exact terms of the French compromise proposal are that each nation shall specify the maximum figures of its total naval tonnage which will not be exceeded. Then, each nation will specify a figure for each category of ships which will not be exceeded. The total tonnage of the categories would be the global tonnage of each power. Each power would have the right to deviate from its category allocation up to a certain percentage, which has yet to be decided upon, but which has been generally mentioned as between 10 and 15 per cent.

According to the French proposal, the right of transfer from one category to another is applicable to all categories, which would indicate a conflict with the British desire as expressed by Mr. Alexander, that the tonnage apply only to the less powerful types of ships.

The six categories considered here are battleships, cruisers with guns larger than 6-inch bore, surface craft carrying smaller than 6-inch guns and including destroyers, aircraft carriers, submarines and a general class of auxiliary vessels, including mine sweepers.

Division of cruisers into two categories by gun power is expected to help simplify solution of the difficult and highly complicated problem of restricting this arm of naval warfare.

Grandi Withdraws From Insistence on Setting Figures First.

BRITAIN, FRANCE, U. S. NEAR ON LIMITATION

Compromise Is in Sight on Method to Be Used in Measuring.

STEERING COMMITTEE PROPOSAL IS CARRIED

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Jan. 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Yielding of ground by Italy on her demand that each nation represented at the London naval conference state its maximum naval program before determination of the ratios between navies and before discussion of the baffling global versus category limitation theses, was the high light of the third plenary session of the conference held in St. James' Palace today.

An almost equally important development of the day was announcement by American, British and French spokesmen that compromise is within sight on the opposed standpoints on limitation methods. Reconciling the method by which the French favor measuring naval strength with the method preferred by the British and the Americans has been one of the most intricate problems confronting the conference.

The third plenary session, to which the press was admitted, met in Queen Anne's red and gold drawing room in the ancient palace built by King Henry VIII for Ann Boleyn, looked down upon by royal portraits illustrative of the bad taste of three centuries of English royalty.

Italy Submissive Temporarily.

This impressive gathering, seated around a three-sided table, with interpreters and secretaries in the center and two rows of correspondents from all over the world in gold chairs against four sides of the room, met for two reasons only.

One of these was to save the face of Italy following the overruling of Foreign Minister Dino Grandi by the other four powers on a question of procedure and method. The other was anxiety to give public opinion in all countries evidence that things are moving, in view of the time being used up in private negotiations.

Grandi had at first refused to permit discussion of the problem of how category limitation versus the global tonnage thesis is to be reconciled, demanding that before this came up each nation should state its maximum program in tons and ships. This represented the first "crisis" of the conference. It has continued for days and it was solved today by the temporary, perhaps only temporary, subsidence of Italy.

Between Two Fires.

The Italian thesis was one, it soon became apparent in private talks, which had to be overruled or the conference not only would not succeed, it wouldn't even begin. For the other powers were all unwilling to state figures in advance. Everybody was most polite to the Italians, but the inexorable logic of the situation made it clear at last, even to the Italians, that they would have to surrender or withdraw from the conference. The latter was tactically impossible for Italy if France remained to take part in a four-power agreement, so Italy yielded ground.

This withdrawal took place today in the public session of the conference and was concealed by Grandi's oratorical barrage. His speech, in its matter, though not in delivery, contained the meat of today's session. Italy, said Grandi, has placed two points on the agenda—determination

SPECULATION GROWS ON FORT TALK TODAY

ELECTION PLAN IS SEEN

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Speculation concerning the resignation of Representative Franklin T. Fort, of New Jersey, as secretary of the Republican national committee was heightened yesterday by the fact that he plans to speak an hour on prohibition in the House today.

It developed, in fact, that he had arranged for this speech, obtained permission to make it, on the same day that his disassociation from the national committee became known.

The fact that a member of either House or Senate makes a speech on prohibition these days is not either unusual or important. It does mean something that Mr. Fort intends to make one; it means something, indeed, when he makes a speech at all, which is to say that he is not one of those who is always on his feet.

Had Mr. Fort not resigned from the national committee there would have been a widespread belief that he was voicing Mr. Hoover's views when he spoke today. Now his remarks must be taken in the light of his retirement from the committee.

He spent virtually all of yesterday preparing his speech, and the speculation concerning the nature of it was as brisk as the whole series of events leading up to the announcement that he planned to make it.

Mr. Fort has been looked upon as a dry, but perhaps a borderline one. He has not taken any active part in the prohibition fight one way or the other.

There was a report that he has some "proposition" he wants to advance today. There are some, indeed, who said they would not be surprised to see him emerge as a wet, or at least preparing the way to become one.

This would, indeed, be a development of the first order, but one easily explained by the political situation in New Jersey. The State is wet. No one knows that better than Senator Hamilton F. Kean, who tried to get into the Senate as a dry and lost

CHEST COLLECTIONS NOW TOTAL $826,838

$64,941 Was Collected by Groups Yesterday, With Metropolitan Leading.

$1,786,737 IS 1930 GOAL

Collection of $64,941.04 swelled the total of contributions to the Community Chest yesterday, the first day of the general drive to raise the 1930 quota of $1,786,737.07.

Of yesterday's total, $51,301.94 was reported by the 2,000 workers in the metropolitan unit who presented their first report. This sum was obtained from 1,918 contributors and included $7,237 collected by region 5 from colored contributors.

Newbold Noyes, chairman of the special gifts committee, reported that his unit had collected an additional $9,375, while Frank R. Jelleff reported $4,364.10 collected by the group solicitation unit.

The total amount thus far collected by all units is $826,838.04, leaving still about the same amount to be obtained before the 1930 budget is completed, it was reported by John Poole, general chairman of the campaign.

Mr. Poole expressed confidence, however, that the full amount would be in hand before the campaign ends on February 8, particularly if an improvement in weather conditions occurs to render the work of the solicitors less difficult. To accomplish this, however, it will be necessary for collections to average $160,000 daily from now on.

In case the entire amount is not collected by February 6, however, the campaign managers are determined to continue the drive until the quota is reached. Daily meetings are to be held at headquarters throughout the campaign, at which each of the hundreds of teams will submit its report of collections for the day.

Much rivalry is developing among the teams in their efforts to lead all the others in amount of collections, and it is this spirit that the campaign leaders are relying upon to make the drive a complete success.

Gifts of $500 and over were reported

Long Skirt Styles Stick; Lenglen's Modes Awaited

Paris, Jan. 30 (A.P.)—The temporary lull in summer style shows here today gave everybody a chance to do some thinking with tape measures.

The American buying group is not agreed on the best length for sport skirts so far, but the average simmers down to something like 15 to 13 inches from the floor, which is slightly below the top of the calf.

Street and tailored clothes average an inch more, bringing them within a foot of the floor at some houses, but lie around the feet in billows and folds.

An Englishman who is dressmaker for the Court of St. James, but also operates in Paris, is responsible for the longest dresses dragged through salons thus far. Ruched tulle skirts yards wide are his contributions to the mode. Since this man is the favorite dressmaker of Queen Mary, making many gowns for court presentations, his ideas are taken seriously by French as well as by Americans.

What may be the final word in sports costumes will be uttered tomorrow when Suzanne Lenglen, the tennis star who now heads the sports department of a small house, presents her ideas of what's what for athletic women. Much interest is shown in her entry into haute couture.

Another personality in the style trade is Lady Diana Hope, who got her start in the trade as a shopgirl in New York and now operates a sport shop here.

Designers agree on restricting the hips, but the waistlines are to remain natural.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States of the ratio of strength between navies and determination of the maximum level of tonnage for the five powers.

"In these two points," he said, "the Italian delegation had meant to ask that the conference should determine the general principles and political criteria of disarmament. We should not fear to state that we are here not so much to solve a technical, but first and foremost, a political question. Any profitable debate on methods of limiting naval armaments can not disregard the following two points: First, on what basis of reciprocal relative strength is each of us prepared to accept limitation of our right and freedom of action in the matter of armaments? Secondly, do we really intend to envisage reduction of armaments?"

To Call Them Up Later.

This challenge was Grandi's barrage to cover his retreat, for he then announced that, since the conference was agreed that Italy's two points should remain on the agenda to be discussed later by the full conference, the Italian delegation is prepared to discuss the two French and one British proposal for determining a method of limitation before discussing figures. Italy, however, he added, won't commit herself on these questions "or any other special point of the disarmament problem until the two fundamental questions of determination of ratios and maximum levels of global tonnage have been settled." And he added this parting shaft: "Only by squarely facing the difficulties to which I have called our attention can we hope to attain our purpose, which is surely not that of limiting upward but of reducing armaments to the lowest possible level."

In contradistinction to this speech, the other orations today were noncontroversial. Secretary of State Stimson proposed appointment of a steering committee, a resolution afterward carried; Premier Andre Tardieu and First Lord of the Admiralty Albert Victor Alexander defended respectively the French and British preferences for limitation by category and freedom to build within global or all-inclusive tonnage figures.

Both Willing to Compromise.

But the French prime minister and the British first lord of the admiralty each made clear his willingness to compromise with the other nation's attitude, and Ambassador Hugh Gibson, for the United States, while supporting the British preference for category limitation, also showed that the Americans are with the British in readiness to compromise with the French when he said:

"We are not disposed to impress our theories upon other people who do not agree with them and it is this which has led us to accept the compromise proposals for discussion."

An amusing incident, the only laugh of any plenary session to date, marked Ambassador Gibson's immediate apology for an unintended slight on the French. A phrase in his speech was translated into French as referring to "the less important navies," and Tardieu in his following speech referred pointedly to the "naval powers who are not the first."

Gibson thought, or feared, that Tardieu's feelings had been wounded and insisted upon a public explanation in English and French that he meant "navies with less important building programs, and my words had no reference to their importance in the scheme of things."

British, French Much Closer.

After this Premier MacDonald, acting as chairman of the session, declared Secretary Stimson's resolution for creation of a steering committee carried, asked the powers to appoint as many representatives as they liked on it, and the plenary session adjourned.

It was then no surprise to hear MacDonald tell a press conference later that on the global versus the category method of limitation the British and French standpoints, though not agreed, were now close together.

"The partition between them," he said, "is so thin that if you placed a candle on one side you could see the light from the other."

Although the plenary session appointed a steering committee, it will not meet tomorrow, and its full membership does not yet appear to have been definitely chosen.

Adams, Gibson for U. S.

Ambassador Gibson and Secretary of the Navy Adams are the American members of it, and First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander and Robert Leslie Craigie, of the foreign office here, will probably be the British members. Rosso and Ruspoli will be the Italian members. The Japanese have decided on Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira and Admiral Takarabe. Grandi followed Stimson in announcing that he might be present at some meetings of the committee. Six experts from each power will be allowed.

The function of this committee, it was learned tonight, will be primarily to decide on method and on procedure; that is, in the last stages, weeks hence.

The steering committee may even draw up the draft of the five-power treaty which it is hoped to negotiate here, but where figures are to be mentioned they will leave blank spaces for the big five to fill in and a plenary session to confirm.

The American delegation tonight gave out the terms of the Anglo-French compromise on the global tonnage-category question, so far as this is yet settled. It is curious that neither the French nor British would give these details.

All But Italy Agree.

France proposes that each country shall name a minimum tonnage which it promises not to exceed during the life of the prospective treaty, presumably six years. Then it will give figures as to how this total or global tonnage is to be distributed among the various categories of ships. So far, all the powers except Italy are agreed.

Under the French plan, transfers may be made from one category to another provided a year's notice is given, but total global tonnage must remain the same. France proposes that there shall be six categories—battleships, cruisers with guns over 6 inches, other surface craft with guns of 6 inches or less (that is, small cruisers and destroyers), aircraft carriers, submarines, mine sweepers.

The British opposed with the following list of suggested categories: 1. Battleships. 2. Aircraft carriers. 3. Ten thousand-ton 8-inch gun cruisers. 4 and 5. Small cruisers and destroyers. 6. Submarines. 7. Minesweepers, &c.

U. S. Veers to British View.

The British also propose that there shall be no right of transfer excepting between classes 4 and 5, which are practically one, and here, despite the alleged Morrow-Tardieu agreement on transfers up and down last Saturday, it appears that the American delegation has stiffened along British lines and isn't prepared to welcome much, if any, transfer of power.

The British criticism of the French plan, which I believe is shared by the Americans to some extent, centers on three points. They object to the French lumping battleships and 8-inch gun cruisers together, which the French say is done with an eye on future conferences because they don't know whether to rate the German Ersatz Preussen, a ship that haunts this conference, as a battleship or a big cruiser.

The British don't like the category including ships between 8-inch and 6-inch guns, and neither do the Americans. The reason for this French move is the existence of French cruisers with guns of 7.6 inches and 6.1 inches.

Light Gun Category Objected To.

The third objection is to the French category including surface ships with guns under 6 inches, which includes not merely cruisers with 5.9 guns but big destroyer leaders, larger than the British. The Americans show interest in this category because Japan also has cruisers mounting 5.5-inch guns.

The American delegation in its last three meetings, including one today, has wrestled with these problems, among others, and it is hinted tonight that MacDonald's optimism at this morning's press conference was a little excessive, though no doubt is felt of eventual agreement.

It is certainly premature to say that this is nearly reached, for even if the British and French are not very far apart, the American and Japanese views, when put forward, will throw the compromise in the melting pot again.

Japanese Remain Silent.

The Japanese, who alone remained silent in the plenary session today, will continue their negotiations with the British and French experts, though not as yet with the Americans. Their claim for 70 per cent in big cruisers remains unabated, despite the fact that some observers see chances for bargaining there.

Today it was intimated by a Japanese spokesman that they are willing to scale down their figures for small cruisers to 70 per cent of America's small cruisers, which pleases the British because it involves a claim for only 49 per cent of the larger British fleet of small cruisers, which, it is thought, will gratify Australia.

Japan is also understood to have made a cut of 2,000 tons in submarine tonnage, from 80,000 to 78,000 tons, and they are now anxious to discuss what proportion of this shall be used in big submarines and what proportion in small ones.

5,000,000 Plea For U. S. Anthem

Giant Petition to Be Given Judiciary Committee of Senate Today.

A petition containing more than 5,000,000 names, urging that "The Star-Spangled Banner" be accepted officially as the national anthem, will be presented to the judiciary committee of the House of representatives at 10 o'clock this morning.

Final plans for presenting the petition were made at a meeting at D. A. R. Memorial Hall yesterday at which representatives of 40 patriotic and veterans' organizations were present, and at which Capt. Walter Irving Joyce, patriotic inspector of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, presided.

A colorful part of the presentation ceremony will be the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by Mrs. Elsie Jones Reilley, accompanied by an orchestra from the United States Marine Band.

Legge Denies Plan Of Cotton Buying

(Associated Press.)

Commenting on reports from New Orleans to the effect that cotton prices have declined $2 a bale there as a result of a statement by him to the effect that the Federal Farm Board will not buy cotton at prices higher than the market, Chairman Legge said yesterday that the board was not going to buy cotton or any other commodity at any price.

"Reports of what the board contemplates doing," Legge said, "evidently have been garbled. There has been no change whatever in the board's cotton-loan policy. The board will continue to make supplemental commodity advances to the cotton cooperative associations on the cotton loan value basis announced October 21, 1929, and has no intention of calling loans already made to these associations."

Legge explained that it was the American Cotton Cooperative Association that conducted market operations and not the Federal Farm Board.

HARMONY HELD AIM OF ITALIAN GESTURE

Grandi Explains Position as Proof He Desires Parley Success.

PARITY NOT ABANDONED

London, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Italy's position regarding her claim to naval parity with France and her willingness to have the question of global or categorical tonnage classification discussed first were explained tonight by Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister.

"We have today given clear proof that Italy has not the slightest intention to proceed to sabotage of the conference," said the Italian chief delegate to the foreign newspapermen after today's plenary session was over.

"We have no desire to prevent or even have the appearance of placing the smallest obstacle in the way of the five powers beginning examination and discussion of the procedure to be followed by the conference or of the technical questions of disarmament," he said. "Italy will collaborate to the best of her ability in such examinations and discussions, keeping constantly in view what should be the ultimate object of the London conference, namely, the reduction of the fleets of the principal powers of the world to the lowest level compatible with their national security.

Parity Stand Not Abandoned.

These Italian intentions, however, are subordinated to "the ultimate determination of the ratios of strength of each fleet and the fixation of maximum levels of total tonnage which in Italy's case mean the right to parity with whatever continental European state possesses the largest navy."

While Italy, concluded Signor Grandi, is therefore anxious to participate whole-heartedly in the work of the conference with the aim of reaching a reduction in naval armaments, he must insist that the question of the principle advanced by Italy as soon as it received the invitation to participate in the conference receive due consideration.

It was stated by members of the Italian delegation that, if the situation were examined carefully it would be found that Italy's claim has an eminently political character far exceeding the importance of any technical consideration and that unless Italy's claim were accepted it could not be expected that she would give up the basic right of sovereignty by which each independent state is the only arbiter of the forces it needs for its own security.

Hopes for Compromise High.

Great hopes were still entertained, it was said, that some kind of compromise may be reached, founded on a new solemn proclamation to be inserted in the treaty concluded at the London conference that all countries, however large or small, have the inherent right to settle for themselves the armaments they consider necessary for their security. Acceptance of the limitation of armaments would then not carry with it any implication of increasing or decreasing a country's rank in international status.

This hope of a proclamation was said to be strengthened by the fact that the work of the committee whose appointment was decided on today would last some time, thus giving ample opportunity for negotiations not only between France and Italy but also with the other delegations which, though showing unwillingness to enter into the merits of the Italo-French differences, desire to do their best to smooth the difficulties by helping to clarify the situation and to determine those questions of principle which may help in reaching a satisfactory solution.

Finally, much is expected in Italian quarters from the rest which the delegates will take over the week-end. The Italians hold that France cannot refuse Italy's right to have whatever fleets she considers necessary for her needs, while Italy, during her 80 years as an independent united nation, never equaled France's navy nor is likely to equal it in the near future, not certainly in the next six years, which is the duration of the understanding the present conference should bring about.

Ashland Man May Fight Robsion in Senate Race

Ashland, Ky., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Ben Williamson, Ashland businessman and philanthropist, late today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the short term in the United States Senate. If nominated in the primary this summer, he is expected to oppose John M. Robsion, whom Gov. Sampson appointed to succeed Senator Frederic M. Sackett, now Ambassador to Germany. Mr. Robsion is the only Republican candidate so far announced for the office. He is expected to make the race both to complete the unexpired term and for the long term to follow.

Judge M. M. Logan, of Bowling Green, a member of the State Court of Appeals, is the only announced Democratic candidate for the long term, and it is understood he will not seek the short term.

Bail Again Refused Wealthy Showman

Judge Decides Pantages Has Shown No Cause for Release.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Alexander Pantages, multimillionaire showman, in jail here pending his appeal from conviction of criminally assaulting 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, again today was refused release on bail. Superior Judge Fricke ruled that the showing made by Pantages' attorneys "is no more sufficient to justify release on bail than the last showing in the latter part of December."

Simultaneously Judge Fricke denounced what he called "ex parte efforts of members of the defendant's family to influence this court" to favor the release. He said Mrs. Lois Pantages had appealed in a three-page letter for consideration for her husband, saying he was "a very sick man" who was "needed at home by his sick wife and his children."

Pantages is under sentence of 1 to 50 years. Miss Pringle a few days ago brought suit against him for $1,000,000 damages for the alleged attack upon her last August 9, when as a dancer she went to his office here seeking a booking on his vaudeville circuit. Mrs. Pantages recently was granted ten years' probation following conviction of manslaughter for the death of a man in an automobile accident.

Liner Paris Weathers Gale.

Plymouth, England, Jan. 30 (A.P.). The French liner Paris arrived today after encountering fierce gales and mountainous seas. A few French passengers were injured by falls in the ballroom. Ship furniture was much damaged.

U.S. NAVAL CUT VIEW OUTLINED BY GIBSON

COMPROMISE IS HINTED

London, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Hugh S. Gibson, American Ambassador to Belgium and a member of the American delegation to the naval conference, in his speech at today's plenary session outlined the American position and gave a brief history of the global and categorical limitation questions.

"Roughly there are two schools of thought regarding naval limitation," he said, "that of limitation by categories and that of limitation by total tonnage. Limitation by categories fixes the tonnage which each country may use for each type of ship and thereby fixes the total tonnage. Limitation by the global method fixes the total tonnage for each navy and allows each country to apportion that tonnage among the various types of ships as it sees fit.

"When a complete deadlock occurred in 1927 (at the sessions of the preparatory disarmament conference) in an endeavor to accomplish this, the French delegate, M. Paul Boncour, brought forward a compromise proposal. This proposal was based upon the author's understanding of the inability of any power supporting one of these schools of thought to accept for its own navy the system advocated by the other school and has had a most important bearing upon the subsequent course of events.

American View Outlined.

"In modified form, it is one of the most important elements in our discussions today. The provision was that each of the high contracting parties, while keeping within the limits of total tonnage, could alter the employment of that tonnage as apportioned among various categories subject to one year's notice before laying down a portion of the tonnage transferred from one category to another.

Although there was no definite agreement at this stage as to the percentage of transfer, it was generally understood that deviation should be small.

"This compromise proposal was submitted to the American, Italian and Japanese governments. In setting forth the reasons for its inability to accept this plan, the American Government suggested a reexamination of the proposal of M. Boncour.

Discussion of Compromise.

"The American Government has consistently held the view that the method of limitation by categories is better calculated than any other method thus far devised to reduce international competition in the building of armaments and the feeling of mistrust, suspicion and insecurity inevitably attendant upon such competition.

"In brief, our conviction is that a strict system of limitation by categories affords a clear understanding as to the intentions of each naval power and affords a maximum of reassurance to all the parties to an agreement so that they can regard each other's programs without misgiving or alarm.

"While we feel that the system of limitations by categories affords the maximum benefits, still we recognize that smaller navies have inevitably a tendency toward specialization and we are not disposed to press our methods for the purpose of preventing such specialization. Further specialization can be taken care of under the category method. Nevertheless we are not disposed to impose our theories upon other people who do not agree with them and it is this which has led us to accept the compromise proposal for discussion."

JOURNEYS TO TOMB OF UNKNOWN LISTED

First Pilgrimage to Be From Iowa, State Society Is Told.

COMMITTEES ARE GIVEN

Col. H. E. Bullis, national chairman of the American Legion pilgrimage committee, spoke of the inauguration of a series of State pilgrimages to be made annually to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, at the January meeting of the Iowa State Society held last night at the Washington Hotel.

The plan, as arranged by the committee, provides for yearly pilgrimages hereafter by each State in the Union, and the first of these will be that of the State of Iowa, which will take place at 11 o'clock February 1.

The Girls' Glee Club of the American University sang several delightful songs and Dr. George MacLean former president of the University of Iowa, addressed the assemblage.

Committees were named to take charge of affairs for the following year and their names will appear in the Sunday paper.

Among those present were Representatives Gilbert Haugen, W. F. Kopp, T. J. B. Robinson, Charles Swanson, Ed Campbell, Representative and Mrs. F. Dickinson Letts, Representative Cyrenus Cole and Harry E. Hull, commissioner of immigration.

Following a brief business session, dancing began. Karl S. Hoffman, president, had charge of the program, while Mrs. Lily B. Lockwood arranged the interesting exhibit of Iowa products presented.

Many Unemployed, Says Federation

Union Members Out of Work Increased in January, Report Asserts.

(Associated Press.)

More trade-union members were reported by the American Federation of Labor to have been out of work in January "than even in the worst month two winters ago, when there was so much suffering from unemployment."

In its monthly survey of business, the federation said that reports from 24 cities showed that unemployment in trades-unions increased considerably in January. It said that 19 per cent of union members were out of work in January, as compared to 16 per cent in the preceding month.

"In the building trades 38 per cent of members are out of work, the largest proportion for January in the three years covered by our figures," it said.

It added, however, that "it seems probable that employment will increase shortly," and called attention to the figures made public during the last two weeks at the White House and the Labor Department showing an improvement in employment in the manufacturing industry for the first two weeks in January.

Blacksmith Is Suicide As Business Declines

Chicago, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—For many years George Smart clanged a merry tattoo on his anvil and hummed blythe tunes while he fashioned shoes for the horses of yesteryear.

Then the transition came. Fewer and fewer were the demands on the aged blacksmith's skill. Too many years freighted his shoulders to learn the new business of automobile repairing. Police battered down the door of his room today. They found the aged smithy dead, a suicide.

Lady Astor Proves Active As Naval Parley Hostess

Virginia-Born Member of Parliament Planning Week-End Affair.

London, Jan. 30 (A.P.). — A most active figure behind the scenes of the naval conference in a wholly unofficial way is Lady Astor, the Virginia-born member of Parliament. For ten days she has been holding numerous private gatherings to bring various delegates into touch with political leaders here.

Among those brought together in this way have been Gen. Smuts and Ambassador Dwight Morrow, David Lloyd George and United States Senators Robinson and Reed. Lady Astor is giving a large political party at her Thamesside residence this weekend.

Ile de France Sails Late.

Havre, France, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The French liner Ile de France sailed at 10 o'clock tonight, 24 hours late as the result of a strike of longshoremen. A temporary truce was arranged which permitted loading of the vessel, but many of its passengers had already gone to Cherbourg to catch the Aquitania.

CHAMBER RESERVES FARM AID CRITICISM

Recommends That Business Defer Judgment on Farm Board.

REPORT MEETS APPROVAL

(Associated Press.)

A recommendation that organized business defer judgment on the operation of the farm aid act for the time being was made to the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States yesterday by its agricultural service department committee.

Regarding resolutions urging the chamber to protest against the activities of the Farm Board, the committee recommended that no action be taken at this time. Its report was approved by the board of directors.

"While this committee is not united on the provisions of the act itself or on the interpretation of these provisions as thus far construed," the report of the committee said, "nevertheless it feels that in all justice and fairness to the act and to the Farm Board it would be premature for this committee to make recommendations to the board of directors on chamber policy in relation thereto."

Four Sessions Are Held.

The committee said it had held four sessions during the last two days "primarily to consider questions of chamber policy with respect to Federal Farm Board activities."

"It also has considered a number of letters and telegrams addressed to the committee, which directly or indirectly urge action by the chamber expressive of opposition to certain phases of the operation of the agricultural marketing act," it added. "The Federal Farm Board has been active only since July 15, 1929. Its policies still are in a formative stage."

A statement from the chamber last night said that its officers "feel that it is the present desire of organized business to extend sympathetic aid to the Farm Board in working out through this formative period its policies of helpfulness to agriculture."

To Withhold Criticism.

"Organized business," it added, "believes that in this spirit it can withhold at present criticism which might be misinterpreted as opposition, and maintain this attitude of helpfulness without surrendering any of its sturdy conviction as to the rights of private enterprise.

"Moreover, it believes that with care and study, the Farm Board can discharge its duty to develop cooperative organization and give it a fair chance to prove its economic efficiency without in the meantime violating the rights of private enterprise or inflicting needless injury to established business."

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the chamber, addressed to member organizations which had opposed the activities of the Farm Board, a letter saying that the chamber "is vitally interested in this whole question and through a very able committee is following developments from day to day in order to place itself in proper position to deal intelligently and constructively with the question."

Girl Wounded by Shot Intended for Bank Thug

Detroit, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—A 5-year-old girl was wounded today as she stepped in the way of a teller in the Peoples Wayne County Bank branch at Hamilton and Glendale avenues, Highland Park, as he was shooting at a man who escaped with approximately $500.

The wounded girl, Georgia Eldridge, was shot in the left hip. Surgeons at Highland Park General Hospital said her condition did not appear to be serious. Gilbert V. Schrock, a teller, fired four shots at the man as he fled to the street after receiving a stack of bills from the cage of another teller to whom he had handed a note demanding money. The girl was struck by one of the bullets. The robber escaped in an automobile.

STRAW HAT DUTIES PASSED BY SENATE

While their felts and derbies were drying from the snow which was falling on their way to work, members of the Senate concerned themselves nearly all day yesterday with straw hats and finally compromised this tariff controversy by approving increases in existing duties far below those carried in the Hawley-Smoot bill.

With this contest out of the way, the tariff debaters then considered an item more apropos of the weather so far as the women-folk are concerned—embroidered handkerchiefs. After a debate, the warmth of which at times contrasted with the chill of snow outside the Capitol, they agreed to a higher tariff on such handkerchiefs. This, too, was a rate lower than that proposed in the pending bill. All rates approved were sponsored by Democrats and supported by the Republican independents.

Several switches in Democratic ranks were recorded on the roll calls. Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, sponsored yesterday's compromise amendments, after losing four successive attempts Wednesday to cut materially the bill rates on hats, which in some instances would have provided lower rates than now in force.

Sewed straw hats, including chip hats, which are imported in large quantities from Italy, were assessed a duty of 88 per cent under the first Barkley amendment approved yesterday. The vote was 42 to 38, with 28 Democrats, 13 Republicans and the 1 Farmer-Labor senator—Shipstead, of Minnesota—supporting, and 34 Republicans and 4 Democrats opposing.

The rate compares with existing rates of 60 per cent on hats valued at more than $9.50 a dozen and 88 per cent on those worth $9.50 and less. The House and pending bills proposed a combination levy of $4 a dozen and 60 per cent.

In line with the 88 per cent duty on sewed hats, approval then was given to a 78 per cent levy for unsewed hats. This compared with 50 per cent as at present and $4 a dozen and 50 per cent in the House and pending bills.

FLINT BANKERS SOB AS THEY ENTER JAIL

11 Officials, Some Fathers, Will Serve Terms Up to 20 Years.

$3,593,000 IN SWINDLE

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Eleven bankers, formerly trusted executives and tellers of the Union Industrial Bank of Flint, exchanged their names for numbers today and began to serve terms in the Michigan State Prison here for their parts in the $3,593,000 defalcation of the Flint, Mich., financial institution.

The men arrived at the prison in charge of Sheriff F. A. Green, of Genesee County, and five of his deputies. Sad-eyed and weary, they filed into the reception rooms of the prison for questioning by the record clerks.

During the questioning occasional halts had to be called as the new prisoners broke down. One of them, the father of five children, sobbed bitterly while answering questions about his family.

For two weeks the eleven former bankers will remain in quarantine, which is similar to solitary confinement. Then they will be assigned to work, probably of a clerical nature.

Those entering prison today and their terms are: Ivan P. Christensen, former assistant cashier, 7½ to 20 years; Elton D. Graham, former vice president and cashier, 5 to 20 years; Milton D. Pollack, former assistant vice president, 5 to 20 years; Mark H. Kelly, former assistant vice president, 5 to 20 years; Russell A. Runyon, former discount manager, 5 to 20 years; Frank D. Montague, former assistant vice president, 3½ to 20 years; J. W. Barron, 2 to 20 years and A. J. Schlosser, 1 to 20 years.

Clifford A. Plumb, Robert P. Brown and Robert H. D. McDonald, 6 months to 20 years each.

The last four named were tellers.

Gas Plant Blast Kills Foreman, Injures Five

Fresno, Calif., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The new gasoline absorption plant of the Petroleum Securities Co., 18 miles southwest of Coalinga, was destroyed early today in a series of explosions and a fire which killed the foreman and injured five other men.

Loss was limited to the plant itself, constructed at a cost of $500,000 and opened for operation last Friday; 25,000 barrels of gasoline stored in tanks at the plant, and wet gas from the nearby Felix well, which the plant served. Charles L. Phillips, of Los Angeles, foreman of the night crew who would have been off duty had the blast been delayed only a few minutes, died as he tried to save the plant.

DRY TRANSFER BILL GETS RIGHT OF WAY

House Committee Decides to Report Measure; Debate Due Soon.

BORAH PRESSES CHARGES

(Associated Press.)

The prohibition discussion continued to bounce from pillar to post in Washington yesterday, but concrete developments were few.

The outstanding action was that by which the House expenditures committee decided unanimously to report the Williamson bill to transfer dry enforcement from Secretary Mellon's bailiwick to that of Attorney General Mitchell. Legislative right of way was assured the bill by House Republican leaders. Next week promises another furious debate as a result.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, wrote to Prohibition Commissioner Doran, naming Frank S. Flynn, of the dry unit, as his informant concerning charges against John F. J. Herbert, administrator in the Idaho-Montana District. The Idaho Republican demanded that the charges be refuted or else that Mr. Herbert be dismissed.

Doran Reply Awaited.

Mr. Doran had made no public reply last night. Senator Borah has despaired of prohibition ever being enforced "with the present personnel from top to bottom," and is expected at the Capitol to follow through to the end his position in regard to Herbert.

Meanwhile, a liquor angle developed in the Supreme Court, where Lem and Ophelia Motlow asked for a review of the Government's action in seizing property rented to the Jack Daniel Distillery Co. of S. Louis.

The Government seized the property for failure to pay $20,000 in taxes on whisky lost in a bonded warehouse belonging to the Motlows. They contended the Government had not proved the whisky had been stolen by the Jack Daniel Co.

The report on the prohibition unit transfer bill is to be filed tomorrow by Chairman Williamson, of the expenditures committee, along with statements from committee members who oppose the amendment to place the regulation of industrial alcohol permits granted by the Treasury under the Attorney General.

Representative Colton (Republican), Utah, and Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, served notice on the committee that they with Representatives Swing (Republican), California, and Letts (Republican), Iowa, will lead a fight in the House for the amendment's elimination. They contend no Cabinet officer should be deprived of the right to regulate a bureau, the responsibility with which he is charged.

The controverted amendment was sponsored by Representative Schafer (Republican), of Wisconsin. Under the original draft the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General would have drawn up the regulations jointly.

Dismissals Provided For.

Another amendment sponsored by Mr. Schafer was adopted, to provide for the dismissal of all officers and employes of the bureau who the Attorney General finds have heretofore violated or who in the future violate any penal provisions of the Federal prohibition laws.

Other changes would require that the Attorney General investigate permits already granted wherever necessary. He would file with the Secretary of the Treasury copies of violations of the dry law from which civil liability for taxes and penalties have accrued under either the prohibition or revenue laws.

The Secretary of the Treasury would be required to file with the Attorney General reports on proceedings for revocations of alcohol permits issued for more than 90 days.

Sheriff Is Exonerated In Liquor-Raid Killing

Lewisville, Ark., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Sheriff R. H. Duty of Lafayette County stood exonerated today of firing a shot that killed Oscar Call, 26, in a liquor raid near here last Sunday. Justice C. V. Bray conducted a hearing yesterday in which he ruled that the killing was "justifiable."

Sheriff Duty and Deputy Sheriff Bryan Cryer testified that they had fired without intention of hitting Call or his two companions who fled from a still at the approach of the officers.

Brickbats & Bouquets

—By JAMES HAY, JR.—

THIS town is full of weird and mysterious fellows who slink behind parked cars with the agile grace of the phantom panther, leap around corners as if they had been shot out of a gun, train their whiskers across their eyes and step so lightly that, when wearing snowshoes, they can run up and down the keyboard of a piano without sounding a note.

They are investigators, they say, either hired men or volunteers, and they know all about what's going on in the Prohibition Bureau.

One of them came to see us. After curling the end of his beard into his left eyebrow and peering knowingly under the table to see that it concealed neither a detectograph nor Andy Mellon, he seated himself gingerly on the edge of a chair, thrust his elongated and prehensile proboscis into our face, and announced in a hollow whisper like the half-muted echo of despairing yell into an empty rain barrel:

* * * *

"THE prohibition service is shot to pieces with discouragement, rebuffs and rebukes! No morale there at all!"

He drew furtively from his breast pocket a wad of documents big enough to fill a steamer trunk.

"Here!" he said, and brandished affidavits, carbon copies and bulletins until they crackled and popped like a Christmas saddle. "I've got the goods on them!"

"Goods on whom?" we inquired, all aghast, as Bill Dwyer said he was the time somebody offered his hero a drink.

"Big men who import liquor!" The words whistled through his gnashing teeth. "Farmers who own stills in Maryland and Virginia! Cases worked up by loyal agents who, by some malign power, are compelled to lay off and never prosecute!"

He riffled his papers and ran through an astoundingly long list of offenses unpunished. He gave dates, places and names. He told of whisky hauled hither and yon, brandy whisked from boat to cellar, and prohibition agents transferred, hamstrung and gagged.

* * * *

"EVERYBODY knows these things!" He glared savagely. "Everybody knows all about the lost morale down there!" He waved wildly toward the Treasury. "The boys talk. It's a damnable scandal!"

What, I asked him, did he propose to do about a situation so plainly outrageous and un-American?

"Threw a bomb into 'em!" he shrieked. "Tell it to Borah! There's the boy to put a grain of corn in their shoes! The whole town full of investigators, gossip, rumor and facts, and congressmen the only people who don't know how morale is crucified by political pull! Maybe they can't hear anything from listening to each other's wet and dry wranglings. But I'll be the speaking trumpet that goes straight to their eardrums. Watch me!"

Whereupon, he rushed out and fell into step with the army of investigators who, at that moment, happened to be marching past our window on their way to tell Mr. Borah and his brethren what ailed prohibition from top to bottom. At present prohibition information is the cheapest, most plentiful, and most unreliable product in Washington.

HOWELL BILL GOES TO COMMISSIONERS

Dry Enforcement Act Is Sent With Request to Report Back to Senate.

BRIDE MAY DISAPPROVE

The Howell bill to put a drastic prohibition enforcement act on the local statute books was sent to the District Commissioners yesterday, along with a request that they make a report on it to the Senate District committee.

The Commissioners will turn the bill over to Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride, who is their legal adviser and who is expected to disapprove of several of its harsh provisions, just as was done by Attorney General Mitchell.

When Senator Robert G. Howell (Republican), of Nebraska, was framing his bill, he sent rough drafts of it to both Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Bride. Both sent it back to him with a recommendation that he prune from it certain of its more drastic provisions.

Howell, however, insisted on retaining in the bill a provision to authorize a policeman to apply for a search warrant to raid a private home to which liquor has been delivered or from which it has been removed. Attorney General Mitchell thought this was too drastic, and told Howell so. Whether it was among the provisions vetoed by Corporation Counsel Bride is not known, as his report was not made public.

Senator Cole L. Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, who admits he takes a drink and is opposed to prohibition personally, declared in the Senate yesterday that he was a political dry and would most certainly vote for the Howell bill. He said this in commenting on a story in The Post which listed him as a wet.

Blease said that no matter what his individual views on prohibition might be, his constituents were in favor of it, and therefore he would vote as they wanted him to vote.

Representative Loring Black (Democrat), New York, said that the Howell bill was the most recent "legislative atrocity" to visit Washington and that its advent was the ultimate example of taxation without representation being tyranny.

"Reformers," he said, "want to make Washington a warren of guinea pigs. Its people are to be specimens for all the noble experiments of the visiting Pharisees."

and then turned modificationist, and succeeded.

Just now the Antisaloon League of that State, taking advantage of Mr. Hoover's prohibition policy, is making a strong battle for control of the State and the indications are that Mr. Hoover will decide with it in a few days in the case of Col. Arthur P. Foran, comptroller of the Port of New York, whom the league is fighting. Both New Jersey senators say if Mr. Foran is not reappointed a Democratic senator will be elected this year.

But regardless of the source Mr. Fort's speech takes today, his resignation from the national committee is being attributed to more than the business reasons which he stated. Authoritative political opinion was that Mr. Fort is preparing the way to gratify his ambition to run for governor in 1931 after all, and that he considered his association with the administration a handicap.

At least, he is believed to have come to the conclusion that it was no asset.

This is not to suggest that there has been any split between Mr. Fort and the President. It is to say that the secretaryship of the national committee was not worth the political risk that it entailed. In this position he was associated with the administration and naturally circumscribed in his actions and his speeches. As a matter of fact, considerable was written at the outset of the Hoover administration that he was to be the Hoover spokesman in the House.

Now men do not object to basking in such a glow as this if there are any returns. In Mr. Fort's case there have been none. He is believed to have been greatly disappointed that he did not get the senatorship in succession to Walter E. Edge, now Ambassador to France. He had reason to believe that his closeness to Mr. Hoover would assist him in this, but if the administration used any influence at all it was in behalf of Ambassador Morrow, who was selected to make the race with the organization support. And it is the impression that Mr. Fort could get no assurance that he would have any administration assistance in his gubernatorial aspirations. Under the circumstances it is very reasonable that he should weigh the worth of the committee secretaryship and decide that the best thing is to strike out for himself.

Anyway, considerable interest will attach to his speech today.

Heiress, 61, to $500,000 Is Found Dead of Fumes

Chicago, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Mrs. Elizabeth Welge, 61, heiress to an estate valued at $500,000, was found asphyxiated today under circumstances which indicated she had taken her own life. She inherited the estate from her father the late Peter Britten, wealthy commission merchant.

The body was found in the kitchen of Mrs. Welge's cousin's home, where she had been living. All jets in the gas stove had been turned on. A pet canary had been taken from the kitchen and placed in a bedroom, out of the reach of the lethal fumes. She left a note indicating despondency over ill health.

BROOKHART CLAIMS NEW RUM EVIDENCE

HOOVER NAME ON ROSTER

(Associated Press.)

A rough and tumble prohibition debate swept over the tariff-occupied Senate yesterday after Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, read part of a letter reporting that "real gin cocktails" and "fish house rum punch" are served in the Century Club in New York City.

Refusing to name the author of the letter, Senator Brookhart fought back at the wets when they challenged his assertions that "booze conditions" in New York City have improved.

Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, told Senator Brookhart if he made a diligent search he could find 50 such clubs in any of the larger cities of the country.

Senator Brookhart replied to Tydings that he "belongs to that crowd which is absolutely crazy on this liquor issue."

Copeland Enters Debate.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, insisted the Iowa dry was "blind and deaf" in picturing an improvement of prohibition enforcement in New York City. The answer given him was that "even the policemen in New York City have to go to Canada to get their booze."

The Iowan warned that he had "more fish to fry later." He said he sent the letter to Chairman Wickersham, of the Law Enforcement Commission, with the "hope that at an early day he will be ready to advise us how to stop these violations of the liquor law in the Century Club, 7 West Forty-third street, New York."

Once before Senator Brookhart reported to the Senate some liquor drinking at a dinner party he attended in Washington, but after an investigation, the District grand jury failed to take any action.

Portion of Letter Read.

The portion of the letter read by Senator Brookhart was undated and unsigned. It bore the heading, "Century Club, 7 West Forty-third street, New York City," and read:

"With all the chaotic conditions now surrounding the enforcement of the Volstead act, why not inquire some time about the special privilege accorded this association where real gin cocktails are served at the monthly dinner usually attended by 100 to 150 members, and then consider the wonderful fishhouse rum punch that appeared at the last New Year Eve celebration?"

Senator Copeland wanted to know if Senator Brookhart actually had been in the club. The Iowan replied that he had not, and the New Yorker said, "I wondered, because I can't get in there with a pickax." Senator Brookhart observed that Senator Copeland was "personally dry."

Bingham Asks Author.

Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, demanded that Senator Brookhart name the author, but he declined with the remark that he would have more to report later.

When Senator Brookhart had said that conditions have improved in New York, Senator Copeland inquired, "What conditions? Financial conditions?"

"Booze conditions," shouted back the Iowan, while the Senate and the galleries roared with laughter.

"With the exception of those who naturally turn aside from a bad habit in a decade," replied Senator Copeland, "I am here to say that in my opinion every man in New York State who drank liquor ten years ago and is now alive, is drinking liquor today and can get it.

Conditions in New York.

"Further, in my opinion, there have been more accessions to the ranks of the drinkers in this ten years than in any other decade that I can remember. I believe that in New York State today, and perhaps in every State—certainly in every State I know anything about—there are more persons drinking liquor now than did ten years ago and that consumption of liquor disposed of by these people is greater than ten years ago."

Senator Brookhart contended that "no law in the history of the world has been so successful."

"I will admit that," Mr. Tydings said. "There is no liquor on the outside for those who don't want it and the people who want it have all they want on the inside—so both sides are satisfied."

Plenty of Liquor, Is Claim.

"In New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Baltimore, San Francisco and New Orleans he will find plenty of places, if he is diligent, where he can get all the liquor he wants."

"I can get all I want right here now," broke in Mr. Brookhart. "I will call the senator's attention to this fact: When Chicago had 7,000 open saloons she had 12,000 speak-easies—12,000 of them—paying licenses to the Government of the United States in violation of the State law."

The Maryland wet reported that 813 people died of alcoholism last year and the Government seized 250,000 stills. Computing the consumption of liquor on the basis of these statistics, Mr. Tydings said it must be the same today as before prohibition.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, suggested to Mr. Brookhart that he was violating the Volstead act by advertising where liquor can be obtained. Senator Brookhart said he was not worried about that because of the guarantee of privilege to senators, and added, "So I am not particularly alarmed at the 'nigger shooter' from the senator from Wisconsin."

Denison to Face Trial On St. Valentine's Day

Representative Edward E. Denison, of the Twenty-fifth District of Illinois, will be placed on trial on St. Valentine's Day, according to announcement yesterday by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover.

Denison was indicted several months ago on a charge of possessing liquor in violation of the Volstead act. The charge against him was unusual, since in ordinary cases of possession the United States attorney's office has made no attempt to indict.

FRANK SHORE HELD IN COURT CONTEMPT

Judge Will Pass Sentence Today for Padlock-Order Violation.

WOMAN IS ACQUITTED

Justice Wendell P. Stafford in the District Supreme Court yesterday declared that Frank Shore, proprietor of a tire shop on New York avenue northwest, was guilty of contempt of court for violating a temporary padlock injunction which had been obtained against him under the provisions of the Volstead act.

Justice Stafford in handing down his opinion, announced that he would pass sentence some time today. He permitted Shore to remain on bond.

Miss Mae Money, said to be an employe of Shore, and who was jointly named with him in the petition for contempt, was acquitted by the court.

Shore and Miss Money are alleged to have violated an injunction secured during last May by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Assistant Harold W. Orcutt. The defense was represented by Attorneys William E. Leahy and James Reilly.

Testimony was to the effect that the premises occupied by Shore were raided some time in the spring and that the court, during the month of May, issued a temporary injunction against the premises. It also was testified that at the time of the raid by the police which preceded the temporary injunction a quantity of liquor had been found.

Choral Festival Plans Announced

Pretentious Schedule of Concerts Is Listed for Rest of Season.

The recently organized Washington Choral Festival Association announces quite a pretentious schedule of concerts for the remainder of the winter season and spring. The first rehearsal of the chorus will take place Tuesday evening, February11, under the direction of Frederick Alexander, director of the Ypsilanti Choir.

The new association is a result of the merger of the District Federation of Music Clubs and the Washington Church Music Council. In the past these two organizations have put on a spring choral concert at Central High School, with well-known directors from different sections of the country conducting.

This year National Music Week will be observed the first week in May, and on Wednesday, May 7, in the Belasco Theater, the Association will present singes of Washington in a festival program under the direction of Mr. Alexander.

Officers of the association are H. Barrett Learned, president; Mrs. Joseph M. Stoddard, first vice president; the Rev. James R. Duffield, second vice president; Miss Grace Dunham Guest, third vice president; Charles D. Boyer, treasurer, and Mrs. Gertrude Lyons, assistant treasurer and secretary.

Horse's Kick May Save Life of Tumor Victim

Withee, Wis., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The horse that kicked Carl Gorsegner in the face last April and injured one of his eyes, saved the man's life, oFrsegner's doctor believes.

The eye was removed this week at a Marshfield, Wis., hospital. A nexamination of the eyeball revealed that Gorsegner, prior to the accident, was suffering from cancerous tumor, which, his physician said, would probably have cost the man his life.

Perjury Charge Preferred As Jury Frees Rum Suspect

Defendant Acquitted of Violating Jones Act, But Testimony Leads Attorney to File Charges; Prisoner Is Jailed Again.

Because a jury in the District Supreme Court yesterday afternoon found Irvin Rosenberg not guilty on a charge of violating the Jones act, Assistant United States Attorney Walter M. Shea refused to try another liquor case before the same panel and asked the court to continue the case until February, when a new petit jury will be in attendance.

At the same time Mr. Shea preferred a charge of perjury against Rosenberg for the testimony the latter is alleged to have given in the trial of his own case. Justice Peyton Gordon, before whom the case was heard, committed Rosenberg to jail pending a hearing before a United States commissioner on a warrant which Shea said he would swear to. Testimony at the trial was to the effect that a policeman and a prohibition agent followed an automobile into a garage at 1627 U street northwest and that Rosenberg got out of the automobile and ran. It also was testified that he was captured before he left the garage, and that no one else was in the machine at the time. Testimony also was to the effect that a quantity of liquor was found in the automobile.

Rosenberg, in his own defense, declared that he was only a passenger in the automobile and that he had accompanied the driver of the vehicle to the garage on a promise that he would be given a bottle of whisky. Rosenberg's statement, according to Mr. Shea, will be the basis for the perjury warrant. Attorney Myron G. Ehrlich represents Rosenberg. Rosenberg is one of ten persons under indictment for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in connection with the alleged operation of Herbert and David Glassman.

CHILDS GIVES $100,000

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 30.—Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, and George Hewitt Myers, of Washington, are donors of substantial gifts to the School of Forestry of Yale University made public here today.

Their benefactions are among three to the institution to be devoted to education, experiment and demonstration in applied forestry. In effect, the gifts, all closely related in purpose, constitute a new project of the School of Forestry to supplement and greatly strengthen its work and facilities.

The Charles Lathrop Pack Foundation established last year by Mr. Pack, a resident of Lakewood, N. J., and well known in Washington, has been increased to $325,000 as another among various contributions he has made for the advancement of forestry to other institutions and organizations. The income from his foundation at Yale will be used in part for development of a tract of almost 8,000 acres in forest land in Tolland and Windham Counties, Conn., given by Mr. Myers.

Mr. Myers is a graduate of Yale College in the class of 1898 and of its forestry school in its first class of 1902. He had previously given to the university, forest land in Keene, New Hampshire, which has been developed into an important research and demonstration forest. He has recently been appointed curator of textiles in Yale's gallery of fine arts.

The third gift, in the amount of $100,000, has been given for endowment by Mr and Mrs. Starling W. Childs, of New York. The former is a graduate of Yale in the class of 1891.

Announcement also was made of the appointment of Nathan D. Canterbury, former State forester of Louisiana, as director of the new Yale Forest under the Charles Lathrop Pack Foundation.

Court Gives Mack Use Of Moran and Mack Title

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Charles E. Mack, manager and owner of the famous blackface team "The Two Black Crows," still has a legal right to use the name "Moran and Mack."

A superior court judge today dissolved a temporary injunction sought by George E. Moran to restrain Mack from billing his vaudeville act or motion pictures as "Moran and Mack." The order was dissolved because of technical errors in the pleading and ten days were given to file an amended complaint. Moran's complaint stated his real name is George Searcy and that Mack's is Charles E. Sellers.

DIOCESE IN SORROW AT BISHOP'S DEATH

FREEMAN GIVES TRIBUTE

Exactly 78 days from the time when, on November 13, the House of Bishops, in solemn conclave, elected the Right Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, Bishop of Chicago and chairman of the House of Bishops, to the office of presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America in Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral, word was received at Mount St. Alban of his death in Chicago yesterday.

A wave of sorrow swept through the diocese and the Cathedral offices and buildings as the news of the passing of Bishop Anderson spread. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, was in New York but when apprised of Bishop Anderson's death by long distance telephone he dictated the following tribute to the memory of the primate:

"The death of Bishop Anderson removes one of the foremost figures of the church in America. Rarely gifted as a prophet, he reached the supreme climax of his great ministry in the noble utterance he gave at the opening of the general convention in Washington in October, 1929. Bishop Anderson was possessed of a commanding personality, a voice of singular power and a well regulated and well stored mind.

Elected After Deadlock.

"He assumed his office of presiding bishop in face of a serious malady but did so with characteristic courage and determination. I mourn him not only as a great prophet and platform orator but as a devoted and unfailing friend of many years."

Bishop Anderson was the second presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church to die of heart failure within a period of five months.

Bishop Leonard to Preside.

In the interim between the election of a new presiding bishop to serve until the Denver General Convention in September, 1931, the Right Rev. William A. Leonard, Bishop of Ohio and formerly rector of St. John's Church, Lafayette Square, will be the head of the Episcopal Church in this country. Bishop Leonard will issue the call for a special session of the House of Bishops for the purpose of electing a successor to Bishop Anderson.

Bishop Leonard sailed from New York yesterday on the liner Statendam for a cruise of the West Indies. A radiogram was sent to him by the Right Rev. Hugh L. Burleson, assessor to Bishop Anderson, telling him of the presiding bishop's death. An answer is expected momentarily naming a bishop to issue the call for the special session for him on account of his absence from this country.

There is a likelihood that the special session of the House of Bishops will be held in New York City or at the Washington Cathedral.

Both Sides See Victory In House Seat Contest

(Associated Press.)

Counsel for both Representative McCloskey and the contestant for his seat from the Fourteenth Texas District, Harry M. Wurzbach, said yesterday that proof to substantiate their respective claims had been found in the counting of ballots cast in Precinct 13 by the House subcommittee on elections.

Hugh R. Robertson, Wurzbach's attorney, contended that the tally-sheet taken from the box showed indisputably that 50 votes had been altered, as alleged, to aid in turning the election to McCloskey. John H. Bickett, jr., McCloskey's representative pointed to the total number of ballots found by the committee count as "absolutely disproving the charge of fraud."

Auto Firm Can Exercise Rum Cars Lien, Ruling

Denver, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—A corporation which in good faith sells an automobile on the installment plan can exercise its lien if the car is seized for transportation of liquor, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Tenth District held today.

The opinion was in an appeal filed by the C. I. T. Corporation which sued in the Federal District Court for Kansas to enforce a mortgage for $1,035.35 on a car seized and sold by Federal authorities after Calvin Humbered was convicted of transporting liquor in it. The car was purchased by Humbered in the name of Earl Smith and the court held that although the C. I. T. Corporation might have known Humbered was a "questionable character," it was entitled to the car because of the Smith title.

Weather Man Takes Hand In Post's $20,000 Contest

Old Man Opportunity Seeks Armistice as Snow Holds Back Workers in Campaign; But It's a Break for Late Starters, He Says.

Old Man Opportunity was busily engaged in fastening a white handkerchief to a cue stick purloined from a neighboring billiard parlor.

"What's the idea?" asked C. D. Chance, who walked into the room bent almost double under a weight of snow.

"This is a flag of truce," answered the old man. "I'm going out and make by peace with Old Man Weather. He wins. I wouldn't have challenged him if I had realized that he had anything like this in his bag of tricks."

"I agree with you," answered Chance. "How can we expect candidates in our $20,000 Opportunity Campaign to get out after subscriptions for The Post when even the electric cars get stalled?"

"By the way, Did you find our tandem bicycle yet?"

"Oh, yes," answered C. D. Chance. "It was right where we parked it, but one of the traction company's sweepers had been along and buried it under a drift. I took it down to a sporting goods store and traded it in for a toboggan."

"Well, the big burden of this campaign is up to you now, C. D.," Old Man Opportunity went on. "I've knocked at the door of everyone in this territory and told them of the opportunity to secure a wonderful new automobile, radio or liberal cash commissions by taking subscriptions for The Washington Post during their spare time. Now you've got to make them 'see de chance' to win."

"I can sure do that, Chief," enthused Chance. "All I've got to do is show new candidates how this bad weather has kept early entrants from making much progress and that with our present bonus of 100,000 extra votes for every $20 worth of new subscriptions turned in before 9 p. m., on February 19, those who enter the campaign this week can quickly take their place with the leaders and at the conclusion of the campaign receive a beautiful new automobile."

"Be sure and tell them that it doesn't cost a penny to participate in the contest, either now or later," reminded Opportunity, "and that they need not even be subscribers to The Post to enter."

"As for you," he said, addressing the City Editor, "I wish you would just inform your readers that my offices are located with the Campaign Manager on the fifth floor of The Post Building and that I welcome visitors there between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m., daily, and on Sundays and evenings by appointment."

"Well, I must be off to discuss an armistice with the Weather man * * * See you all later."

KILLINGS, BOMBING MARK CHICAGO DAY

Pair Shot Dead, Another Is Mortally Wounded and Store Demolished.

HOODLUMS ARE HUNTED

Chicago, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The underworld was searched today for the perpetrators of three crimes which left two men shot to death, another dying of bullet wounds and a mass of debris to mark the place where a powerful bomb played havoc with a wholesale grocery firm.

The slain men were Barney Mitchell, treasurer of the Checker Taxi Co., and George Jackson, a Checker cab driver. Both were found dead in Jackson's bullet-splintered car. John Genaro, reputed racketeer, was shot down by two gunmen after he had been "put on the spot" at a Chinatown restaurant.

With five bullet wounds portending his death, Genaro "sang to the cops," violating one of gangland's unwritten laws by "squawking." He named Louis de Luccha and Angelo Lucci as his assailants and accused James Belcastro of "putting him on the spot." Belcastro was arrested, but denied complicity in the shooting.

Threatening Letters Bared.

The wholesale grocery wrecked by the bomb was owned by John J. Culotta, who told police he suspected extortionists of the plot. He turned over letters in which he had been threatened and was placed under a police guard. The blast, leveling the $100,000 grocery building, shattered windows in structures two blocks away and injured nearly a score of persons by falling glass and flying debris.

As the slayers of the taxi company official and cab driver, police sought a gang of hoodlums who had served as body guards for the taxi officials during recent troubles. When Federal receivership proceedings placed the taxi company under the supervision of a lawyer, the hoodlum body guards were cut off the pay roll. Police said it appeared the hoodlums "got" Mitchell because he refused to meet their demands for money.

Taxi Officers Sought.

Robert McLaughlin, president of the taxi company, was sought for questioning, but police could not find him and thought perhaps he had gone into hiding in fear of his life.

Max Raifman, secretary of the cab company, was also sought after Deputy Police Commissioner Thomas Wolfe announced he had learned that the cab in which Mitchell's body was found had called for Mitchell at Raifman's home.

Mitchell and Jackson were found in the cab with nearly a dozen wounds in their bodies. The killers apparently had been passengers in the cab, since all the shots appeared to have been fired within the taxi.

Shipstead to Return To Panama for Health

(Associated Press.)

Senator Shipstead (Farmer Labor), Minnesota, who returned to Washington recently from Panama, where he had gone to regain strength after a long illness, again will leave for the isthmus next week after attending to some business here.

It was said at the senator's office yesterday that he is improving rapidly and that his doctors feel he needs a little more rest in a warmer climate to return him to normal health.

RUM RAID GUN FIGHT COSTS DEPUTY'S LIFE

SIX MEN ARE ARRESTED

Albuquerque, N. Mex., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—State and Federal officers joined forces today and arrested six men in a second attack on an alleged band of bootleggers who last night killed a deputy sheriff in a gun battle when a group of officers raided a Sandia Mountain ranch, 26 miles from here.

The mountain fastness bristled with gunfire last night when the officers swept into one of the remote regions where people of pioneer stock still live to themselves and where each man makes his own laws. Deputy Sheriff Emilio Candelaria was shot to death and one of the alleged bootleggers was wounded.

Gregario Espinosa, 45, stands charged with first degree murder for the death of Deputy Candelaria. Five other farmers, alleged to be moonshiners, are in jail in Albuquerque and another is sought by officers.

One Farmer Is Shot.

Held also in connection with the killing of Deputy Candelaria are Procopio Espinosa, brother of Gregario, who admitted that he killed the deputy sheriff; Augustine Jaramillo, nephew of the Espinosas; Santos Gonzales, Rosendo Garcia and Lland Maurico Garcia, brothers. Juan Gonzales is being sought by the sheriff's office. Jaramillo is suffering from gunshot flesh wounds in the leg and arm. His condition is not serious.

Last night, accompanied by two aids, Federal Prohibition Agent C. U. Findley went to Procopio Espinosa's house with a search warrant. Agent Findley was reading the search warrant to Procopio and his assistants were preparing to search the place when Gregario and the other men encountered the four deputy sheriffs who had surrounded the house.

There were threats and curses, the officers said, and Gregario saw Deputy Candelaria raise his head from a place where he lay prone on the ground.

Deputy Sheriff Killed.

"There's one of them," Gregario shouted, and shot Candelaria in the face with a shotgun charge, the officers declared.

Both the farmers and deputy sheriffs then began firing. Agent Findley left his men to help the deputy sheriffs and drove to Barton, where he telephoned Sheriff Philip Hubbell, at Albuquerque, for assistance.

Meanwhile the deputy sheriffs worked their way to Deputy Candelaria's body and dragged it into the woods. There they waited until a dozen more Federal prohibition agents and deputy sheriffs, headed by Sheriff Hubbell and Charles Stearns, Federal prohibition administrator for New Mexico, arrived.

The posse surrounded the ranch house and demanded the surrender of the men within. Apparently the killing had subdued the farmers. The officers rushed the place and no more shooting was done, although there were fist fights.

JUDGMENT IS FILED AGAINST FOX FILMS

FIRM STATES INCOME

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The Chase National Bank of New York filed a default judgment for $353,740 against the Fox Film Corporation today in the county clerk's office, based on a note for $400,000 made by the company last December 9 and payable on December 28.

According to papers filed in the action, the film company paid $46,238 on the note on December 30, but failed to answer within 20 days when served with a complaint on January 9.

Simultaneously with this action in the State courts, William Fox, in answer to two suits brought to establish an equity receivership for the Fox Film Corporation, filed an affidavit in Federal court stating that his company for the nine months ended September 29, 1929, had a net income of $8,725,955 available for dividends.

Formation of a protective committee to safeguard the interests of holders of Fox Film Corporation 6 per cent gold notes, due next April 1, was announced tonight. The members are: George W. Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co.; Andrew J. Miller, of Hallgarten & Co.; Frederick T. Moses, president of the Firemen's Mutual Insurance Co., of Providence, R. I., and William Buchsbaum, vice president of Barstow, Tyng & Co., Inc.

The committee, which claimed to represent holders of a large block of the notes, sent a letter to noteholders requesting them to deposit in its name all notes, with coupons maturing April 1 attached.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., also sent out a letter to noteholders urging them to deposit their notes promptly with the committee. The letter said the Halsey Co. was advised that counsel for the committee believed Fox Corporation had defaulted in performance of certain of its covenants in the notes "by incurring indebtedness prohibited in such covenants."

Sentence of 14 Years Given Former Pastor

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—William P. Noffsinger, 66, a former minister and former secretary-treasurer of the Tricounty Mutual Protective Insurance Co., was sentenced to two to fourteen years' imprisonment today when he pleaded guilty to embezzlement. Noffsinger pleaded guilty to having misappropriated $850 of the funds of the insurance company, which has headquarters in Muncie. An investigation by Milton Alexander, State insurance department investigator, disclosed that Noffsinger was short more than $52,000 of the company's funds.

Much of the money, it was said, was expended on Mrs. Margaret Shaffer, formerly of Indianapolis and Terre Haute. Authorities planned to question Mrs. Shaffer after Noffsinger accused her of "blackmailing" him.

Investigation Refused In Garvan Dye Charges

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Assistant Attorney General Watson Washburn, head of the State bureau of securities, today notified Francis P. Garvan, president of the Chemical Foundation, that he could find no basis for an investigation by his bureau into the sale of $30,000,000 worth of securities of the American I. G. Chemical Corporation, recently demanded by Mr. Garvan.

Mr. Garvan charged that the advertisement of the bond issue was intended to deceive the American public into the belief that the proceeds were to be used to foster chemical development in the United States, whereas, he said, a German combine, controlling the American corporation, was using the money raised to gain control of the American chemical industry.

What Four Great Writers Say of the Bible

ITS WONDERFUL LITERARY AND MORAL VALUE

Macaulay Says: "If everything else in our language should perish, the Bible would alone suffice to show the whole extent of its beauty and power."

When Walter Scott Lay Dying, he said to his son-in-law: "Lockhart, read me something from the Book." Lockhart asked, "What book?" Scott replied: "Why do you ask? There is but one Book—the Bible!"

Coleridge Says: "Intense study of the Bible will keep any writer from being vulgar in point of style."

John Richard Green Says: "As a mere literary monument the Bible remains the noblest language of the English tongue, while its perpetual use made it from the instant of its appearance, the standard of our language."

FORMER TESTIMONY IS DENIED BY NURSE

Issues Blanket Refutation of Statements Made in Doctor's Trial.

FACES PERJURY CHARGE

Keyser, W. Va., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—A blanket denial of all the statements she made from the witness stand in testifying against Dr. Otto Fisher, convicted of an alleged illegal operation blamed for the death of Lonie Muriel Beckone, and the declaration that they were made at the instance of Mineral County officials under promise of immunity, were made by Miss Louella Whetsel, nurse, on trial for complicity in the alleged operation, testifying in her own defense today.

Miss Whetsel, Harrisonburg (Va.) nurse, took the stand yesterday after the State rested its case, and at that time declared that on many occasions, practically all the time she was held in jail here as a witness, she was urged by former Prosecuting Attorney Ernest A. See and Lee Brown, special investigator, to aid in the conviction of Dr. Fisher. He later was convicted and sentenced to ten years in prison.

Candy, flowers, books and even a ukulele were brought to her cell in the jail, she testified, and directly accused See and Brown of having made improper suggestions to her. On three different occasions, she testified, Brown sought to have her leave the jail and go to a hotel with him, declaring he could "fix it with the sheriff." After the trial, while she still was in jail, she said she was employed in the office of former Sheriff Vause F. Alkire as a clerk.

Prior to being turned over to the State for cross-examination, Miss Whetsel entered a blanket denial of all her testimony in the Fisher case, and stated all of it was perjured. In so doing she laid herself open, officials said, to prosecution on a charge carrying as severe a sentence as that of complicity in the operation.

It was alleged that Miss Whetsel aided Dr. Fisher to perform the operation on Miss Beckone at the instance of Orville Liskey, Harrisonburg mail clerk, the girl's fiance.

Tag Grace Period Expires Tonight

Approximately 4,000 Must Purchase Auto Licenses Before Midnight.

Approximately 4,000 automobile license tags must be obtained by motorists today, or the cars must be temporarily retired from use at midnight tonight, according to estimates made yesterday by Wade H. Coombs, superintendent of licenses, and William P. Richards, assessor.

There were 2,451 license tags for 1930 sold yesterday. This brought the total sold this year to $1,297. Officials estimate that there are between 95,000 and 96,000 automobiles in the District. The grace period for 1929 license tags expires at midnight tonight, and police have been instructed to arrest persons driving with 1929 tags after that hour.

There will be no extra provision made today for last-minute tag buyers. Persons who may be in line waiting for their tags at 4 o'clock will be waited on, but none will be permitted to get in line after that hour. License application blanks must be properly filled out and taxes assessed before persons get in line.

SNOWFALL IN SOUTH SETS NEW RECORDS

NEW ENGLAND WARNED

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Rising temperatures today started melting one of the most extensive blankets of snow spread over the South this winter, but tonight through the Eastern section temperatures again sought subfreezing levels.

While the snowfall extended from the Mississippi River across northern Mississippi to the Atlantic seaboard, temperatures hovered in the twenties and suffering was at a minimum.

Minor traffic accidents were numerous and transportation facilities in cities and the mountainous regions of North Carolina, east Tennessee and Virginia were handicapped. No deaths were reported.

Some cities along the Gulf of Mexico reported freezing temperatures today. Moderating weather, however, followed close on the heels of the icy blasts that yesterday reached near-gale proportion and caused widespread precipitation.

Snows Falls in Deep South.

Snow fell as far south as Waycross and Brunswick, Ga., but melted soon after falling.

The fall ranged from traces in south Georgia to 11 inches in the mountainous regions of North Carolina. At Atlanta a fall of more than 3 inches broke a record of nearly 20 years' standing.

Highland, N. C., had to turn back to the lowly mule for its mail today as snow-clogged mountain roads made the use of an automobile impossible.

Boston, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—While southern New England and the coast was being treated to the forerunner of what the Weather Bureau predicted would be the heaviest snowstorm of the winter, reports from northern New England today told of cold of marked severity.

18 Below in New Hampshire.

Woodsville, N. H., and vicinity experienced a 24-hour drop in temperature of from 35 to 40 degrees. Overnight minimum readings of 18 and 20 degrees below were registered in several places.

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Fine particles of snow, driven in every direction by a whipping wind, fell into the canyons between New York City's skyscrapers today.

The Weather Bureau forecast that the snowfall would be the heaviest of the winter and the city's army of reserve snow shovelers was ready for mobilization.

will cost the District between $20,000 and $30,000. As there is only $187,000 remaining in the District fund to keep the streets clean for the next five months of the fiscal year, Congress will have to appropriate more money for this purpose or the District streets will have to go dirty this spring. But right now department heads are interested in removing the present difficulty and hope the future will take care of itself.

Knickerbocker Tragedy Recalled.

The snow yesterday was the heaviest since the time of the famous Knickerbocker disaster on January 28, 1922. At that time 21 inches of snow fell within 24 hours and a total of 28 inches was recorded within the three days preceding the catastrophe.

Since that time the heaviest snow until yesterday fell on January 28, 1928, when 10½ inches fell within 24 hours. On January 28, 1918, a snowfall of 6½ inches was recorded, and two days later an equal fall was marked.

Warnings to house owners and apartment, theater, and business-building proprietors were issued by John W. Oehmann, District building inspector, to prevent an accident similar to that in 1922.

Traffic moved remarkably swiftly yesterday despite the heavy snow. Although patrons of the street cars had to wait for cars during the early morning and though there were a few tieups due to broken plows, the service, on the whole, was regular.

Traction Company Prepares.

The Capital Traction Co. began preparing for the morning rush hour at midnight Wednesday. Eleven sweepers, four scrapers, and a force of about 125 men were employed. The regular force of track cleaners was augmented by 40 men.

Twenty-four plows, 21 scrapers, 19 trucks, 2 tractors, and 8 passenger cars with scrapers were used by the Washington Railway & Electric Co. with a force of about 150 men.

The Washington Rapid Transit Co., operator of bus lines, also had about 150 men on the job, with 4 scrapers. Officials reported there was no interruption of service.

A handicap to the street-cleaning activities, according to District officials, is the small sewers in Washington. The Capital sewer system was not built to accommodate such large snows, it was explained, as they are rare, and consequently the dumping of shoveled snow into manholes was of necessity slow.

Sidewalk Cleaning Ordered.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, sent a bulletin to all precincts yesterday instructing policemen to enforce the District law compelling all property owners to clean the sidewalks in front of their houses or business establishments.

District officials admitted, however, that this law is ineffective and that a new act to replace it is being drafted. Under the present ordinance the District has to sue a person found guilty of this neglect to collect not more than $25, which is the cost claimed for doing the work with District forces.

Many autoists arose yesterday morning to find their cars blocked by mounds of snow at the curbs. The scrapers and sweepers had piled the snow against them 3 and 4 feet high.

A large number of accidents to motorists and pedestrians were reported to police, but only a few were of a serious aspect.

William B. Caton, 41 years old, of 2528 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, suffered severe scalp lacerations when he fell on the Orr School ground. He was treated at Casualty Hospital.

Guy L. Stoner, 28 years old, employed on the Federal experimental farm at Beltsville, Md., suffered deep lacerations of the wrist when he slipped and fell on a milk bottle while at work. He was brought to Casualty Hospital and treated for a severed artery.

Woman Hurt in Fall.

Charles Westcamp, 28 years old, 321 Garrett avenue, Virginia Highlands, Va., was treated at the Emergency Hospital yesterday morning for injuries he received when a truck he was operating at Seventh and F streets northwest collided with a street car. Later he was taken to his home.

Mrs. Betty P. Ashton, 38 years old, of 1415 Orren street northeast, at Orren and Oates streets, fell into a hole filled with snow and sustained a broken right ankle. She was taken to Sibley Hospital.

Dalton Carter, 46 years old, of 40 Adams road northwest, suffered a fracture of the right leg when he slipped and fell in front of 1631 Fourteenth street. He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

An appeal was made yesterday afternoon by the Humane Society for feed for the birds and squirrels in the District. The society fed many of them yesterday, but stated that it had no funds to keep the bird bread line going. An anonymous donor sent in 300 pounds of nuts for the squirrels in United States parks.

Police Get Gift for Quail.

Dr. T. S. Palmer, of the Department of Agriculture, gave $25 to Maj. Pratt with the request that it be used to feed quail in the outlying precincts. Five dollars was assigned to the Eleventh, Thirteenth Twelfth, Fourteenth and Seventh Precincts, and the captains were instructed to see to it that the quail are cared for. Last year there were 51 coveys, or 881 quail, on the borders of Washington.

All highways leading into the Capital from Maryland and Virginia were open to traffic yesterday, as plows were put to work shortly after midnight. Difficulties were encountered, however, by the Arlington, Fairfax Electric Railway Co., because of the drifts of snow on Highway Bridge. Buses were used to transport passengers from the Twelfth street terminal to the south end of the bridge.

Aerial transportation, including the mail routes, was at a standstill after Walter Schaffer, mail pilot from Hadley Field, N. J., had landed at Bolling Field with difficulty at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Skating on the reflecting pool was hampered by the snow drifts last night. United States Park police said that the pool would be open to skating if the skaters brought along brooms to sweep the surface.

NEAR RECORD SNOWS BLANKET VIRGINIA

Many Country Roads Are Blocked as Light Flakes Drift Before Winds.

SLEIGHS REPLACE AUTOS

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Jan. 30.—Despite an eighteen-hour snowstorm covering the entire section, all main roads east of the Blue Ridge in northern Virginia were reported open shortly after 4 o'clock today.

The storm hit Charlottesville soon after 8 o'clock last night and moved northward, reaching Culpeper at 9:30 and Leesburg around midnight. The fall was continuous until afternoon, when it became intermittent. The average depth in this section is 15 inches, with drifts up to 4 and 5 feet deep. Snow-moving equipment of the State highway department began clearing the roads early in the night and have worked continuously in order to keep the roads clear, but tonight reports from Leesburg and Gordonsville indicate that the wind is causing the snow to drift in the roads. Trains from the South are greatly delayed, some of them coming into Culpeper more than an hour late.

Sleighs Brought Back.

Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 30 (Special). Old Dobbin and the almost forgotten sleigh today replaced modern means of travel on country roads as the Shenandoah Valley lay blanketed under the heaviest snowfall of the winter.

Many country roads were blocked to automobiles by drifts of 3 to 5 feet deep. The snowfall was from 7 to 15 inches deep in various sections.

Heaviest Fall in 10 Years.

Petersburg, Va., Jan. 30 (Special). The heaviest snowstorm to visit Petersburg in ten years broke over the city at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and continued without intermission all through the night. The ground is covered with snow to a depth of 10 inches, greatly impeding vehicular traffic and almost paralyzing business. Street cars made an effort to operate early this afternoon, but the effort had to be abandoned and in place of the cars, six buses were put on the streets.

Lynchburg, Va., Jan. 30 (Special). An eighteen hour snow, which began to fall early Wednesday, reached a depth of 9.5 inches, official measurement, early this afternoon. It was the heaviest snow since January, 1922. Street car schedules were interfered with, but cars continued to operate. State highways in the Lynchburg district were cleared before night.

Annapolis Territory Is Under 11-Inch Fall

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 30.—Annapolis and surrounding territory are blanketed under 11 inches of snow, after a storm of near-blizzard proportions that set in at 11:30 o'clock last night and continued unabated until 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Neither railway nor motor traffic was seriously hampered, however, as the snow was of the dry type, and vehicles were able to brush through it with comparative ease.

New York Critic Speaks To Kiwanis Club Here

Robert Macgunigle, dramatic critic of the New York World, addressed the Kiwanis Club at its meeting yesterday at the Washington Hotel on "The Spoken Drama" in which he sketched the career of Eugene O'Neill.

He was introduced by Archir K. Shipe, chairman of the program committee. The Rev. Chestine Smith, pastor of the Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church, and Robin Thompson, Kiwanians in other cities previously, were introduced as new members of the club by Edwin H. Etz. Fred East rendered several vocal selections, accompanied by Robert S. Thomas. James B. Edmunds presided.

Help Is Asked to Take Sick Man From Vessel

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Aid was requested of the Coast Guard this afternoon by the American steamer Severance, northbound up the coast and then just off Winter Quarter lightship, some 60 miles north of Cape Henry, to take off the ship a man who was reported desperately ill.

The message received here and relayed by the Chatham Radio Station, Mass., asked that the nearest Coast Guard cutter proceed to the Severance without delay.

North Carolinian Slays Wife and Then Himself

Durham, N. C., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Joe McBroom, middle-aged Durham man, shot and fatally wounded his wife last night and then turned the gun on himself, inflicting a fatal wound. Both died early today.

Apparently reconciled after the last of a series of separations, the couple was talking to friends last night when McBroom asked his wife to go to the back porch with him. Immediately afterward the shots were heard.

RECEPTION TO SENATE IS HELD BY PRESIDENT AND FIRST LADY

society and many officials joining with the large and distinguished senatorial group in a company where everybody seemed to know everybody else and to enjoy the opportunity of greeting friends.

Vice President Curtis appeared in a double role. As Vice President, with his sister, Mrs. Gann, he led the "Cabinet procession" which followed the President and Mrs. Hoover downstairs in traditional fashion and, as presiding officer of the Senate, he was the first to shake hands with the hosts, followed by Mrs. Gann and his daughter, Mrs. Charles P. George, who had been with the little group of special guests in the blue room.

The absence of several of the Cabinet group had caused a rearrangement in the order of march. Secretary Mellon of the Treasury, following immediately after Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Gann, escorted Mrs. James J. Davis. Next came the Secretary of War, Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, with Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, followed in turn by the Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, the Postmaster General and Mrs. Brown and the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Lamont.

The Acting Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke were the last in the Cabinet line, "pinch hitting" for the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams, who are in London, as are the Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson. The Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Agriculture are out of town, as are the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Wilbur, and Mrs. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, was also missing, her absence detracting materially from the charm of the picture.

Mrs. Hoover had chosen for this fete a graceful gown of silver brocade, with a long double train. A cape drapery of silver lace gave the effect of sleeves and softened the shallow, rounded decolletage. The First Lady has a penchant for costume jewelry, and with this silvery gown she wore an odd pendant of dull silver set with pearls and several dull silver bracelets. Silver slippers completed her costume.

Velvet Favorite Material.

Mrs. Gann's gown was of chiffon velvet in a rich shade of golden yellow, its drapery caught low on one hip with an ornament of brilliants. Gold sequins in diagonal lines ornamented one side of the decolletage. She wore pendant diamond earrings and a pendant of jade and diamonds. Velvet was the favorite material with the Cabinet women. Mrs. Mitchell's costume was of rose pink velvet, with an underskirt of tulle in a deeper shade and a long scarf of tulle banded with velvet which formed a narrow train.

Mrs. Brown's gown of black velvet had a deep bertha of ecru lace and the same lovely lace edged the gracefully dipping skirt. Mrs. Davis' powder blue gown was of velvet, a princess model, with an engaging square yoke of beige lace, and Mrs. Jahncke wore a green panne velvet costume, untrimmed, but very graceful of line.

Mrs. Lamont had chosen a gown of silver lame, with a double train, and Mrs. Hyde, a gown of taupe tulle, with sleeves almost to the elbow. It was built over flesh-tinted chiffon and embroidered in silver.

Gown of Mrs. George.

Mrs. George's rich dark coloring was enhanced by her frock of shell pink chiffon, which had a deep band of embroidery in pearls and brilliants about the low waist line. Others among the blue room guests were Gen. and Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newton, Col. and Mrs. U. S. Grant 3d, with two pretty young daughters; Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, Miss Anne Randolph, Miss Mary Randolph and a little group who had dined at the White House before the reception, including Mr. and Mrs. Will Irwin, of New York; Miss Gwen Martin, of Philadelphia; Miss Susan Dyer and Mr. Allan Fox.

Col. Campbell Hodges, who had also been a dinner guest, alternated with Capt. Allen Buchanan in making the introductions. Mr. and Mrs. Irwin and Miss Martin arrived yesterday to be White House guests and Miss Dyer, whose home is in California, has been staying with the President and Mrs. Hoover for several weeks.

Senator and Mrs. George Moses followed close upon the heels of Vice President Curtis in greeting the President and Mrs. Hoover, with Senator Thomas J. Walsh and his daughter, Mrs. Emmet C. Gudger; Senator and Mrs. Porter Dale, Senator and Mrs. Jesse Metcalf, Senator Arthur Capper, Senator Samuel Shortridge and Senator and Mrs. Royal S. Copeland. With Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham were one of their tall young sons and his pretty bride. Others in the group of senatorial guests were Senator and Mrs. Claude Swanson, Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard and Mrs. William E. Brock, wife of Senator Brock, of Tennessee, who was accompanied by Mrs. Beverly Williamson.

Mrs. Moses' Attire.

Mrs. Moses wore a gown of wine red crepe, gracefully draped, and Mrs. Dale a gown of rose colored taffeta, with a deep blue bow decorating the full skirt. Mrs. Copeland's gown of white chiffon had an effective garniture of small brilliants. The skirt was fashioned with circular godets. She wore rose slippers. Mrs. Metcalf made an exceedingly handsome picture in a gown of green satin, with a dog collar of diamonds and diamond pins in her smooth white hair. Mrs. Swanson's costume was of black velvet printed all over in a small design of bright colored flowers. Mrs. Henry J. Allen wore a flowing gown of cream chantilly lace, with narrow bandings of brown velvet ribbon.

The White House aids in their special full dress and the orderlies standing at attention at the doorways contributed to the ceremonial effect, with the Stars and Stripes and the President's flag flanking the blue room door.

The Marine Band from its accustomed place in the corridor played martial airs, and later moved into the east room, where the guests enjoyed a half hour of dancing after the President and Mrs. Hoover had withdrawn.

Palms and Ferns Used.

Against the background of ivory paneled walls in the east room were palms and ferns forming a graceful setting for the vases of long-stemmed pink carnations. The lavish use of these old-fashioned flowers in the blue Sevres vases struck a decidedly French note and recalled their popularity in the mauve decade when orchids and gardenias were rare and roses a luxury.

The graceful flowers, in white and red, were chosen also for the stone urns in the hall and in shades of pink for the state dining room, which sparkled in the gleaming lights of the brilliant chandeliers. Red carnations banked the niche in the stairway and decked the mantels and tables of the red room.

A striking feature of the blue room was the combination of pink roses, white snapdragons and forsythia arranged in bouquets that were reflected in the tall mirrors. Vases of pink roses added a delicate note to the green room.

Married Women Who Work Driven by Need, U. S. Says

Nine-Tenths Are Employed Because Husbands Can't Make Enough to Support Family or Are Divorced, Labor Department Report Shows.

A cross sectional tabulation made by the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor showed, it was announced yesterday, that nine-tenths of married women seeking employment did so because their husbands either made an insufficient amount to support the family or because the husband had ceased to contribute because of divorce, separation and other causes.

"Do women with husbands to support them take jobs from single women in need of work?" the department's statement set forth. "The vociferous volume of public opinion prone to answer this in the affirmative has been given a staggering blow. The survey just made shows that the discrimination against married women may be unjust and work hardship, as over two-thirds of the women included in the investigation stated they were without a husband's support."

The investigation was made in Denver by Miss Emily C. Brown, of the Labor Department. Of the women reporting the married women constituted 45 per cent, the separated, divorced or deserted 28 per cent, and the widowed 26 per cent.

One-half of the women who were without a husband's support had children under 16 years of age. Almost three-fourths of the women whose husbands contributed to their supported said they were applying for work because of economic necessity.

Mud Baths for Mombasso As Crowds Offer Sympathy

Their sympathy aroused by The Washington Post's account of the illness of Mombasso, female hippopotamus in the Zoological Park, hundreds of visitors yesterday called at the lion house in the Zoo where the hippo's cage is located, to inquire how Mombasso was getting along.

At the Zoo, where Mombasso is still sheltered by screens over her cage, attendants reported her "about the same" with all precautions being taken by Zoo officials to keep her alive. Mud baths and a restricted diet are expected to perform wonders for the mammoth animal now that it has survived three weeks of illness.

Meanwhile Bungo, Mombasso's mate, seems unaware of the latter's critical condition and continues to live a normal life in its cage next door.

Yesterday's heavy snow which caused moans and groans among the Zoo employes who had to shovel walks and paths for visitors, created quite a furore among many of the animals, particularly those from Northern climes. The bears, seals, foxes and wolves celebrated with much howling and scampering, while even the monkeys, accustomed to a much warmer brand of weather, seemed to enjoy the white mantle over their playground.

No casualties were reported from animals slipping on the snow and ice but a number of keepers are known to have done involuntary dance steps trying to care for their charges.

CONFUSION WORSE CONFOUNDED.

The country is to be treated to another free-for-all melee on the prohibition question before the House judiciary committee. Chairman Graham decided to open up the official valve and give the wets and drys a chance to blow off steam, on the theory that proponents of modification are entitled to a hearing. It is safe to conclude that no one intends to do anything about any one of the measures that the committee will open for discussion.

Measures that will come up for an airing include various resolutions for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, a scheme for restoration of States' rights in dealing with the liquor traffic, proposals to legalize light wines and beer, and a referendum on the amendment. Testimony will not be lacking on any of these bills, but when all the arguments have been made on both sides the committee will probably file away its records and await the next wave of prohibition sentiment.

When the eighteenth amendment was adopted the people expected that the war against traffic in intoxicants would progress from a theoretical to a practical basis. Instead, the movement has been in the other direction. Facts and even theory have been largely forgotten in the muddle of charges, counter-charges, open violation of law and general hypocrisy. The controversy has progressed to a stage where antagonists and proponents are raging against each other with utter disregard of fundamental questions.

Hopes for returning to a calm consideration of the prohibition problem are not bright. The work of the National Commission on Law Enforcement to date has only added fuel to the flame. Representative Andrews' bill, which would direct the commission to probe into the fundamentals of prohibition, is the only measure which offers hope of a more enlightened attitude toward the question. The method adopted by the House for airing the controversy can only add to the confusion and stimulate public opposition to the law as it stands.

SECRECY AS TO AIRPLANE WRECKS.

It is not easy to understand why Senator Bingham's bill calling upon the Department of Commerce to make public detailed findings with respect to the cause of airplane accidents should have met with delay, unless, as the senator has charged, powerful aviation interests have mustered their strength against it. The air commerce act does give the department authority to "investigate, record and make public the causes of accidents in civil air navigation," but this authority is not broad enough to make possible the publication of detailed findings.

The development of aviation is paralleling the development of railroads. In the early days of railroading, when public confidence in the iron horse as a safe medium of transportation was yet to be won, violence was frequently used to conceal the causes and even the evidences of wrecks. This same stupid rule has been adopted by some commercial aeronautic concerns. No effort has been made to acquaint the public in detail with the causes of crashes. When a plane "cracks up" it is not unusual for a cordon of employes to be thrown around the wreck to prevent the approach of newspapermen and photographers. The details surrounding the several recent tragedies remain shrouded in mystery. A climax was reached in Kansas City the other day when employes of an air line, in the fashion that was approved many decades ago in railway circles, removed the wreckage of a plane from the field under cover of darkness before investigations of the accident had been completed.

It is not enough for the Department of Commerce to announce that 50.04 per cent of airplane accidents were caused by personnel, 18.8 per cent due to engine and engine accessory failure, &c. Each accident lessens public confidence in the safety of the airplane, and the only way confidence can be restored is through an unvarnished, detailed statement as to the cause of that accident. To enable the department to make public such a report it would be necessary, of course, to protect it with a provision precluding the admission of official reports as evidence in civil suits, just as the Interstate Commerce Commission is protected. Authority to subpena witnesses, compel testimony and impound evidence would also be needed, so that complete investigations could be made.

If commercial aeronautic interests are opposed to full publicity with respect to the causes of airplane accidents, they would do well to profit by the experience of the railroads. Wrecks no longer are looked upon as horrible evidences that the railways in general are hazardous, but merely as manifestations of failure of one or more cogs in the machine that operates a certain train. Railroad men today realize that full and detailed publicity as to the causes of wrecks is vitally necessary to preserve public confidence.

EVERYBODY DOING IT.

It's always the last straw that breaks the camel's back. Certain Democratic senators have held their tongues while Congress—to use the language of Senator Smith—has voted the clothes off the farmer's back, and attempted to vote the shoes off his feet. But when the Senate voted the straw hat from his head eloquent tongues were loosed, and the few remaining veterans who cherish the principle of free trade for its own sake had their say.

The ire of Senator Smith was aroused because a number of Democratic senators deserted the coalition and defeated its movement to cut the finance committee's rate on straw hats. Senator Smoot's figures on the importation of cheap "straws" from Italy and other countries led to a general flare-up on the wisdom of tariff protection. The majority held to the accepted principle that American capital and labor are entitled to protection against the cheap labor of Europe, in spite of Senator Smith's declaration that "selfishness, money and concentrated power have impoverished the great producing masses."

The most horrendous charge that Mr. Smith made against his colleagues was that they have deserted the party's traditional policy of "justice to the consumer." Members of the Senate have degenerated to the level of voting in the interests of their own States. He is going to prepare a list of all senators who have voted for increased tariff rates in which their own localities are interested. Presumably these offenders are to be denounced on the floor of the Senate. Senator Smith may find his plan a great personal achievement, as the list will undoubtedly contain the names of 95 senators, and the one who is free from this corruption will have to throw not only the first stone, but all that are thrown thereafter.

When all the consequences of this list are considered it is possible that Mr. Smith's plan may be abandoned. Too many Republicans might use it in their campaigns for reelection next November, and it is not amiss to believe that some Democrats would find it profitable "back home." Whatever may be said of protective tariff principles, there is nothing quite so rare in Congress as a politician who does not like to go back to his district and point to a boost in duties for "home industry." And if the said politician is fortunate enough to be able to recall in addition a fight he has led against the attempts of other States to raise prices to the consumer, happy is his lot indeed.

THE ARCHIVES SYSTEM.

The public building program contemplates the construction of an archives building in the center of the area bounded by Pennsylvania avenue, Ninth, Tenth and B streets. Such an institution has been sorely needed for years. The valuable and historically irreplaceable records and documents of the Government are scattered through the storerooms of the various departments, unindexed, generally unavailable, and subject to destruction by fire and the ravages of dampness and time. In the archives building public records and documents will be collected systematically and preserved for posterity according to the most modern methods.

Senator Smoot, chairman of the public building commission, has introduced a bill to establish a system for the collection and preservation of records and documents in the archives building. There would be a national archives council to have jurisdiction over the institution, in addition to which there would be an advisory committee composed of one representative from each executive department. A commission on national historical publications would be created. Executive direction of the institution would be vested in the archivist of the United States, a new position in the Federal service, which would be filled by presidential appointment. Six months after the archives building is completed, each Government department would transfer to it all important documents and records covering the period prior to 1860. At five-year intervals thereafter each department would transfer to the archives building all records and documents covering five additional years subsequent to those for which the last transfer was made.

Without an adequate, well-conceived plan for the systematic preservation of public documents and records the archives building would be largely valueless. The Smoot bill seeks to provide such a plan. Whether it is approved as drafted or not, it will at least serve to open up discussion of this most important matter.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

Hearings on the Davis bill to limit award of ocean mail contracts to lines that do not operate foreign flag ships in competition with American vessels are being held before the House committee on merchant marine. Shipping lines would be allowed three years to dispose of their foreign-flag ships. After that time no part of the subsidy allowed in the form of mail contracts would go to interests which compete with American shipping.

The bill has the approval of the American Steamship Owners Association. Testimony at the hearing indicates that even the American firms now operating foreign-flag ships are in favor of eliminating this source of competition.

An interesting sidelight at the hearing was the suggestion by Emmett J. McCormack that all tariff-protected industries of the United States should be placed under the Davis bill. His theory is that industries that are protected by the Government should not patronize vessels which are competing with the merchant marine that the Government is promoting. The suggestion is impracticable, if for no other reason than that the foreign trade of the United States is far larger than the capacity of the ships flying the Stars and Stripes. Nevertheless, the question thus raised is of interest to the merchant marine.

If all American shippers and travelers patronized ships under their own flag there would be no need for generous ocean mail contracts. The United States is the greatest exporting nation in the world. Its people are the most extensive travelers. The people have it within their own power to stimulate construction of the greatest merchant marine on the seas. The industrial system of this country is based on protection as much as is the merchant marine. If that system is to realize its fullest development it must have an adequate fleet to carry its products to foreign markets. Foreign vessels can not be relied upon for uninterrupted service. The American economic system can never be complete without a strong overseas transportation service, and such a service can never be developed without the support of the industries it serves.

ITALIAN ART IN THE CAPITOL

By CHARLES E. FAIRMAN,

I.

Monday afternoon, February 24, 1806, cold as are all days of February of that date, frozen ground, snow in patches by the roadside, murmurings of the cold wind through the open spaces in the woods lining the roadway leading from Baltimore, Md., over this road a stagecoach is proceeding toward Washington.

On this afternoon 124 years ago the stagecoach was occupied with four passengers from Carrara, Italy, completing a journey of 146 days since their departure from Leghorn, Italy, where they had received their final instructions from the United States consul at their port of embarkation on October 1, 1805. These passengers were Giovanni Andrei, with his wife; Giuseppe Franzoni, with his wife; people destined to exert a lasting influence upon the art of the Capitol of the United States. * * *

I have given considerable space to the historical facts concerning Giuseppe Franzoni for the reason that of the two sculptors his part seems to be the most prominent. Unfortunately, his works were destroyed by the fire when the Capitol was captured by the British August 24, 1814, with this exception: In the vestibule entrance to the law library of the Supreme Court there are six columns known as the cornstalk columns, referred to by Latrobe as the work of Franzoni. These columns escaped damage by the fire of 1814, and while they are from a design by Latrobe they were executed by Giuseppe Franzoni. It is known that Franzoni was the sculptor of a statue of Liberty in the hall of the House of Representatives destroyed in August, 1814, and that there were also in the gallery of this hall, or on the gallery front, figures representing agriculture, art, science and commerce. * * *

The return of Andrei in 1816 was signalized by the introduction of two more Italian sculptors brought here by Andrei under the authority given him to secure additional helpers in the work of the Capitol—Carlo Franzoni, a younger brother of Giuseppe, and Francisco Iardella. * * * The work of Iardella, so far as has been recognized in the Capitol, is confined to his tobacco capitals in the small rotunda just north of the main rotunda of the Capitol. The arrangement of the leaves and blossoms is somewhat conventional, but the work is given marked credit by Latrobe, November 5, 1816, in a letter to Thomas Jefferson, then at Monticello, in which he refers to the change in the staircase formerly existing in this space and badly injured by the wooden canopy or "lanthorn" falling and burning the stairs so that the removal was necessary.

It should be understood that the intent of the British to destroy the hall of the House of Representatives seemed to be greater than that shown in the destruction of the other section, now known as the Supreme Court section. The central portion of the Capitol—the rotunda—had not been commenced at this time, and the two sections were connected by a walk more than 100 feet in length. Much inflammable material was brought from the Supreme Court section, then the Senate wing of the Capitol, and added to the huge pile of papers, books and other material on the floor of the hall of the House of Representatives. This material in burning produced such an intense heat that all the carving of the capitals of the columns, all the relief work of Giuseppe Franzoni, including his immense eagle on the frieze of the hall, with its outstretched wings measuring 12 feet and 6 inches from tip to tip; his statue of Liberty, a seated statue 9 feet in height; his four statues in high relief occupying 25 feet on the frieze, were destroyed, and the columns, frieze and all of the stonework in Acquia Creek sandstone so badly injured that it had to be removed and replaced with new material. The replacement gave capitals of Italian marble, columns of breccia marble and a new frieze of Acquia Creek sandstone replaced the old frieze. In addition to this, the form of the hall was changed from a quadrilateral abutting on two half circles, to the semicircular hall with its half-dome roof in the practically same condition as we find in Statuary Hall of today.

It was in this hall that Giuseppe Valaperti carved his eagle with its wings wide spread as though brooding over the hall with a spirit of protection. It was in this hall that Carlo Franzoni, the gifted younger brother of Giuseppe Franzoni, created his Car of History, a group with the Goddess of History standing in the chariot of time recording on the tablets the occurrences of the legislators in the hall below. * * * It was in this hall that Pietro Bonanni decorated the half-dome ceiling in a pattern said to have been suggested by the dome of the Pantheon in Rome, showing a craftsmanship so dextrous in the handling of light and shade that the cassions seemed to be in actual relief and intaglio, creating an impression so realistic that those familiar with this ceiling which remained until 1902—when it was replaced in fireproof material copying the original design—that until one had placed their hand upon this old ceiling it was not believable that the cunning of the artist could produce such a sensation of actual relief.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE age-old quarrel between country and town is kept alive by foolish men who don't understand one another.

The prejudiced city man pictures the countryman as an inferior creature who delights in gossip, rejoices in the opportunity to meddle, and yearns to suppress and reform those who live in cities.

The prejudiced countryman thinks the city man a wild and immoral prodigal who wastes his substance in riotous living and cares only for money and pleasure.

Each draws his opinions from his environment and his prejudices from his ignorance.

And in all essentials they as much alike as two black-eyed peas planted in different soils—as any student of the race can testify after living with both of them.

The simple truth is there are more sinners in the city because there are more people there, and the countryman in town to raise the devil on the sly thinks the people wicked and indifferent to the sins of their fellows because he is permitted to make unmolested whoopee among strangers whose opinion he doesn't fear.

If city people gossip less than country people, it is because they know fewer people to gossip about.

They do their best; and if you penetrate to the inner circle of the intelligentsia and sit among the poets, painters, writers and professional men, you find them discussing the private affairs and the faults of their acquaintances.

As to the countryman's yearing to reform the city, that is mythical also.

If he votes against liquor, it is because he knows a few men who get drunk and abuse their families and a few boys who use liquor as an excuse to be silly or vicious.

If he votes to make a whole region dry, he isn't thinking of the city man's whisky but only of the city whisky brought home by his neighbors.

He thinks in terms of his environment, as the city man does, and neither is qualified to berate the other.

Their opinions and standards are made by their neighbors and by their need of bread and butter.

Let them exchange places and in ten years they will exchange opinions, also.

Every man's opinions are influenced by his need of a good reputation where he gets his living.

Why should two clay pots scold one another, when the potter's hand shaped both and either might have been the other?

THE GARBLE SISTERS.

"I see where this Primo de Rivera of Spain has retired."

"So soon after his wedding?"

"What wedding?"

"Ain't he the one that was shown in all those news reels lately being married to the King of Belgium's daughter?"

"I guess so. Anyway, he was the big boss of Spain for a long time. He got out after some kind of a row with Alfonso about the London prohibition parley."

"I remember reading something about it. Alfonso wanted the sessions thrown open to the newspaper men or something and Rivera was against it. He and Dwight Morrow."

"I always had the idea Rivera was a pretty smart man. I read his life story once. He founded the Fascisti or Black Shirts when fighting in the Alps during the World War. He had been nothing but a small Italian newspaper editor up to that time. Then after the war the Black Shirts became so powerful they made him dictator. He practically ran the country.

"Oh, I remember now. His first name was Benito."

"Benito Rivera. They called him the ill duke or something."

* * * *

"Where did he get that name Primo from?"

"That was only used when he decided to quit Spain and become a professional prize fighter. He thinks he can win the heavyweight championship."

"He did pretty well in that first bout. The one with Big Boy Peterson."

"I thought that fellow's name was Carnera."

"It's all the same thing."

"Well, now that he's quit as dictator, what's Spain going to do for a ruler?"

"It's all up to the agenda."

"What's an agenda?"

"An agenda is a place on Lake Geneva where the world court meets."

"When does it meet next?"

"It's meeting now on the Wickersham report. You know about the Wickersham report, don't you?"

THE HERO AT HOME.

The flags were flown,
The bugles blown,
The people cheered as he passed by,
Along the way
Throughout the day
His praise was sounded to the sky.

Then evening came,
Died noise and flame;
Stilled was the sound of fife and drum,
A door flew wide,
He stepped inside,
And home, the conqueror had come!

Shut in from town
He settled down,
And took his babe upon his knee,
He gently smiled
To hear the child
Cry: "Read the funny page to me."

He wound the clock,
Turned key in lock,
Put out the lights and went to bed,
"Though fame and pride
Are found outside,
I'm happier at nome," he said.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Approves of Government Control of Mount Vernon, to Be Open Free, Sundays Included.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is a pleasant thought that when the Memorial Boulevard to Mount Vernon is completed, access to the grounds will be free, with the gates thrown open to the public on Sundays. It would be well, also, to extend the closing hour to sunset.

No word of praise is too extreme for the patriotic women who assumed the task of preserving Mount Vernon when the neglect of Congress and public apathy made it apparent that the Father of His Country was not first in the pocketbooks of his countrymen. Their work could not have been properly done without the admission fee.

Today the section of the Washington and Mount Vernon Railway between Alexandria and Mount Vernon is being scrapped, owing to automobile competition. When the boulevard is complete the number of visitors will increase very much from year to year. Adequate automotive accommodations at the Mount Vernon terminal must necessarily be provided by the Government.

In order to perfect the memorial it is likewise necessary that the Government take over the management of the Mount Vernon estate. In that case, of course, there will be no charge of admission, and, in order to avoid what Washington would strenuously condemn were he alive, there should be no closing of Mount Vernon's gates on Sunday.

Memory's Jingling Sleighbells Recall "Washington Pie," a Local Delicacy Now, Alas! No More.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The regret of "Old Timer" over the passing of the horsedrawn sleigh calls to mind another feature of old-time Washington now almost lost to sight in misty memories of the past.

I refer to what was known as "Washington pie." As the story is traditionally handed down, sold by the corner pieman of the National Capital before the Civil War, hungry newsboys and bootblacks, as well as the casual wayfarer of small means and a large appetite, devoured and thrived upon it. Even the statesmen, soldiers and other dignitaries of the day would occasionally partake of it with more or less gusto.

The general public knew but little concerning the inner entity of Washington pie. It was composed beneath the crust of a dark brown filling which had some resemblance to dried apples with bits of lemon peel thrown in for flavoring. The secret of its gustatory spell has never been disclosed.

Just as the sleigh has been replaced by the automobile, so Washington pie long since gave place to the quick lunch menu. For a time after it disappeared its memory was kept green by the hackneyed quips and musty bon mots of men who had never become familiar with its al fresco charm. Like the mince pie great-grandmother used to make, we will never see its like again, and only a centenarian is left here and there to mourn its loss.

OLD HABITANT.

Washington's Blanket of Whiteness. Chaplain Livingston's Rhapsody on the Beautiful.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When I 'woke this morning, Creation through the night, had blanketed Washington with its downy coverlet of snowy whiteness.

From out of the night clouds, although spread by human hands, the elements had enfolded hamlet and city, hovel and mansion alike. Some of nature's elderdownness clung to the world's highest shaft of marble as though to contrast that grayness with the whitest of all Creation's blendings—the snow. Some had banked and blanketed cupola and turreted dome of the Capitol, while across "aquatic way" Lincoln Monument stood out in memorial whiteness.

Now's the Time to Do a Friend a Turn for the Birds—Throw Out Food on a Cleared Spot.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have made it a practice every morning to throw feed out in my backyard for the birds. This morning (Thursday) a great many congregated in the trees, but the food was in the snow; so I cleared a place under a tree and placed the food in the cleared spot. The birds swarmed down to it and seemed as if they were half starved.

When the ground is covered completely with snow it is impossible for the birds to find the food provided for them by nature. Hence, in order to prevent their starving to death bird lovers must come to their aid and provide food for them. Now is the time for every one to befriend these friends of man.

Virginia Suburban Complains of Excessive Gas and Telephone Charges.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: My gas and electric rates are about three times higher than those in town, and although I pay a regular monthly rate for telephone service, whenever I phone to town it costs another nickel. As with me, so with every one across the Potomac. Yet one may phone from town to over the river for only 5 cents.

And if one does not like it, what may one do about it—in town or suburb? Nothing, except pay the bill promptly or be punished by denial of service until such time as an extra, "reconnection" charge is paid, as well as a promise given, as were, to be obedient to the master.

I am in favor of restoring this section of Virginia to the District of Columbia. Then we would not be cinched by extra charges. S. P. E.

CHICAGO LAYS PLANS FOR FINANCIAL AID

TAX OFFICERS TO MEET

Chicago, Jan. 30 (A.P.). — Three projects intended to ease Chicago's acute financial situation were under way today.

Gov. Louis L. Emerson called a meeting of various Cook County tax officials for tomorrow. The Board of education invited 288 outlying and community bankers to meet Tuesday to suggest ways unpaid school employes might establish credit. A bank bought $40,000 worth of fire department pension fund tax anticipation warrants.

The State's interest in the Chicago situation is explained in the fact that half of the general tax money for State government is derived from Chicago—and not any of this has been collected since the spring of 1928. Meantime delay in revaluation of railroad capital stock and realty is causing worry over the "down-State" tax situation.

Cicero and Maywood, two close suburbs of Chicago, sought to solve their difficulties by extending Cook County taxes on the basis of the 1927 assessment, but their effort to mandamus the county clerk for this action through the supreme court failed. Chairman William H. Malone, of the State Tax Commission, said the refusal of the high court to issue the mandamus removed the last hope of officials that the 1928 taxes might be collected on the 1927 quadrennial reassessment.

Some 40,000 employes of the city, county, and school board were still waiting pay for work done since the first of the year, and hundreds of family heads were finding it increasingly difficult to buy groceries and pay rents. Eleven eviction orders were held up by agreement after intervention of the rent court.

Even the work of reassessment, upon which the collection of taxes depends, was hampered by the financial embarrassment. The company supplying photostatic paper notified the county it would refuse further credit until some part of its $200,000 bill is paid. The paper is necessary to revaluation work.

Purchase of fire department pension fund warrants by the Prudential State Bank, of which City Comptroller George K. Schmidt is president, enabled the payment of due dividends to 1,840 men, women and children.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

GRAFT and special privilege go hand in hand in the issuance of industrial alcohol permits. This is the conviction of certain outstanding dry leaders. It is one of their chief motives in insisting that not only the prohibition enforcement unit, but the function of issuing these industrial alcohol permits be transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice.

They believe this would tend to check the straight and obvious graft in connection with the use of the alcohol obtained on these permits by illicit manufacturers of synthetic liquor. But the special privilige factor is one which really has nothing to do with prohibition at all, except for fear that alcohol started on such channels might easily be diverted to illegal use.

But the amazing power of discrimination and favoritism as between users of alcohol in many and widely varied manufacturing lines, including such products as yeast, as well as paints, drugs and a hundred others, opens the door wide to a form of graft and special privilige fattening on that graft of which no one dreamed in the early stages of prohibition enforcement.

INDUSTRIES have been revamped as a result. Concerns, many of which probably were absolutely honest, but which were absolutely dependent upon a supply of alcohol, have been wiped out by bureaucratic refusal to issue them permits, while their competitors, granted a generous allowance of alcohol because of their relations with officials of the enforcement bureau, have had their profits multiplied and their business expanded hugely because of the destruction of their rivals.

Naturally the men who have seen their business enterprises wiped out are bitterly resentful. They have been pouring complaints into Washington, appealing in many instances to dry senators after their failure to convince prohibition officials of their honest intentions so far as the prohibition law is concerned.

IN a nutshell this is the logic so largely actuating some of the dry senators whose recent attack upon prohibition enforcement has filled the newspapers. There is no disposition to believe that everyone connected with the issuance of industrial alcohol permits is crooked. Dry leaders in Congress admit that it is virtually impossible to handle the situation, however, without granting the officials wide discretion in deciding to whom to issue permits, and that such discretion naturally provides exceptionable opportunities for graft, not only in the ordinary prohibition violation sense, but in favoring one corporation against its competitors.

For example, several would-be manufacturers of yeast have had to abandon their plans because they could not obtain assurances that they could obtain alcohol. The secrecy which surrounds the issuance of permits and the amount of alcohol which the favored corporations can use is another wide-open door to graft, it is pointed out by wet and dry leaders.

• • • •

IT is interesting to recall, now that the majority of the dry leaders have decided that a more rigorous and perhaps more honest check on the phase of prohibition enforcement can be obtained by transferring it to the Department of Justice, how eagerly that department avoided this very thing at the outset of prohibition.

Francis Patrick Garvan was then alien property custodian and a loyal political lieutenant of Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, who aspired to the Presidency. Hearing that President Wilson intended to assign prohibition enforcing to the Department of Justice, he rushed over to see Palmer.

"If you accept this you are ruined," he said in effect. "This thing is apt to be slimy with graft and full of political dynamite."

Palmer was convinced of the truth of this and persuaded the President to hand this particular cross over to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, whom he regarded as one of his strongest rivals for the Democratic nomination.

BERENGUER CABINET ENTERS UPON DUTIES

De Rivera Says Reason He Quit Was King's Displeasure at Manifesto.

FIRST CONFERENCE HELD

Madrid, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The new government, headed by Gen. Damaso Berenguer, officially came into power this evening, ending the six-year dictatorship of Gen. Primo de Rivera. The new premier and most of his ministers took their oaths of office at the royal palace shortly after 6 p. m.

King Alfonso and a small group of officials of the royal household were witnesses, but there were no elaborate ceremonies to mark the inauguration of a new regime pledged to restore to Spain the constitution of 1876.

Later tonight Primo de Rivera formally turned over his offices to his successor and the new ministers began taking charge of their respective departments. The ministers held a conference tonight, but Premier Berenguer said that no formal cabinet meeting would be held probably for several days.

Primo de Rivera intends in a few days to go to his home town, Jerez de la Frontera, and devote himself to a simple life. "No, I will not write a history of the dictatorship," he said tonight, "I leave that to a better writer than I am."

The former dictator himself disclosed that the immediate reason for his resignation was the surprise and displeasure of the king at his impulsive manifesto last Sunday morning which asked ranking army and navy officers whether they still supported him and promised to resign if they did not.

The new cabinet will be as follows:

Premier and minister of army, Gen. Damaso Berenguer; interior, Gen Enrique Marso; finance and economy, Manuel Arguelles; public works, Leopold Matos; public instruction, the Duke of Alba; marine, Vice Admiral Salvador Carvia; labor and pensions, Pedro Sangro y Ros de Oriaono; justice and worship, Jose Estrado.

Western Union Plans European Phone Cable

(Associated Press.)

Walter S. Gifford told the Senate interstate commerce committee yesterday that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. was planning to lay a cable across the Atlantic for telephone communication with Europe.

Mr. Gifford, who is president of the company, said engineers were in Germany drawing up specifications which would be ready within a few months to submit to the manufacturers. He did not say when the service would begin. The present cable to Europe carries only telegraph messages, but the company has a transatlantic radio telephone service.

Man Says He Saw General Kidnaped

Paris, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The police tonight claimed to have found a witness who said that Gen. Alexander P. Koutiapoff had been kidnaped from the Paris streets in broad daylight last Sunday morning while walking the few blocks between his home and the Russian Club.

This witness said he saw the general, who succeeded the Grand Duke Nicholas as head of the Russian exiles here, hustled into a red taxicab. The four-day absence of the general has caused a sensation here and it was feared there was very little hope of finding him alive.

Because of the number of rumors that Communists were connected with the disappearance the police doubled their usual protection of the Soviet Union Embassy. On the other hand, Communist newspapers asserted that the general had absconded with 50,000 francs.

Californians Protest Immigration Ban Plan

(Associated Press.)

Testimony setting forth objections from the Southwest to restriction of Western Hemisphere immigration continued to accumulate in the record of the House immigration committee yesterday as three Californians described the part Mexican labor plays in the agricultural industry of that section.

The three witnesses—Fred J. Hart, grower of the Salinas Valley; Ralph H. Taylor, executive secretary of the California agricultural committee, and C. B. Moore, manager of the Western Growers Protective Association—demanded that if a ban were placed on the entry of Mexican laborers, some other supply of farm labor be provided.

Duke of York Acts for Prince.

London, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The Duke of York today acted in place of the Prince of Wales, who is absent on a hunting trip in Africa, in deputizing for King George, his father. It was the first time he has acted in such an office. He received in an audience at Buckingham Palace the new Afghan Minister, Shah Wali Khan, brother of Nadir Khan, new King of Afghanistan.

Lady Reading, Who Helped Husband to High Post, Dies

Partnership of 43 Years Ends When Wife of Statesman Who Rose to Be Viceroy of India Succumbs to Old Malady.

London, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—One of the best known and widely admired partnerships in public life was broken today by the death of Lady Reading, wife of the British statesman for the last 43 years.

The career of Lord Reading, who rose from humble origin to become viceroy of India, representative of the king's person, which is the highest dignity to which a British subject can attain, reads more like fiction than fact and he himself often declared it would have been impossible without his wife's affection and support.

Lady Reading suffered from a painful malady for many years and only a few intimates knew what courage often was needed to carry out her long and trying ceremonies at the viceregal lodge. When at one time she was temporarily unable to carry on and her illness was announced officially, prayers for her recovery were said all over India.

"She did more to cure racial animosity between England and India than any work I did myself," said Lord Reading on one occasion.

Lady Reading is remembered in Washington as a brilliant and sympathetic hostess when she was there in 1917 and 1918 at the time that her husband was British High Commissioner and Special Ambassador to the United States.

She was married to Lord Reading in 1887, when as Rufus Isaacs he was an unknown and penniless man of 26. She was the former Alice Edith Cohen, daughter of Albert Cohen, an American, who emigrated to England and became a successful merchant. She herself was born in the United States.

'FREE GOLD' FOREIGN INVESTMENTS SEEN

$1,400,000,000 NOW IDLE

The United States Federal Reserve Board is considering a plan, it became known yesterday, of investment abroad at 3 to 5 per cent interest "free gold" held idle in the Federal Reserve system banks, which now approximates $1,400,000,000.

Proponents of the plan pointed out that to invest huge sums of American dollars abroad would stimulate foreign purchasing power and thus act as a powerful aid to the program of President Hoover to relieve present business depression.

Such investments, it is asserted, would be of especial benefit in countries which, while fundamentally sound, are now technically off the gold standard. Among these are mentioned Canada, Austria and Argentina, while numerous other countries are suffering from dearth of credit facilities, though their basic soundness is beyond dispute.

Deposit Centers Proposed.

The plan is understood to contemplate shipment of metal for deposit in such financial centers as London, Berlin, Amsterdam, Tokyo and others.

One important benefit of the plan, it is asserted, would be the lessening of pressure from foreign countries upon the American loan market, through the strengthening of credit within the foreign country in question.

In addition to the direct advantage of earning interest and stimulating foreign purchasing power, the proposed plan, according to its sponsors, would result in numerous indirect advantages.

Advantages Are Listed.

First, the reserve banks would be enabled to differentiate in their policies with respect to foreign and domestic credit. With considerable gold deposits abroad, foreign credit could be extended or curtailed without inflation or deflation at home, it is argued, merely by increasing or reducing foreign exchange holdings of reserve banks.

Secondly, machinery would be provided for "pegging" dollar exchange close to parity, in the same manner that numerous foreign central banks "pegged" their currency before returning to the gold standard. The long standing international nuisance of a fluctuating dollar exchange would thus be removed.

Lastly, the plan would make possible the elimination of commercial shipment of gold, thus doing away with the expensive and generally unsatisfactory method of neutralizing gold shipments by sale and purchase of United States securities.

RACE-CLASH INQUIRY ASKED OF GOVERNOR

MISSING GIRL IS HUNTED

Sacramento, Calif., Jan. 30 (A.P.). A request that the State government investigate the causes of recent racial clashes involving Filipinos was received today at the office of Gov. C. C. Young, from Pablo Manlapit, Filipino labor leader exiled from Hawaii in 1927 under a parole agreement. Manlapit's communication to the governor stated that a mass meeting of more than 1,000 of his countrymen in Los Angeles Sunday night adopted a resolution asking that "State officials immediately investigate the reasons and causes of those violent assaults upon unprotected and inoffensive members of the Filipino race living in California to the end that proper prosecution shall be immediately instituted for the punishment of those responsible for such abuses and that justice shall be done." Manlapit said he was chairman of the meeting.

The resolution will be referred to the governor when he returns here tonight from Los Angeles.

This was the second appeal by Filipinos to the governor. A telegram yesterday from A. B. Ines, San Francisco, secretary of the Filipino Law Students Club of Lincoln University, asked that the executive restrain publication of incidents relating to the Filipino race riots, declaring that newspaper accounts contributed ill feeling and incited trouble.

Santa Cruz County authorities today carried into Filipino bunkhouses in the Pajaro Valley area, near Watsonville, their hunt for Carrie Victorini, 16-year-old daughter of a farmer. The white girl disappeared from her home Monday night and the county officials believed the Filipinos might have hidden her.

D.A.R. AID IS SOUGHT IN BOUNDARY CHANGE

INDORSEMENT IS URGED

A letter addressed to Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution and chairman of the Woman's Patriotic Conference on National Defense, by J. Cloyd Byars, counsel of the Back-to-the-District Association, made public last night, says:

"The Back-to-the-District Association is sponsoring a movement looking to the reestablishment of the original District lines—10 miles square, as laid off by Washington.

"A short-sighted Congress in 1846, influenced by sectional feeling and local prejudices, attempted to cede, and did pass an act purporting to convey back to Virginia about one-third of the original District.

"Probably no Congress before or since that of 1846 and no President before or since Pierce, would have seriously considered the perpetration of such an outrage against the idealism of those whose sacrifices made possible American freedom and whose dreams made possible the most beautiful city in the world.

"In the light of recent developments, particularly the complications which now confront the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the Fine Arts Commission, charged with the development and beautification of Washington's metropolitan area, all patriotic citizens agree that the retrocession act of 1846 was a calamity, which in some way should be promptly corrected.

"Believing that the patriotic women of your own and kindred organizations are interested in the preservation of those ideals which inspired the founders of our Government and have always been an influential factor in shaping the destiny of America, we are bringing this matter to your attention, hoping that through your efforts and indorsement, Congress may be induced to take some action to accomplish the return of this territory to the Federal Government on or before the two hundredth anniversary of Washington's birthday in 1932, either by retrocession from the State of Virginia, for or without a consideration, or by having the Supreme Court pass upon the constitutionality of the retrocession act of 1845."

SMITH BOLTERS WIN TEXAS PRIMARY ROW

LEGAL RULING IS GIVEN

Austin, Tex., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Texas Democrats who deserted Gov. Alfred E. Smith in 1928 to aid in putting the State in the Republican column in a presidential election for the first time in history, can not be barred from the party primary next June, Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt ruled today.

The opinion was delivered at the request of State Senator Thomas B. Love, of Dallas, a Democrat, who refused to support Mr. Smith for President after the New York Governor became the nominee of the party.

Mr. Love's application for a place on the Democratic primary ballot of next July as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination will be passed upon at a meeting of the party's State executive committee here on Saturday.

The attorney general's opinion held that the executive committee of a political party does not have the power in Texas to bar any person from participation in a party primary who voted against a nominee of the party at an election after taking part in the primary conventions and primary elections of that party.

It was held by the attorney general that the law inhibits the barring of either candidates or voters who failed to support the nominees.

D. W. Wilcox, of Georgetown, chairman of the Democratic State executive committee, had written Senator Love that he (Wilcox) felt sure that the committee had authority to bar Love if it decided to do so. Mr. Love took issue with Mr. Wilcox and said if his name were barred he would carry the matter to court.

CRAMTON PARK BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

tect water power development and navigation in the future. This was introduced by Representative Dempsey (Republican), of New York, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee. It was further amended by Representative McDuffie (Democrat), of Alabama, so as to make certain that any lands bought or donated for the parkway may be used for a waterway or a power plant if either is authorized by Congress in the future.

Schafer Leads Fight.

Representative Schafer (Republican) of Wisconsin, who a year ago fought the bill authorizing a toll bridge at Great Falls, led the fight against it when the Cramton bill was up yesterday. On his first attempt to block the project, he was ruled out of order, but subsequently he got through an amendment providing that no toll bridge shall be erected "within the confines of the George Washington Memorial Parkway."

In the meantime, Representative LaGuardia (Republican) of New York, did some fast parliamentary work and got through an amendment providing that the parkway shall include a free bridge. In erecting this, however, the States of Maryland and Virginia would have to agree to pay part of the cost.

Representative R. Walton Moore (Democrat) of Virginia, fought the Schafer and LaGuardia amendments, declaring that neither his State nor Maryland was willing at this time to put up a free bridge, and that the toll bridge was desired by many persons in both States. Moore also defended the men behind the toll bridge project after LaGuardia had called them "financial scalawags" who have been trying to sell bonds in New York.

Bavarian Red Meeting Stopped.

Munich, Bavaria, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The police today prohibited the Society of Friends of the New Russia from holding a meeting at which a professor from the Moscow University was to have spoken about the five-year economic plan developed by the Soviets.

Methodist Court Favored by Group

Church Commission Also Approves Written Constitution.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—A written constitution creating a judicial council to serve as an appellate court to which all questions of law would be carried for final decision was approved here today by the constitution commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Bishop H. M. Dubose, a member of the commission, predicted "prompt and decisive action in the matter of its adoption with such amendments as the General Conference may see fit to make at the General Conference meeting in May.

"The church has not had a written constitution heretofore," Bishop Dubose explained, "but in the book of law many constitutional elements exist and others have been created from time to time by action of the general body."

Bishop Warren A. Candler is chairman of the commission, which includes three bishops, five ministers, and six laymen. The other bishops are Dr. Dubose and Dr. U. V. W. Darlington.

Ileana's Wedding Set for April 27

Daughter of Queen Marie Announces Betrothal Herself.

Bucharest, Roumania, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The wedding of Princess Ileana, daughter of the Dowager Queen Marie, to Count Alexander Hochberg has been definitely fixed for April 27 at the royal palace in Sinaia. The princess herself announced her engagement today at a gathering of students in Predeal and later came here with her fiance.

The prince will leave shortly for London to visit his family, which claims to be the only descendants of the Piast dynasty which ruled Poland from the ninth to the end of the fourteenth century. The family still has large estates in Poland.

Queen Marie and her daughter are to travel in Syria, Palestine and Egypt during the next month or so and all will return to Roumania together.

The three policemen, undaunted by the seeming impossibility of their task, took a bateau and after more than an hour spent in wedging through the ice, reached the blind. There they found the two officers, almost frozen stiff, and without having fired a single duck.

At yesterday's meeting, Mr. Poole announced Mrs. Cyrel Devins, 104 years old, who lives at the Hebrew Home for the Aged and is the oldest member of the Community Chest, in point of years. In a brief speech in behalf of the woman, Mrs. Devins praised the aged woman and declared that:

"If my health and strength permitted, I would gladly be out helping in this great cause. I am enjoying my declining years in the home, where I am contented and happy, and where I shall spend the rest of my life in comfort."

Mrs. Devins, who seemed to be enjoying herself thoroughly despite the other conditions with which she had to contend in order to reach the platform, as assistant "key man" for her home presented pledges of $44 and $28 in cash, which placed the home in the honor-roll class as contributing 100 per cent to the Community Chest.

William W. Everett, past president of the Rotary Club and vice chairman of the special gifts committee, will be the speaker at today's report meeting.

Britain Refuses To Free Cyprus

London, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The Secretary of state for colonies has refused a request of residents of the island of Cyprus in the Mediterranean that they be permitted to affiliate themselves with Greece or be granted some form of responsible government.

The secretary's reply to a memorial of Greek members of the Cyprus legislative council dated last July was made public tonight. The memorial claimed to have signers representing five-sixths of the population of the island.

A deputation from Cyprus had also visited London last November to lay before the government its claims for political union with Greece instead of continuing under British administration. The secretary replied: "This subject is definitely closed and can profitably be discussed further."

Carrs to Have Own Residence In Lucas Home

Assistant Secretary of State Acquires Fine Establishment.

By JEAN ELIOT.

APARTMENT dwellers for many years, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr have finally decided to establish what Mrs. Carr calls a "real home" in Washington and have purchased the residence at 2300 Wyoming avenue. This is directly opposite the home of Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft and so many of Mr. and Mrs. Carr's friends are residents in this pleasant neighborhood that they are planning to have a "block party" once they have moved into their new house—if they can manage, even in so commodious a residence, to entertain at one time all their neighbors, who are already their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Carr will not take possession of their new house until spring, as some redecorating must be done. However, they are already planning its furnishing and picked up a number of charming pieces when they were visiting in New York recently. Built by the late Capt. Anthony Lucas and occupied intermittently since his death by Mrs. Lucas and her son, Mr. Anthony Lucas, jr., the house is in the Italian Renaissance style and is a fine example of its period. It boasts a charming garden and is one of the most attractive residences in a very attractive section.

Mr. Carr occupies a unique position in Washington's official group. He celebrated last June the thirty-seventh anniversary of the beginning of his service with the State Department. With most foreign-service officials, of course, work in the field alternates with duty at the department, but Mr. Carr's service has been continuous and in the State Department he is generally regarded as indispensable. He began as a lad, a $1,000-a-year clerk "on probation," when James G. Blaine was Secretary of State, and, after every variety of confidential service, became director of the consular service, a post which he held for many years. Then, when the foreign service was reorganized under the Rogers bill, he was made Assistant Secretary of State in charge of the consular service. Although originally from Minnesota, Mrs. Carr, who was Miss Edith Koon, had lived in Washington for a number of years before her marriage. Both have an enormously wide acquaintance here. There is no more popular couple in official society and newcomers to the Capital, especially those affiliated with the State Deepartment, find a guide, philosopher and friend in Mrs. Carr.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW

THE Automobile Show presents a pleasantly environed opportunity to view the latest body designs of the modern coachmakers for the precision-built Lincoln chassis. These designs, after the most careful consideration, have been added to the regular group of Lincoln bodies.

This exhibit is of particular interest, for the cars on display embody three carefully tested chassis developments that materially increase Lincoln ease of operation and riding quality. These developments are in line with the Lincoln policy of having no yearly models; but of steadily developing the car in all its parts, and adding these developments whenever they are perfected.

SNOW FAILS TO HALT AUTO SHOW VISITORS

CAR ORDERS ARE TAKEN

The worst snowstorm of the season yesterday failed to put a damper on the ardor of the crowds that visited the Washington Auditorium for the tenth annual automobile show held under auspices of the Washington Automotive Trade Association. Members of the show committee expressed gratification at the "surprising turnout," and declared that the attendance was the most eloquent possible expression of the keen local interest in the latest motor cars.

The carnival spirit seemed heightened at the auditorium yesterday and last night as a result of the heavy snowfall, and the crowds thrilled to the contrast presented by the mantle of white without and the brilliant, spring-like colorings which mark the decorative background within the huge exposition building.

Despite weather which might naturally be expected to diminish attendance somewhat, it is reported by the show committee that the number of visitors passing through the auditorium this year compares very favorably with the record of 80,000 set last year, and the show still has two days to run. It will be brought to a close at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

That Washingtonians do not expect motoring always to be as arduous as it was yesterday is indicated in the number of orders for new cars booked by exhibitors at the show. Anticipating the many crisp days which make winter motoring a joy, and the long months of spring and summer, motorists are arranging at the show for the delivery of new cars.

The series of radio talks sponsored by the W. A. T. A. in behalf of the show was concluded last night with two addresses, one over Station WRC and the other over Station WMAL.

CAPITAL ORCHESTRA HAS DEBUT TODAY

GOOD SUPPORT SHOWN

Washington's newly organized National Symphony Orchestra will make its public debut this afternoon at 4:45 o'clock in a pretentious program in the new D. A. R. auditorium at Eighteenth and C streets northwest.

Rudolph Schueller, noted German-American conductor, will conduct the concert, the first of a series of four which it is proposed to give in Washington this season. Mr. Schueller arrived here from his home in Cleveland, Monday, and has been busy rehearsing the musicians ever since, the final rehearsal being this morning.

Mr. Schueller was the guest of honor yesterday at a reception given by Frank F. Frost, president of the National Symphony Orchestra, who has taken out a card in the musicians' union himself in order to be permitted to play the viola in the new aggregation.

Good Support is Reported.

Sponsors of the orchestra report that it has been accorded remarkable support from local trade, civic and social organizations. The committee in charge of plans for today's concert is headed by Representative Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House, and includes also Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Mrs. Adolphe C. Miller, E. H. Droop, Senator Arthur Capper, Miss Laura Harlan, Herman Hagedorn, Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Duncan Phillips, Baroness van Boetzelaer, Mrs. Franklin Ellis and Mrs. Lawrence Townsend.

The orchestra and its plans have been indorsed by the Washington Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, Merchants & Manufacturers Association, Federation of Citizens Associations and the American Automobile Association, each of which has appointed a committee to cooperate with the orchestra committee.

Features of First Program.

The program arranged for the opening concert today will be distinguished principally for its presentation of symphonic variations of "A New England Hymn," one of the movements of Edgar Stillman Kelley's composition, "New England Symphony." The composer is expected to be in the audience today.

The program will open with the overture of Wagner's opera, "Tannhauser," and includes Bizet's "L'Arlesienne," No. 1 orchestra suite of Daudet's drama, as well as Liszt's phonic poem, "Les Preludes." The Bizet suite is in four movements.

Every member of the orchestra is a professional Washington musician. They have banded together, without salary, to give Washington a symphony orchestra of its own, this being the first serious attempt along such lines in many years. Special permission to waive all wage considerations has been granted by the musicians' union. There are more than 80 musicians in the orchestra.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

So much attention has been given to headlight adjustment that many motorists may overlook the necessity for maintaining proper lighting equipment at the rear of the car. The tail light is placed there for the double purpose of preventing rear-end collisions in darkness and of illuminating the license plate.

The District regulations require the rear of the car to show a red light visible for 500 feet and a white light so placed that it illuminates the numerals on the license plate for at least 50 feet.

Example: The red lens in the tail light of a motorist's car is broken and drops out of its holder. The driver continues to use the car with only the bulb showing. It is a white light, however, not red, as the regulations require. The motorist may be arrested and fined for his failure to repair the light.

STATE HEARING ENDING

Kansas City, Kans., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—State investigation into the wreck here Monday of a Central Air Line passenger plane and the death of five persons was virtually ended late today after a company engineer testified that a frayed cable connecting to the right aileron on the ship may have caused the disaster.

R. G. Lockwood, general operations manager for the University Aviation Corporation which controls the Central Air Lines, who testified that the frayed cable was found in a minute investigation of the wreckage, will proceed to Wichita tomorrow to continue the company's investigation.

County Attorney Fred R. White will question employes at a factory near which the plane crashed before closing the official inquiry.

Mr. Lockwood said he expected to go to Wichita, Kans., tomorrow where a further technical study of a sister ship of the wrecked plane would be made. Mechanics and others responsible for inspection of the plane before its take-off from Wichita would be questioned, he explained.

E. E. Hesaler, a passenger who left the ill-fated craft at Topeka, today testified that normal conditions as regarded the passengers, the plane and the pilot, prevailed then.

Thieves Work Hard, Get Little.

After sawing through the iron bars of a rear window and then smashing the glass, thieves gained little reward for their efforts to rob a Sanitary branch store at 828 Upshur street northwest. A thorough check-up of the stock, police reported, revealed that only five cartons of cigarettes, valued at $4, were missing.

"I am a saleslady in a store. My nerves got the best of me and I never had good finger nails because I couldn't stop biting them off. My appetite was poor and I was always tired. One of my friends told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help me. I know that it controls the nerves because I have no desire to bite my nails now and they are long and well kept. My appetite is enormous and I feel like a new person. I have recommended your good medicine to many girls and I assure you that they have found the same good results. I will gladly answer letters from women or girls."—Miss Ethel Fleetwood.

MRS. ANGELINE MAJKOWSKI

"This is to thank you for helping me get my health. After I was married I had to be operated on and it didn't do me any good. I was so worried and cried all the time for I had spent over $800 for sickness and yet I didn't get better. I saw a sign about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in a drug store and I took four bottles. Now there is happiness in our home, for we have two little boys with nice red cheeks. I am healthy myself and the more Vegetable Compound I take the better I feel. I have told my friends about it for I believe it will help anybody if they take it regularly."—Mrs. Angeline Majkowski.

MRS. W. OVERMANN
918 Regina Ave., St. Louis, Missouri

"Nine years ago when my little girl was born dead, I seemed to lose every bit of strength and vitality. I had an awful pulling down feeling in my back and my legs were so stiff I could hardly walk. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about four months. The next year I became the mother of a fine 11-pound baby boy. After he was born, I kept on with the medicine to build me up. About four months ago I became very nervous and rundown and suffered from other troubles which I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable would relieve so I started taking it and now I feel fine again. Many of my friends could write a book on the good the Vegetable Compound has done them."—Mrs. W. Overmann.

"A very troublesome irritation started on my face and neck. Small, red pimples broke out, but later took the form of disfiguring patches and my skin was very rough. The itching was so severe that I scratched, causing the pimples to fester and scatter. They annoyed me a great deal and I was very much discouraged.

"After trying many different remedies for weeks, without any benefit, I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using them about three days I noticed some improvement, and in ten days I was healed." (Signed) Victor Borsalin, 652½ Hernando St., Memphis, Tenn., June 10 1929.

Landslide Kills Three, Hurts Four

Premature Dynamite Blast First Blamed in Tragedy on Railroad.

Ashland, Ky., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Three workmen were killed and four injured here today in a slide of earth that first was attributed to a premature explosion of dynamite, but later was said to have been caused by recent freezing and thawing which loosened the earth. Railroad officials said after investigation no dynamite charge had exploded.

The men were members of a construction gang of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad and were working on the tracks when tons of earth and rock suddenly rolled down upon them. The dead were Ray Conley, Beecha Wilson and Taylor Miller, and the injured were Charles Scott, Jack Withrow, John Conley and O. C. Fowler.

Police and firemen joined the uninjured laborers in digging out the dead and injured and final[illegible] all were recovered. The line was cleared for traffic shortly after noon.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM

In making inquiries, address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

American Can.

J. W.—Kindly let me have some information concerning American Can?

Answer—This company is the largest manufacturer of metal containers. It is in a strong financial condition. More than $80,000,000 of earnings have been reinvested in the last 20 years, about half in fixed property and most of the remainder in working capital. The outlook for American Can is good as a continuance of large earnings is looked for, subject in some degree to fluctuations in the size of fruit, fish and vegetable packs. The stock now pays $4 annually. An extra of $1 was paid on January 2, 1929. The capital stock consists of $41,533,300 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, par $100, and $61,849,950 common stock, par $25. The company has no funded debt. American Can may be regarded as a conservative investment issue for long term holding.

Columbia Gas & Electric.

C. W.—Can you let me have some information regarding Columbia Gas & Electric?

Answer—Columbia Gas is interested in natural gas and oil, electric power and light, street railway and miscellaneous operations. For the nine months ended with September 30, last earnings were equal to $2.08 on the common stock, compared with $1.88 for the same period of 1928. Approval was given last November to an increase in the authorized common stock from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 shares. Following the 2½ for 1 splitup, the common stock was put on a $2 annual dividend basis, which is equal to $5 a share before the split. On March 31, next, stockholders of record February 28 will receive a 2½ per cent stock dividend. The outlook for Columbia Gas is favorable. Earnings for 1929 were good, net for the year amounting to about $3 a share. There has been a large increase in the gas and electric business, and further expansion of the natiopl gas business is planned. The stock may be regarded as a conservative investment for the long pull.

Chesapeake & Ohio R. R.

H. H.—What rating do you give Chesapeake & Ohio Railway? Do you regard it as a good holding?

Answer—The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway is controlled, through the Alleghany Corporation, by the Van Sweringens and associates. The C. & O. owns control of the Hocking Valley and Pere Marquette. Based on the showing for the first eleven months of last year, profits for the full twelve months are estimated at $16.10

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

If January 31 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Considerable nervous energy will be engendered by the influence on this date, and although there will be much stir and bustle, the accomplishments will be small. There will be a tendency to speak in haste, and much may be lost through an ill-spoken word.

The child born on this January 31 will be sweet-tempered, easy-going and full of fun. It will be very fond of its home and will be loath to leave its protective home fires and family. It will be democratically friendly.

Nature was both generous and kind in her distribution of gifts to you. You were given the greatest of all character assets, "personality." You not only have ability, but you have a captivating charm. People trust you, like you and believe in you, and it may be said in truth that you never knowingly let them down. The world smiles at you, but it expects you to make good, and to do something above the ordinary. It is a blessing to you that you are not in the least self-conceited—your naturalness and simplicity are additional attributes of your character.

You should be a gifted writer, as you express yourself by pen most fluently and your style is free and easy. Although you may not commercialize this gift, you will find it both a business and social asset. Your letters are never drab or common place.

You are a "spur of the moment" being and your decisions are made and acted upon without delay. Your first impressions, whether it be of people or situations, are your best bet. A woman born on a January 31 can always rely upon her intuition, and should be guided by her "hunches." Your devotional nature will be strongly developed, and you will have your own views about religion.

Successful people born January 31:

John H. Boner, poet.
Joseph Wright Harriman, banker.
Rupert Hughes, author.
Nathan Strauss, merchant.
Henry W. Sage, philanthropist.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

NOTHING CAN BE DONE.

REPLY.

No precautions are necessary. It is esthetically desirable to keep things clean.

GLASSES STAY WITH YOU.

R. H. S. writes: Is it possible for glasses to correct nearsightedness, farsightedness or astigmatism so that after wearing for a while they could be discarded?

REPLY.

While this happens occasionally with certain eye defects, it is not to be expected. The probability lies in the opposite direction.

SURE, HAVE A FAMILY.

J. T. F. writes: 1. Can a woman cured of tuberculosis have children? She was in an early stage.

2. Will the child be affected by the sickness?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. No.

CHANGING CLIMATE A GAMBLE.

R. C. R. writes: I have been a sufferer from asthma for two years. During the summer months I have little trouble, but when cold weather starts I break down. Do you think a change of climate would be suitable?

REPLY

Changing climate for asthma, without knowing the cause in its particular case, is very much of a gamble.

MANY SORTS OF LAXATIVES.

M. K. writes: Would you please give a list of foods that are constipating and a list that are helpful to relieve constipation? I am 19 years old and I have been troubled by it for about a year. I have been using mineral oil.

REPLY.

Among the laxative foods are sour milk, buttermilk, molasses, milk sugar, malt sugar, onions, bran and fruits.

I do not know that there are any constipating foods, properly speaking.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, Jan. 30.

We see so many little, low, flat, funny, but altogether charming, stool things around these days—actually to sit on. It seems to be a completely new note in modernistic furniture. In no other period of furniture can I remember anything of this description.

Square or oblong, triangular or oval, round or six-cornered, they don't seem to care. But seldom on four legs, more often on a perfectly solid base. Thus they are, and then covered with coarse-textured materials, with one matching cushion on the top.

Sometimes they have leather cushions, and sometimes fur—scarcely ever are they more decorative except in the case of the boudoir furniture—and then they confine themselves to pastel velours.

No fooling, the empty coffee cans come in handy! Now that we live in a country that doesn't sell coffee in cans! Any one who wants to do me an especial sort of favor for no reason at all can just send me a can of American coffee—addressed 23 Rue Froidevaux, Paris. I will not only bless you for every ground of the coffee, but engrave the can with your name and permanently enshrine it in my studio as a part of a modernistic stool.

• • • •

Have you a little coffee can in your repertoire? Group it and five of its sister cans together, cover them with cotton wadding and rough material and have a hundred dollars' worth of modernistic foot-stool for your trouble!

• • • •

I hope you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, because it tells you exactly how to make one of those very new and awfully smart suit-dresses which I am absolutely sure you will find ten times more useful, even, than you expect it to be, as well as many times smarter.

You know, made of light-weight serge or crepe de chine, and worn with softly printed chiffon blouses—and then, with the jacket buttoned, looking exactly as a smart one-piece dress; with the jacket open, looking like a charming suit.

'N' then the slender diamond earrings that balance the heels of the shoes—and the tiny specially made diamond fan, no bigger than a pig's ear—no, I mean a sou's purse—— Gee, I'm a little mixed up. Well, to tell you the truth, I started out all right, but got a little mixed up myself New Year's Eve (that's when I saw it, or them, and made a memo to tell you).

• • • •

Ensembles will never go out of style so long as there is a Schiaparelli in the offing! Because the one I illustrated for you today is such a dream of chic, with its simple dark blue coat lined in beige, brown, blue and white tweed, which, of course, repeats itself on the dress.

• • • •

And here's the reminder again! The weekly Dare fashion letter, you know, is in The Sunday Washington Post, and we urge you to look for it.

Au Revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Why Mothers Fear."

DEAR MISS M'DONALD: I am one of your many admirers and a constant reader of your column. I have been hoping to find some time that some one would write to you asking your advice of a problem similar to mine. But as no one has, I have picked up enough courage to try to tell you about it. You see it took me a very long time to make up my mind but I finally did and here it is.

I am 16 years of age, and considered rather attractive. Am at this time a senior in high school. I study very hard and always have my work finished, which brings me real good marks in school. I have many friends, including both sexes, and am invited to many parties, dances, &c., by members of the male sex. But, Miss McDonald, I do not go because I am in love with the most wonderful man that I have ever known. Now the best part of this is that he really loves me. I suppose you think I am a silly little school kid, but I really know our love is sincere and very sacred. Dick is 19 years old. I have known him for about five years. Met him at a public gathering and have gone to parties, &c., for about two years. Now I have been going with him regularly for about one and one-half years.

Now, Miss McDonald, my mother thoroughly disapproves of this. She thinks I should go out with other young men who ask me to go with them sometimes. But they just do not interest me and I can not help it. He is the only one. My mother does not know that we are in love. I am afraid if she would find out she would send me across the sea to some of our relatives. Neither do we intend to tell her until we are of age and Dick "has a cage to put the bird in."

But my mother wouldn't understand and as I was just bursting with news, wanting the advice of some one, and couldn't find any one but you to ask it of, I know you will help me to solve my problem. Please tell me if I am doing right by going with Dick regularly and not telling mother of our love.

Thanking you most heartily for your advice and wishing you a happy and prosperous New Year, I remain,

AUDRY.

No need to disturb mother, dear child. Just go out with other boys as much as possible and if Dick is the man, nothing on earth can halt the march to the altar. Parents for centuries have been wringing their hands and shouting warnings, but love goes blithely on its way!

Of course your mother is absolutely wise and right in wanting you to know lots and lots of boys, and all their various winning ways before making a selection. You know each one has his own particular appeal—and mothers know it. Probably mother was "in love" half a dozen times before your dad appeared, and so she is fearful that you may make the mistake of choosing before the real one appears. Just take your time Audry, let them all worship for a while, then make your selection, and if the man is really the one and only mother will be content!

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

HOME BRIDGE CONTEST.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

As guests of Mr. Edwin F. Hill, the well-known drama lover and disseminator of news for the telephone system, members of this department went to the Kiwanis Club luncheon yesterday to hear a lecture on plays and players by the estimable Robert Macgunigle. 'Twas a goodly gathering and rather a splendid talk, having to do mostly with the works of Eugene O'Neill, whose before-and-after-dinner play, "Strange Interlude" will be uncorked once again in the National Theater. When the curtain goes up next Monday night Miss Elizabeth Risdon, an actress who scored here a season back in a trio of plays, will have the lead role. According to Mr. Macgunigle the O'Neill play's well worth seeing.

• • • •

KNIGHT MacGREGOR, a well-known concert barytone, plays and sings the role of Franz Schubert in the farewell tour of "Blossom Time," the operetta that opens Monday night at Poli's in its ninth successive stand at the old playhouse. Mr. MacGregor is no newcomer to the role having essayed it several years ago when one of the first flock of "Blossom Time" companies hit the road. There is no doubt that "Blossom Time" is making its last appearance in Washington for some time. Even though another farewell tour were started next year they'd be no Poli's to house the company since the old theater is itself in the position of singing a swan song. Work of tearing down those buildings in the block between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, on the Avenue, will commence in early July—a month when the roses are abloom in Washington.

• • • •

NOW that the parrot scare is over, with the fever in abatement, there is rumor abroad in the land that Arch Selwyn, or one of those highpowered producers, may bring Frederick Lonsdale's new comedy over from London. The play bears the intriguing title, "Canaries Sometimes Sing," and is said to be a somewhat sophisticated stage version of the old theme song, "Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage."

• • • •

JUST when Washington was getting ready to welcome Fred Stone back to the stage, this city having been selected for the premiere of his new musical comedy, "Ripples," word comes that Charles Dillingham, the producer, decided to open it elsewhere. Hence, the week of February 9, reserved at the National for Mr. Stone and his charming daughter will now be turned over to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson in their travelogue film, "Around the World."

• • • •

"SHOW Boat," billed here for the week of February 17, in the theater where it made its first bow to the public, the National will not be seen here until the following week, February 23, due to popular reception in Cleveland that called for another week. This booking leaves a gap week in local theatredom to be filled by some other attraction.

• • • •

MR. T. D. BONNEVILLE, manager of Poli's, has invited all his guests at "Robin Hood" tonight, the members of the International Boundary Commission between Canada and the United States—a august body that meets here only as often and once a year in Ottawa.

On Sunday, Mr. E. M. Newman, the traveler, comes to town with a lecture on "Brazil."

Conference to Start For Girl Reserve Clubs

More than 200 delegates, representing Girl Reserve Clubs of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, will gather in Barker Hall of the Y. W. C. A. today for the annual midwinter conference of the clubs in the Eastern region. It is the first such conference to be held in Washington.

The three-day conference is expected to solve many problems which confront girls' clubs in various cities. Among the special events are an international banquet tomorrow night at which girl guests from foreign embassies and legations will be entertained and a special service Sunday at which the Rev. ZeBarney Phillips will speak.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, JANUARY 31, 1930. 13

WESTERN AND TECH PLAY FOR SERIES LEAD TODAY

College Fives To Resume Action

G. W. Will Entertain Randolph-Macon Team Tonight.

Gallaudet to Travel; Carolina State Plays Md. Tomorrow.

TWO of the four week-end basket ball games for local colleges will be played tonight after an inactivity which has existed for six days. George Washington will engage Randolph-Macon on the H-street floor and Gallaudet will opose Juniata at Huntingdon, Pa. Tomorrow night, Maryland and North Carolina State will clash at College Park, while American will play host to Elon, of North Carolina, at the Massachusetts Avenue Heights Gymnasium.

The George Washington-Randolph-Macon contest tonight should be productive of keenly contested basket ball as both teams are well drilled and of almost equal strength. In an earlier meeting at the Virginians' court in Ashland, George Washington gained a 1-point decision, 31 to 30.

Randolph-Macon Seeks Revenge.

Randolph-Macon is coming here with the avowed intention of avenging that defeat. It was the first loss of the season for the Old Dominion team. It left the Virginians with a conviction that they could turn the tables in their next meeting with the Colonials rather than that they were beaten by a better team.

Coach Joe Mitchell believes George Washington will repeat although he has the greatest respect for the invading team. He expects the element of speed to weigh in the Colonial's favor. There is a wealth of speedy talent in the G. W. personnel.

Maryland Faces Hardest Test Since Duke.

Maryland faces its hardest test since it met Duke on January 9 in the game with North Carolina State tomorrow night. The Wolfpack, winner of the Southern Conference championship last year, is a powerful offensive team. It has lost three games out of eight so far this season, but has managed to give its conquerors a run for their money. Duke, which nosed out Maryland, 28 to 27, defeated the Wolfpack by 4 points.

This contest should to a certain extent determine Maryland's chances in the 1930 Southern Conference tournament, which will be held at Atlanta in March. If the Terrapin five can overpower the present champion it should be able to cut quite a figure in the titular competition later on.

Boston Hockey Club Trades Star Player

Boston, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—C. F. Adams, president of the Boston Bruins Hockey Club, tonight announced that he had traded Bill Hutton, his third-string right-winger, for Harry Connor, of the Ottawa Senators. The deal will go into effect immediately and Hutton will join the Senators in time for their game with Les Canadiens on Saturday night.

Oregon Trapshooter Wins Trevose Tourney

Philadelphia, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Frank Troeh, of Portland, Oreg., beat by 10 points E. W. Renfro, of Dell Mont., in the four-day trap-shooting tournament at Trevose which ended today. Troeh had a grand total of 569, while the Montana ace finished with 559.

Troeh exhibited accurate marksmanship, accounting for 194 in the singles and 184 in the doubles. Although beaten by Renfro in the singles, Troeh continued to hold his lead by topping his rival, who was able to score only 173 in the doubles.

In the doubles match today, Troeh scored 45 out of 25 pairs to win, while Renfro was next best with 41. Both were tied, at 91 apiece, in the singles shoot.

ON THE SIDELINES

by BRIAN BELL

THE CHICAGO CUBS, long hunting the baseball trail for a competent left-handed pitcher, may have one now in Malcolm Moss, late of the Louisville Colonels. Moss is left-handed now, but he was not always. As a boy he was a regular right-hander, but developed into a southpaw for baseball purposes. He will get every chance to become a Cub, for Manager Joe McCarthy can use a left-hander to advantage, regardless of previous right-hand leanings.

Another pitcher from the American Association who may make a place for himself on the Cub staff is Lynn Nelson, a right-hander. William Wrigley, jr., paid handsomely for the services of the two recruits.

The new players of most early promise in the National League run largely to positions outside the pitching mound, although Brooklyn may uncover a find in the colorful Buck Newsom, an underhand pitcher who came to the Robins late in the year from the Macon farm in the Sally League.

Newsom is not lacking in confidence, and is said to boast a wide assortment of pitching equipment.

THE PIRATES are counting heavily on Gus Suhr, first baseman from the Pacific Coast League, and the Giants will be very much disappointed if Eddie Marshall fails to make himself useful about the infield, second base preferred.

An infielder, too, will be most closely watched in the camp of the Cincinnati Reds. Tony Cuccinello, up from Columbus, is expected to put up a determined fight for rating as a regular from the outset.

After the tragic death of Walter Lerain, the Phillies were in desperate straits for a catcher, and the trade bringing them the services of Harry McCurdy was a boon. McCurdy, former White Sox receiver, should fit into the Philadelphia line-up. Al Cooper, tall, lean catcher from Birmingham, who was a great hittter in the minor leagues, will also help Burt Shotten.

THE BRAVES' best bet among the recruits may prove to be Walter Berger, hard-hitting outfielder from the Pacific Coast League. The Cardinals, in offering the most promising recruit in their camp, will point to one who was formerly their own, but has been away from home. St. Louis let Homer Bell go to Philadelphia and now they have him back again.

The Phillies, however, can match the Cards by pointing to "Old Pete" Alexander, who has returned to his first love after many seasons in other baseball pastures. The assignment given Alex is to win eight games and save a few more. The Nebraskan has promised to exceed his quarter and may turn in a dozen victories. Alex is also counted on to teach some of the Phillies' young pitchers tricks. He can teach them how to win world series games, among other things.

GENE SARAZEN was richly repaid for his flying trip to Mexico when he was returned the winner in the $25,000 Agua Caliente open. The first money prize of $10,000 set a new high monetary reward for golf play. Sarazen had not planned to play in the Mexican event, and after the P. G. A. tourney at Los Angeles, returned to Florida. When he won the Miami open for the fourth time, he decided that he was again "on" his game after a lapse and should try his luck for golf's richest stake. He hurriedly packed a bag and left for Mexico. It was a worthwhile experiment for the former open champion.

Anti-Race Betting Bill Voted Down in Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—A motion to place a bill to prohibit race-track betting on the Senate calendar was defeated today by vote of 25 to 10, 3 not voting.

Clarence Bartlett, its sponsor, then moved that another of his bills, one to repeal the pari-mutuel law, be enrolled. The motion was defeated by the same vote without debate.

Dan E. Daly Dead at 63; Fought 91-Round Draw

St. Louis, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Dan E. Daly, a featherweight fighter of note 40 years ago, who fought a 91-round draw with Tommy White at South Omaha, Nebr., December 6, 1890, for $137, died in obscurity here yesterday. He was 63 years old. In recent years he had occupied a subordinate position at the Missouri Athletic Association.

Ebbetts and Chastain To Fight for Dempsey

Promoter Dempsey signed the pair to replace a match between Earl Mastro, Chicago featherweight, and Pete Zivic, of Pittsburgh. Mastro developed an infected tooth, necessitating cancellation of the Zivic match and other engagements.

Spug Myers, Pocatello, Idaho, lightweight, will meet Joey Medill, Chicago, in a ten-round seminfnal.

Little Hope Is Held For Joe Cantillon

Hickman, Ky., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The end draws near for Pongo Joe Cantillon, American baseball veteran, doctors declared tonight as he grew weaker and weaker after a reversal of his condition last night.

Physicians and his wif remained by his bedside through last night and today, and it was necessary to give him opiates more frequently, as his heart action grew erratic and his breathing more difficult.

Hope for his recovery, following a turn for the worse, Sunday, after a paralytic stroke last week has been abandoned.

A. A. U. Names Spitzer To National Committee

Ernest J. Spitzer, secretary of the District of Columbia Association of the A. A. U., has been selected to serve on the national redistricting committee of the union, Charles L. Ornstein, chairman, announced last night. The redistricting committee is composed of 21 men affiliated with member associations of the union throughout the country. This committee last year approved unanimously the formation of the District of Columbia Association.

Tilden, in Semifinals, Faces Brugnon Today

Big Bill's semifinal opponent will be Jacques Brugnon, oldest of the French "Musketeers," and if victorious the American champion is expected to encounter his old rival, Baron H. L. Demorpurgo, of the Italian Davis Cup Team in the finals.

Tilden's game has improved considerably since he was defeated by Jean Borotra for the French covered courts title, in Paris, earlier in the month.

Barbuti Will Return To Track as Sprinter

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Ray Barbuti, now back in the good graces of the Amateur Athletic Union after eleven months under suspension, may be seen this winter in the role of a sprinter instead of a quarter-miler.

Reinstated last night by the A. A. U., the big Olympic 400-meter champion decided today that the best way to begin a comeback would be to try his luck at the dashes.

Just what events he will enter, Barbuti has not yet determined. He is no stranger to the sprints. While at Syracuse University he captured the intercollegiate championship 220 yards, as well as 440 in 1928, his final year.

Carnera Has 60-Pound Edge in Bout Tonight

Chicago, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera will have a weight advantage of about 60 pounds over Elzear Rioux, French-Canadian heavyweight, when he makes his Chicago debut at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

The sizable Italian finished training for the bout today and will climb into the ring weighing about 270 pounds, while Rioux will scale about 210. Carnera's advantage in height will amount to about 3 inches and he will outstretch Elzear by 4 inches.

King Tut, of Minneapolis, and Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle Negro lightweight, also wound up preparation for their 10-round return bout.

National Soccer Group Lifts Ban on Grieve

What soccer officials ardently hope is the last chapter in the Clan MacLennan-Concord soccer war was written yesterday when word was received from national headquarters in New York that Martin Grieve, the only person still under suspension, had been reinstated.

The ruction began in the fall of 1928 when claims were made that the Clan MacLennan Soccer Eleven had used ineligible players in a game against Concord. In the long-drawn out dispute that ensued the United States Football Association overruled the Washington Association and gave the protested game to Concord.

Grieve is one of the oldest soccer men, if the point of service, in the District. As far back as 1909 he played the game here when there was but one team. He has always been a hard worker for the interest of soccer and has done much toward the promotion of the game in the last few years when it was first being put on an organized basis.

The Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association will meet next Tuesday night in the playground office. Indications were yesterday that once more all Sunday games will have to be postponed here. It is also doubtful if the Concord Kickers can play their match against Locust Point Rangers in Baltimore.

Grimes Looms As Spitball Survivor

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

SPIT-BALL pitchers have passed out of the baseball picture at such a rapid rate during recent years that, if the museum wants a specimen, it has only three left from which to make a choice and two of these appear to be on their last legs. In December, 1920, when the major leagues decided to taboo freak deliveries, there were seventeen moist-ball hurlers doing business. While this type of delivery was barred, in fairness to those who depended upon it for a livelihood, a special dispensation was granted allowing them to finish out their diamond careers.

At that time there were eight spitballers toiling in the National League—William Doak, Phil Douglass, Dave Fillingim, Ray Fisher, Marvin Goodwin, Burleigh Grimes, Clarence Mitchell and Ralph Rudolph—while there were nine in captivity in the American—A. W. Ayres, Ray Caldwell, Stanley Coveleskie, Urban Faber, H. B. Leonard, Jack Quinn, Allan Russell, Urban Shocker and Alan Sothoron.

Grimes Remains Top Notcher.

Gradually the tribe has diminished until, with the recent retirement of Mitchell, of the Cardinals, only Grimes, Quinn and Faber are left. Indications are that the latter two are about ready for the baseball graveyard, leaving only Grimes to carry on.

Grimes is still a top-notcher and was the ace of the Pittsburgh Pirates' staff until an injury knocked him off of his stride last season and, by the same token, practically ruined the Buccaneers' pennant hopes. Grimes, who is under the 40-year mark and younger than either Faber or Quinn, is one of the veterans of the National League. He also has seen service with the Giants and Robins and is ready to start his fifteenth season under the banner of John A. Heydler.

Grimes is an "iron man" and is almost sure to be the last of the spitballers. He was among the leaders of the National League last season until a line drive from the bat of Bill Terry, of the Giants, injured his pitching hand and forced him to lay off for five weeks. Upon his return to the races, he was never able to get back into his stride.

Disputes Theory of Wear and Tear.

It always has been said that there is more wear and tear on a spit-ball pitcher's arm than on that of an orthodox flinger, but Grimes surely is an exception to the rule. He declares that his arm feels as strong as it ever did and predicts that he will be drawing a major league salary for at least five more years. And what makes Grimes' case all the more exceptional is the fact that he bears down on every pitch and apparently finishes his games just as strongly as he starts them.

Faber and Quinn are easy-motion pitchers and much of their effectiveness is due to their uncanny control and their smartness, for both know the weaknesses of every American League batter and pitch accordingly. From the stands, they do not seem to be working hard, but every ball they let loose has something on it. Few are good, but they are usually close enough to the plate to make the batter feel that he can not take a chance on letting them go by and be called strikes.

Both of the American Leaguers have needed almost a week's rest between games during the past two years and Father Time appears to be right on their heels. The coming season may be their last, leaving the Pittsburgh ace the last of the diamond's "G. A. R."

Miss Palfrey, 18, Gains U. S. Indoor Net Finals

Brookline, Mass., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Mianne Palfrey, 18 years old, third oldest of Brookline's five tennis-playing sisters, today reached the championship round of the women's national indoor singles tournament by defeating Miss Edith Sigourney, of Boston, the 1928 champion, 2—6, 6—1, 7—5.

Miss Palfrey is the youngest player ever to reach the finals of this event and, though unseeded, she forged her way into the last bracket by eliminating three seeded opponents in as many days. Her previous victims were Virginia Rice, of Boston, and Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham.

Miss Palfrey will clash in the finals Saturday against the winner of the semifinal match between Mrs. Jonn B. Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., who was top seeded, and Miss Margaret Blake, of Lenox, the defending champion, who will match strokes tomorrow.

A. A. U. Unlimited and 145-Lb. Players Must Register by Tonight for Tournament

Teams Storm Post as Closing of Entry List Nears.

UNLIMITED and 145-pound basket ball teams literally stormed the Sports Department of The Post last night to register their players for the District A. A. U. championship tournament. The rush will reach its climax tonight at midnight when the registering of players for those classes will close. That practically every unlimited and 145-pound team in amateur ranks will be in line, was the indication last night.

The tournament, which will decide the District championships in the various classes, is being sponsored by The Washington Post and will start on March 10. As usual, the best playing conditions possible will be obtained for the games.

No players will be eligible to compete in these two classes who do not apply for registration prior to midnight tonight.

The last minute rush of late applicants began yesterday and is expected to continue until the closing hour tonight. A majority of the teams to seek 145-pound and unlimited honors will be registered today and tonight. To facilitate matters, William E. Russell, chairman, and members of the registration committee will be in the sports department of The Post tonight to receive applications.

Individual Registration Due Tonight.

Only individual registration applications are required to be filed by midnight tonight. Team entries, naming the players to be used by the respective teams in the tournament, may be filed any time before midnight of February 28. Only individual registration fees, of 25 cents per player, are required to be paid before midnight tonight.

Early registrations received by the committee indicate that not only will last year's record entry list be surpassed, but the same high calibre of teams will be maintained.

Many teams have been delayed in registering by the fact that one or more of their respective players are uncertain which team to affiliate with. In some cases, players have been playing with two or more terms and each of these teams is anxious to have the player in question play with it. As a result, many of the teams are delaying registering until the last minute in order to be certain that no player wanted is not overlooked.

Unregistered Players Not Eligible.

Although applications for registration in the District A. A. U. are received by the registration committee at any time, none of those filed after midnight tonight will make the delinquents eligible to compete in the 145-pound and unlimited class championships of the tournament. The players planning to register for the 100, 115 and 130 pound boys' classes and the senior and junior girls' classes have until February 28 to make application.

Registration blanks may be obtained at The Post sports department or from Mr. Russell, at 1503 North Capitol street, and may be filed at either place. The registration committee will review the applications immediately and issue cards to those accepted.

"Bulletin 23" Accurate Only 10%, Says Zuppke

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Bob Zuppke, University of Illinois coach, told a football audience here last night that Bulletin 23, recently published by the Carnegie Foundation, is accurate in only 10 per cent of its statements.

"One out of ten statements published in what is known as Bulletin 23 of the Carnegie Foundation is based on facts. The rest is hearsay," Zupke said.

Professing a personal acquaintance with and admiration for "the scholars who are the authors of the bulletin," Coach Zuppke said that their investigation was "colored by their individual opinions."

Virginia Poly Five Bows To Rally by Elon, 30-21

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Jan. 30.—Elon College uncorked a powerful attack in the final half here tonight to upset the Virginia Poly Quintet, 30 to 21. Trailing at the half, the visitors held the locals scoreless until midway the final period. Parker, Rollins and Briggs streaked through the Poly defense with scoring shots.

The Carolinians put up a strong battle throughout a nip-and-tuck first half, which saw the lead change three times before Zirkle tied the count at 9-all after 14 minutes. Briggs tapped a long toss into the net to put Elon in front a moment later, but Baker scored at short range. Owens from far a court and Baker again from the foul line to snatch a 4-point lead for Poly. Briggs sank a long toss to draw within two points of the Gobblers at the half, with the score 15-13.

V. P. I. scored but two goals from scrimmage after intermission and never threatened a safe lead rolled up by Caddell, Rollins, Parker and Briggs in the early minutes. The latter three were high scorers with seven points each.

Whitestone Extends St. Mary Celtic Five

A small, young Whitestone basket ball team put up a whale of a fight last night at the Alexandria Armory Hall, leading the St. Mary's Celtics throughout, but in the last 45 seconds Cohen was fouled while making a field goal and made good on the last of his two free attempts, winning the game for the Celtics, 28-27.

Until that time the Whitestone team held the upper hand, having led, 15-14, at half time. With the score 27-26 with 45 seconds to go, Cohen let the ball fly, and as it dropped through the net, tying the score, was fouled. Given two chances, he made good on his last one to give his team the decision.

W. & M. Tank Teams To Invade Virginia U.

William and Mary College's Varsity and Frosh Swimming Teams leave here tomorrow afternoon for Charlottesville in order to engage Virginia's two tank teams at the Memorial Gymnasium on Friday afternoon, in their second meet of the season. The Indian natators defeated Fortress Monroe in their initial start, 44-17.

Capt. Les Phillips, holder of the Virginia pool record for the 100 yards at 1 minute flat, and the Virginia State record for the 40-yard dash at 19.1 seconds, leads the Indian swimmers Friday against the Cavaliers. Phillips will compete in the 50, 100 and relay events.

William and Mary will be comparatively weak in varsity events, but hopes to make up for this by presenting a strong frosh combination. Casey, New England A. A. U. diving champion in 1928 and '29, while at English High School, Boston, will make a bid for the freshman diving event.

Coach Billy Gooch today announced the following entries: Varsity, 50-yard dash—Phillips, Cuddihy; 100-yard dash—Phillips, Smith; 440-yard dash—Munnell; backstroke—Van Sciver; breaststroke—Beech; dives—Leech, Kent, and relay—Smith, Cuddihy, Murphy and Phillips. Freshmen, 50-yard dash—Cyfert, Christenson; 100-yard dash—Brodney, Messer; 440-yard dash—Cyfert; backstroke—Christenson; breaststroke—Brodney, Casey; dives—Casey, Flickenger, Meade; relay—Brodney, Casey, Christenson and Cyfert.

Boston, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, will engage in his first important light-heavyweight battle here tomorrow night when he clashes with Arthur Flynn, of Lawrence, in the Boston Garden's feature 10-round contest. The hard-punching Westerner has high hopes of scoring a knockout, for he has his eye on the title vacated by Tommy Loughran.

Leaders to Clash in First Contest at 3:45 P. M.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

UNDISPUTED possesion of first place at a crucial time in the internigh court race will be the aim of Western and Tech, at present tied for the leadership, when the two clash at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon in the opening and feature game of the usual Friday doubleheader at the Tech Gym. Deadlocked with a similar record of three wins and two losses, the winner of the fray will be but one game removed from assuring itself of a tie for final honors when the regular season closes, just one week from today.

Eastern and Business, both of which have been flashing a championship brand of ball in their last few games, will endeavor to keep right behind the leaders when they take the floor immediately after the close of the initial game. Eastern, at present but a half-game behind the leaders can maintain that advantage by a win over the Stenogs, while Business will be fighting final elimination, which will come to it should it bow to the Lincoln Parkers.

Sensing the importance of the game, coaches of both the Tech and Western squads were loath last night to name their starting line-ups, expressing the opinion that final choices might not be decided upon until just before game time.

M. Chatlen May Start.

Coach Moore, of Western, is considering a move whereby Milton Chatlen, brother of Paul, who is performing at guard for the Red and White, will take Everett Buscher's place as a running mate to Jimmy Thompson at forward. Although Buscher has started every game for the West Enders, Moore may decide to insert Chatlen at the start of hostilities today as the result of his creditable showing in the last two games.

Artie Boyd, at Tech, may likewise make a change in sending Oliverson, hefty center, to the tap-off position in place of Mal Johns, who has started every game since the opener on January 7. Oliverson has looked especially impressive in recent competition and his eight points were highly instrumental in his team's 31-29 defeat of Business a week ago.

Western's chief hope lies in its ability to penetrate Tech's zone defense, a type of play that has proven especially puzzling to the Red and White Quintet throughout the season. Western looked almost helpless against the zone in the first meeting of the teams this year and last by a 12-point margin. However, it will be out to follow the example of every team defeated in the first round, which has turned the tables on its foes in the second game.

Business Out For Revenge.

Business, likewise, will be after Eastern's scalp, especially in view of the fact that the Lincoln Parkers have been the only team in the series to hand the Stenogs a decisive whipping. The 57-26 result of the first meeting of the two marks the only time that Business has been beaten by more than 2 points throughout the entire series.

However, victories over Western and Central in its last two games have left the Lincoln Parkers in an elated frame of mind, and they will be out to keep up their good work against the Stenogs.

Capt. Natie Newman, of Business, is the only performer of the five teams slated to play his last game in a high school uniform today, being scheduled to graduate next week. In all likelihood, he will start the fray at one of the forward position, but whether Loftus or Finley will act as a running mate to Singman as guard remains to be seen. The former is the highest scoring player of the Stenog Team, while Finley has looked good in recent appearances.

Jake Schaefer, Sr., Called Best Cueist of All Time

The late Jake Schaefer was the greatest billiardist of all time, according to Maurice Daly, of New York, former cushion carom champion, and one of the real authorities on billiards. Mr. Daly, who now is 61 years old, and has been more than 65 years in the cue world both as a player and as a room owner, places Willie Hoppe at the head of today's players in all-around billiards, but concedes first honors to young Jake Schaefer at balk-line.

"We have balk-line billiards today simply because old Jake was too good for any game on the billiard table in the past," explained Mr. Daly. "He could do everything so much better than the other fellow. When he once ran 3,000 unfinished at straight rail the billiard officials introduced the 8-inch balk-line, then followed 10-inch, 12, 14 and the present 18-inch balk-line. He forced the officials to devise the anchor in order to stop him.

"Old Jake Schaefer was the pioneer of everything we have now. The stars of the present have not displayed anything new. They merely have perfected what old Jake discovered."

Card at Navy Tomorrow Includes Boxing, Basket Ball, Swimming

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30.—Midshipmen athletes were busily engaged today preparing for another big wee-end program of competition.

Boxing bouts with the representatives of New Hampshire University and the annual swimming meet with Rutgers natators will top Saturday's card. The swimming is booked for the afternoon, as is also a basket ball doubleheader, the Navy varsity meeting Randolph-Macon, of Virginia, and the Plebes stacking up against Calvert Hall of Baltimore as a preliminary. The varsity wrestlers will meet Virginia Military Institute and the fencing team will measure blades with the experts of the New York Fencers Club.

The boxing will be the only event for the evening, the bouts starting at 7:30 o'clock. Owing to the steadily increasing interest in the intercollegiate mitt sport, admission, while gratis, will be by cards issued by the Navy Athletic Association.

Because New Hampshire was defeated by the West Point Cadets in the ring last Saturday, five bouts to two, the Middies are eager for the clash with the New Englanders as they always are to contest with a common foe of their military rivals.

The swim meet will draw more than average interest because Rutgers has a noutstanding star in Kojac, whose great performances here last year are well remembered.

DISPLAY, AT MIAMI, RENEWS BID FOR MONEY RECORD

"Iron" Horse Threatens Record

Goes in Race Tomorrow; Headed for Agua Caliente.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Display, the iron horse of American turf, sets forth Saturday in a renewed attempt to shatter the all-time money winning record held by the Great Zev. The 7-year-old W. J. Salmon thoroughbred is slated to make his 1930 debut in the $2,500 Miami Beach Handicap at Hialeah Park on Saturday.

Should all go well in the Florida feature, Display will be shipped West for the richest prize of them all—the $100,000 Agua Caliente Handicap run late in March. Pitted against the best of the winter racers, the son of Fair Play will have a golden opportunity to become the greatest money winning horse of American turf history.

More than $90,000 awaits the winner of the rich Mexican stake. Display closed the 1929 campaign with earning in excess of $250,000 to move into second place. Zev piled up $313,639 for Harry Sinclair's Rancocas stable before going into retirement. A simple problem of addition shows at a glance where Display will end up—if he wins.

Unplaced 25 Times In 99 Starts.

To pass such great money winners as Man o' War, Exterminator, Sarazen and Crusader, the grand old horse of the turf faced the barrier 99 times. His was first to the finish line on 23 occasions, second 25 and third 26. In six other races he wound up fourth—and got paid for it—for only 19 times out of the money or 25 times unplaced. His last victory was in the Baltimore Handicap at Pimlico in which he beat such topnotchers as Misstep, Dr. Free and the Sun Edwin.

Display will be burdened with the heavy impost of 126 pounds for Saturday's $2,500 feature at Hialeah. This is 3 more pounds than allotted to A. W. Wentzel's flashy Low Gear and 8 more than assigned to Tutti Frutti, the South American champion, which was the sensation of the track last winter. The iron horse is said to be in excellent condition for his inaugural, working out a mile yesterday in 1:44 under wraps.

Traveled 20,000 Miles During Career.

Already the holder of some sort of a traveling record, Display will take a few more miles onto his marks before going into retirement at Salmon's Meereworth stud near Lexington, Ky. In his racing career he has traveled by train more than 20,000 miles.

Display's favorite tracks, judging by the records, are Woodbine, in Canada, and Laurel, in Maryland. Over the Canadian course he won six of twelve starts, while at Laurel he was victor in three out of seven. He started the most at Pimlico, going to the post 21 times for seven victories. In six starts at Belmont Park and seven at Havre de Grace the temperamental colt never won a race. Out of fourteen tries at Saratoga he was first to the judges' stand only once.

Hawks Beat Berwyn, 33 to 32, in Extra Period Game.

MAKING good on his second foul try after missing his first attempt after the whistle had blown ending the extra period, Bailey, Brentwood Hawk right forward, virtually clinched the championship of the Prince Georges County League for his team last night when his shot gave the Hawks a 33-32 victory over the Berwyn five.

The Hawks are now three games ahead of the second place team and with four easy games to play, are seemingly "in."

With the score tied, 28-28, at the end of the regular game, the teams scored on even terms during the extra period with Bailey scoring the two Hawk field goals to match Reeley's pair for Berwyn. After keeping his team on even terms, Bailey then stepped in to clinch the hero role with his game-winning toss after the final whistle.

Capital Indoor Netmen Meet Hopkins Today

Washington's indoor net team, playing without the services of its two satellites, Bob Considine and Dooly Mitchell, journeys to Baltimore today to battle the Johns Hopkins Blue Jays on the wooden courts in the Fifth Regiment Armory.

A decisive win will clinch the indoor title for the District's representatives. With but one more match to play after this and a substantial lead over the field, the championship appears to be within easy reach.

Gonzaga Lightweights Bow to Business Cubs

Blanking their opponents throughout the first half, Business High Lightweights had little trouble in outpointing the Gonzaga Five of the same class last night, 27 to 14, in the I street gym.

Sinclair and Duryee led the winning attack with 9 and 8 points, respectively, while Sammy Cohen dropped his managerial garb of the varsity to assume the role of player and scored 2 points.

Independent League Shrinks to Six Teams

The new Independent Basket Ball League, which will open its season next Wednesday night, shrunk to six teams last night when entries closed. The list includes the Skinker Bros. Eagles, recently banned by the District A. A. U.; the United Typewriter Grays, the French A. C., the National Circles, the St. Mary's Celtics, of Alexandria, and the Woodlawn A. C.

Teams will be required to name their eligible players before next Tuesday. No team will be permitted to name more than ten players. A $5 franchise fee was posted by the managers of the six clubs last night.

Teams that had been mentioned as prime movers in the professional league, but which declined to enter are: Prince Georges All Stars, Silver Spring Giants, W. H. West Co., and Knight Store Five.

V. P. I. TEAMS IN 5 HOME CONTESTS

Court Game Saturday With V.M.I. Features Week-End Card.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Jan. 30.—Old rivalries, spurred on by title hopes, will add zest to a sterling array of athletic events scheduled for Virginia Polytechnic Institute teams this week-end. Five of seven contests will take place in War Memorial Hall, home lair of V. P. I. indoor teams.

Virginia High School, of Bristol, one of the stronger prep teams of the Old Dominion, will open activities in a court battle with the Poly Freshmen, Friday night. Four events, to include two basket ball games and two wrestling meets will keep local fans busy Saturday.

Long-standing rivalry, dating back to the early days of the court game, will make the annual visit of the Virginia Military Institute basketers the outstanding local court attraction of the winter season. Neither team is in the running for State or conference titles this year but two score years of keen rivalry in all sports is expected to tax the capacity of the local gymnasium. Freshmen team of the two schools will play in the afternoon preceding a wrestling meet between wrestling aggregations of V. P. I. and the University of North Carolina.

Wrestling With Carolina Follows Game.

Following the varsity game at night, wrestling teams of V. P. I. and North Carolina will stage one of the best mat bouts on the Poly card this winter. The Gobblers will be out to atone for an unexpected upset at Chapel Hill a year ago. With wins over North Carolina State and Virginia to her credit, V. P. I. also will be seeking her third straight win in conference ranks.

The varsity boxers will be fighting at Western Maryland College Saturday night, while the freshmen are engaged at Staunton Military Academy.

C. P. Miles, director of athletics here, was elected a member of the rules committee on wrestling by the National Collegiate Athletic Association at its recent meeting. Mr. Miles was informed this week. Other members of the committee are: R. G. Clapp, University of Nebraska; J. A. Rockwell, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Walter O'Connell, Cornell University; G. M. Trautman, Ohio State University, and D. B. Swingle, Montana State College.

Mr. Miles was one of the first athletic directors in the South to adopt wrestling as an intercollegiate sport and has done much to promote its increasing popularity in the South Atlantic States.

Duke Meets Carolina In Vital State Clash

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Jan. 30.—With a new system of offensive before them, as laid out by Coach Eddie Cameron, the Blue Devils of Duke will be fighting hard Saturday night at Chapel Hill to keep the Tarheels from marring a perfectly clean State record.

The game gives promise of being an interesting clash. Croson and Harper, the centers, are towers of strength. Capt. Farley, of the Duke team, will probably be placed to guard Marpet, the Tarheel "find." Dameron, Carolina's high-scoring guard, will have to keep "Little Chalky" Councillor covered. Then, too, the Tarheels will have to watch Werber and Rogers.

The game will start a series of Big Five tilts for the Blue Devils. They meet Wake Forest at Raleigh next Tuesday, and State there on the following Saturday. Then they meet Davidson at Charlotte; drop down to Columbia for a game with South Carolina there, returning home in time for their big intersectional game with Loyola of Chicago, here February 13.

William and Mary Mat Team Faces Virginia

Special to The Washington Post.

Williamsburg, Va., Jan. 30.—Coach "Red" Wilson's William and Mary grapplers ended a hard week of training here today in preparation for their wrestling meet with the University of Virginia Saturday night in Blow Gymnasium. Virginia brings both her varsity and frosh neck-twisting teams to meet like representative teams of Indians.

This appearance of the Cavaliers in Williamsburg marks the first time that Virginia has met William and Mary at home in any branch of sport since the start of athletic relations between the two schools.

Both the Cavaliers and the Indians have lost meets to Washington and Lee's fine team, and V. P. I. was victorious over the former in their second meet, and V. M. I. over the latter in their other start.

Coach Wilson, Southern intercollegiate champion at V. M. I. in 1926 in the 135-pound class, today announced the following varsity line-up after yesterday's trials: 115-pound, Mertrey or Blair; 125-pound, Cuddihy; 135-pound, Thornett; 145-pound, Grover; 155-pound, Potterfield; 165-pound, Poole; 175-pound, Wafle; unlimited, Pennington. He announced the frosh entries as still undecided.

Henry May, former wrestling coach at Duke University and at present connected with the Fredericksburg State Normal School, will officiate.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Jan. 30.—The Alexandria High School basketers will take the floor tomorrow night against the Washington and Lee High School Team. The game is enthusiastically awaited. The rivals have good records, each having lost only one game, and is yet to be defeated in the third district race.

The local team has been drilling daily for the battle and Coach Reynolds is confident. The Red and White team has not played for a week on account of examinations.

The starting line-up will more than likely be as follows: Capt. Sinclair and Backus, forwards; Jeff Williams, center and Pete Williams and Stone, guards.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon of the third district officials, to decide on the eligibility of Hugh Travers, an Alexandria High School boy, who was declared ineligible after playing in Warrenton, Va., under an assumed name, it was ruled that he will not be allowed to compete in basket ball, but will be eligible for track and baseball. Travers, a regular on the basket ball team, played against the Warrenton High School. The Warrenton school officials declared that Travers had played in that city the previous week.

It was decided that in case of a tie in the third district race that the game between the local high school and the Warrenton team would have to be played over.

Those present at the meeting were Henry Moncure, Alexandria High; Mr. Neale, Fredericksburg High School; Mr. Vanderslice, Washington and Lee High School, and Mr. Hall, from the Warrenton High School.

Brother Pin Pairs Open Match Tonight

Between 30 and 40 pairs of brothers are expected to compete in the brother bowling tournament which opens tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Rendezvous Alleys, Fourteenth and Buchanan streets. The rivals will shoot five games tonight and the concluding five-game set at Lucky Strike next Friday night. The high pairs for ten games will share in the prizes. Entries will be received until starting time tonight.

Distance Stars Turn Boxers at N. Carolina

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Jan. 30.—If footwork and endurance count, three cross-country men, now candidates for the Tar Heel Boxing Team, should be heard from before the season is over. G. M. Cohen, 125-pounder; C. R. Baucom, 135-pounder, and Jack Farris, 145-pounder, were all regulars on the cross-country team last fall. Baucom led the Tar Heel harriers home in the Southern Conference meet, won by North Carolina.

90 STOCKS ADVANCE TO HIGH 1930 PEAKS

AUBURN AUTO DECLINES

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—An irregular recovery in stock prices which lifted the index of 90 leading issues to a new high level for the year, shared speculative interest today with the renewed collapse in wheat and cotton futures to new low levels for the season. The volume of stock trading set a new high level for the year at 3,645,910 shares, with ticker delays again the rule.

In the stock market, final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 11 points, interspersed with a number of 1 to 8 point declines. Wheat futures broke about 3 cents a bushel and cotton futures dropped $2.50 a bale, but showed a slight recovery from the day's low levels.

There was no change in the credit situation, although the prolonged meeting of the New York Federal Reserve directors this afternoon caused widespread anxiety until it was announced that there was no change in the 4½ per cent rate. In view of the fact that no change had been made in the Bank of England rate earlier in the day, none was expected here, although the reduction from 3½ to 3 per cent in the Bank of France rate was believed to pave the way for an early lowering of the London charge by desreasing the possibility of further gold exports from England to France.

Call Money Rate Drops.

Call money again dropped from 4½ to 4 per cent, indicating that preparations for the payment of nearly $500,000,000 in dividend and interest payments during the next few days were being conducted without any disturbance to the money market. Time money, commercial paper and bankers' acceptances were unchanged. The weekly Federal Reserve statement showed an increase of only $4,000,000 in brokers' loans.

The recovery in stock prices was going along at a brisk pace from the opening until the early afternoon, when a series of selling attacks were launched against International Telephone, Simmons Co. and United Aircraft, all of which dropped 3 points or more before they met effective buying support. This selling tended to check bullish operations in other quarters and led to a considerable profit taking.

The market received its chief stimulus at the opening from the record-breaking 1929 report of the Sears-Roebuck Co. Merchandising and mail order shares were conspicuous in the day's advance, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery-Ward, May Department Stores and Spiegel May Stern closing 3 to nearly 5 points higher. U. S. Steel common crossed 183 to a new high on the current recovery, but fell back to 182, where it was up fractionally. Auburn Auto lost all but 1½ points of its extreme gain of 11 points. There was a brisk demand throughout the day for General Electric, Celotex, General Motors and New York Central, although early gains were not fully maintained.

Cotton Prices Decline.

In the cotton market all active futures broke below 17 cents a pound, with March contracts selling within 6 points of the 16-cent level. Liquidation was influenced by the reported statement of Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, that cotton would not be supported "at foolish prices" and by reduced estimates of the probable consumption of the commodity this year.

Selling of wheat was influenced by the poor export demand, favorable weather reports and the drop in prices in Winnipeg. Corn prices closed steady. Coffee quotations dropped 23 to 29 points. Sugar prices held steady.

Establishment of new low levels for the year by French francs and Dutch guilders featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Sterling cables were slightly firmer around $4.85⅝. Spanish pesetas lost a small part of yesterday's gain, being quoted around 13.25 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Wheat pitched downward today to more than 10c a bushel low than last week, and finished prostrate at the bottom-most level reached yet this season. The wheat market here reeled owing largely to reports that Russia is offering wheat for shipment ports on the Black Sea but also by war of the Baltic, slashing under the cheapest prices quoted on wheat from North America. Meanwhile, with Liverpool dispatches intimating that a price-cutting war in grain exists between Canada and the United States, rye and corn here, as well as wheat, broke the season's low-price record.

Chicago closing prices on wheat were shaky at the lowest point reached in both for the day and the season, 2c to 2¼c under yesterday's finish. Rye closed 1½c to 4¾c down, corn varying from ¼c decline to ¼c advance, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12c.

Violent fluctuations in wheat prices here followed one another rapidly today from start to finish, ending in an especially swift break of more than 2c a bushel in the last fifteen minutes of trading. Earlier buyers showed themselves disheartened at this stage as a result of the market failing to maintain rallies. Holdings of future deliveries were thrown overboard in the face of nearly complete absence of purchasers for the time being, and values collapsed quick. Adding impetus to the late downward rush of prices here was announcement that North American export business in wheat today totaled only 800,000 bushels, and that the bulk consisted of wheat grown in Canada.

After the Chicago market closed today the Farmers' National Grain Corporation posted bids of 1.20 a bushel for No. 1 hard winter wheat to arrive. This is the Federal Farm Board's loan basis, and is equivalent to 1.18 for No. 2 hard, a grade acceptable on ordinary future delivery contracts in the Chicago market. The Government loan basis on wheat and the Farmers' National Grain Corporation's latest posted offer for immediate delivery of rural receipts of wheat in Chicago is therefore 2½c a bushel higher than wheat deliverable here in March, which went begging in today's final transactions. The acute weakness at the finish here was particularly associated with price breaks at Winnipeg and to reports from there that London bakeries were exhibiting window signs saying no Canadian wheat was used in the shop's bread. Argentine Government estimates that the Argentine wheat crop is 4,000,000 bushels less than previous forecasts was the chief basis on which wheat buyers here acted today and afterward ignored.

Corn and oats received late buying support from previous speculative sellers, a strengthening element which was lacking in wheat.

FOREIGN ISSUES RISE IDS BOND TURNOVER

CARRIER SHARES SLUMP

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—In-reased activity in foreign bonds and n a few convertibles tended to lift oday's bond market out of the rut. owever, the movement of prices in omestic corporation issues continued ong irregular lines, with the rails till meeting moderate pressure.

The expected new issue of Interna-ional Telephone obligations was an-ounced after the close of the mar-et. It is $50,000,000 loan in 25-ear 5s, priced at 96½. The immi-ence of this flotation led to liqui-ation of the company's stock and he convertible 4½s, which move with hese shares, dropped to 112¾, later ecovering a quarter points for a net oss of 2. The straight debenture 4½s yielded five-eighths.

New bond financing is showing a onsiderable decline. Some of the ecent offerings, it is reported, have ot yet been completely absorbed and t therefore would not be surprising f additional issues were withheld un-il conditions have become more sta-bilized. However, two or three siz-able loans are being planned for the arly part of February.

Foreign Group Active.

Numerous foreign bonds turned over in large blocks, especially the French governments, the 7½s touch-ing a new high at 120⅝ and the 7s reaching 114½. Italy 7s, Japan 7s, Belgian 7s, Brazil 6½s, Cuba 5½s, Denmark 4½s and Poland 8s and 7s participated in the busy trading. Final prices were mostly at a slight advance. Outstanding changes de-veloped in Buenos Aires 6s, October, up 5½, and Firelli Co. 7s, up 3½.

United States Governments gained on small turnovers. The advance in the Treasury 4s amounted to 11-32, while the Treasury 4½s rallied 9-32.

The American Telephone convertible 4½s were traded actively with a 3-point range, with the closing price of 142⅜ representing a net loss of ⅛. Atchison convertible 4½s gained 2. Missouri Pacific 5½s lost 1½, and Chi-cago North Western 4½s eased.

St. Paul 5s, Erie general 4s, Missouri, Kansas, Texas prior lien 5s, New York Central general 4½s, Northern Pacific general 3s, Southern Pacific refund-ing 4s, Pennsylvania consolidated 4s of 1948 and numerous other represen-tative rails declined moderately.

Industrials Advance.

Industrials, particularly the semi-speculative listings, tended upward Fisk Rubber 8s, Hoe & Co. 6½s, Inter-national Paper 5s, Hudson Coal 5s, Liggett & Myers 5s and Armour Real Estate 4½s improved.

Net changes in the utilities were small. The New American Telephone 4½s were very active at 100¼ to 100½, closing at the latter figure for a gain of ⅛. Other high-grade issues were dull.

Additional new offerings scheduled for tomorrow include a $5,280,000 is-sue of New York Central Railroad serial equipment trust 4½s, priced to yield 4.50 to 4.65 per cent.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

WATER DATA GIVEN ARLINGTON OFFICERS

Receipts and Expenses of $750,000 Bond Issue Are Listed.

ANNEX FUND IS ARGUED

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The County Board of Supervisors yesterday received a complete report on the county water system as compiled by County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, showing receipts and disbursements from passage of a $750,000 bond issue dating from June 15, 1926 to December 1, 1929. The report follows:

Total receipts, including the bond issue, show a total of $1,062,149.74. The difference of $312,149.74 was collected from coupon notes amounting to $50,000, frontage charges of $170,-951.37, from water service, $61,635.40; premium and interest from sale of bonds, $5,253; premium and interest from sale of the coupon bonds, $1,115; accrued interest on notes collected, $2,459.58; interest collected from banks, $8,525.70; collection claims and refunds, $356.10; interest collected, $1,314.80; miscellaneous collections, $336.79, and balance on loan from trust company, $10,000.

The disbursements, according to the report, are distributed as follows: Main connection by Federal Government, $72,172.71; connections along State roads, $1,222.12; main connections through county covering a distance of 39.20 miles, material and contracts, $606,767.59; real estate and reservoir, $66,048.54; rights of way, $5,749.83; main extensions and tapping, $95,369.87; fire hydrants, $19,-714.19; meters, $20,721.22; salaries and supplies, $66,911.43; miscellaneous items, $16.54; yard rent, $300; maintenance of building, $198.61; commissions to county treasurer, $2,352.66; auditor of State, $3,521.85; flotation of bonds, $3,930.10; interest paid on bonds and notes, $107,310.29; water consumed purchased from Federal Government, $7,616.90; overdrawn of treasurer $17,781.91. To meet the overdrawn amount as shown in statement there is in possession of the county treasurer as of December 21, 1929, notes amounting to $29,139.23 for frontage and water connections sold and unpaid.

Engineer Kinnier further pointed out that with an additional 1,000 users it would be safe to reduce the water rate from $24 to $22 with a charge of 25 cents instead of 30 cents for excess charges for water and a further discount of 50 cents a quarter if bills are paid within 10 days. This would give a net water rate of $20 per annum or a 16 2-3 reduction.

Having met with Carl Budwesky, who appeared before the board representing the City of Alexandria, all details were about agreed upon and plans for turning over the $500,000 in connection with the recent annexation completed when the meeting was thrown into an uproar with the appearance of Attorney Lawrence Douglas, representing the county school board, who asked that the board pass a resolution to assure the school board that sufficient funds be set aside from the amount to take care of the school bond debt in the area annexed to the city and another item of $115,000, the total being $165,000.

Edward Duncan, chairman of the board, arose and declared the school board had over-stepped its bounds when it employed counsel. Supervisor B. M. Hedrick stated that the board would not deal with an attorney, but would meet the school board.

The controversy arose over the fact that the school board refused to sign the deed conveying the property to the city.

The refusal delayed the transfer of funds.

Late last night Attorney Douglas announced that the deed will be signed and the property properly conveyed to the city. This it is understood will satisfy all parties concerned and the money will be delivered to County Treasurer E. Wade Ball today.

After listening to a large delegation representing the citizens of both Virginia Highlands and Aurora Hills in Jefferson District on the question of providing a suitable health center in that section to replace the one lost to the City of Alexandria as the result of the annexation proceedings, the board unanimously voted to purchase the brick building on Frazier avenue opposite the Jefferson District Firemen's Hall for $6,400.

The board recommended to the county school board that it erect a high school in Jefferson District to provide for the loss of the George Mason High School now in Alexandria.

It was announced by the board that with the approval of the zoning ordinance, on which there will be a public hearing February 14 at the county courthouse, that the county will publish an atlas containing the master map and smaller maps showing all property lines, alleys, streets and other details pertaining to the zoning ordinance.

G. Frank Allwine, secretary of the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association, announced last night that the Arlington Fire Department has been awarded the trophy for the greatest attendance at the monthly meetings of the association during the past year. Clarendon and Cherrydale departments were the runners-up for second and third place.

The presentation will be made by President Walter W. Varney at a date to be announced later.

Plans for the widening of the Columbia pike are being considered by the Arlington Citizens Association and a special committee will be appointed by the president, Mrs. Florence E. Cannon, it was announced last night.

There will also be an effort made to have the name pike dropped and a more suitable name, such as Columbia boulevard or Columbia drive, substituted.

The newly organized public library in Arlington will be opened next week, according to an announcement last night by the chairman, Mrs. J. B. Lowell.

The library, which will be located in the frame building near the Patrick Henry School on Bingham road, will open with 200 volumes, 100 of which have been received from the State library and the other 100 donated by citizens of the county.

Road Gangs Fight Snow in Counties

Forces numbering more than 100 men continued work throughout the night after a busy day in keeping the main roads in both Prince Georges and Montgomery counties in nearby Maryland clear of large drifts of snow, although various back highways offered considerable handicap to motorists and pedestrians. The road gangs worked under the direction of E. G. Duncon, engineer of the State Roaods Commiselon.

The difficulty of travel in several sections prompted the postponement of cases in the Prince Georges circuit court at Marlboro upon the telephoned announcement of both Judge George Melville Loker, of Leonardtown, and Judge Joseph C. Mattingly, of Oxen Hill, to court attaches yesterday.

The weather also brought in more than 50 requests to the Social Service League of Montgomery County to find employment for persons out of work, according to Miss Irma Mohr, director of the organization. League workers were busy throughout the day in taking foodstuffs to families reported needy.

CITY COUNCIL POSTS NOW SOUGHT BY TEN

Four More Candidates File Declaration on Last Day of Legal Period.

MRS. SHEPPERSON IN LIST

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The race for election to the city council promises to be the most spirited in many years, four more candidates having filed their declarations of intention to run with the chairman of the city Democratic committee yesterday, the last day on which such notices could be filed to render the applicant eligible to enter the Democratic primary. This makes ten persons now in the field for the three vacancies which will exist by reason of the expiration of the terms of Councilmen Robert S. Jones, J. E. Timberman and Edmund F. Ticer.

The names added to the list yesterday were Mrs. Naomi P. Craver, former councilwoman of the Town of Potomac; L. H. Dudley, vice president and cashier of the Alexandria National Bank; Clyde C. Lamond, retired business man, and Mrs. Dolly P. Shepperson.

Mrs. Shepperson, whose declaration was filed a few hours ahead of that of Mrs. Craver, is the second woman to announce herself as a candidate for any elective post in Alexandria, the first being Miss Cora Duffey. She also has the distinction of being the first woman to pay her poll tax and register in this city, having qualified first on August 31, 1920, when she was registered by George A. Harlow, registrar of the Second Ward. She has been engaged in newspaper work for a number of years. She succeeded the late Dr. Kate Waller Barrett as president of the American Legion Auxiliary to Post No. 24, of this city, served several terms as such, and has recently been elected president of the Mary Custis Lee-Seventeenth Virginia Regiment Chapted, United Daughters of the Confederacy. She has never been engaged in politics before.

The complete list of candidates for the Democrtaic nomination for councilman includes Edmund F. Ticer, incumbent; Arthur Herbert, banker; Howard T. Colvin, labor leader; E. C. Davidson, Mrs. Naomi P. Craver and Richard B. Washington, residents of the recently annexed territory, and the four names already mentioned, L. B. Alexander, of the annexed territory, whose candidacy will be subject to the general election in June, is the tenth candidate.

The Democratic primary to select party candidates will be held April 1, and the general election June 10. Ordinarily the Democratic nomination would be equivalent to election, but the announcement of Mr. Alexander as an independent candidate injects an element of doubt into the race, which probably will have the effect of making the general election more than the mere formality which has characterized it in the past.

The term of office of the three councilmen who will be chosen is four years, and the salary of the position is $250 a year. The council meets first on September 1 to organize and elect a chairman, who is ex officio mayor of the city. This office has been held by William Albert Smoot for the last eight years. The terms of the five councilmen are so arranged that three will expire at one time and the other two expire two years later, so that there can never be more than three new members of the governing body at one time. The terms of Mayor Smoot and Councilman Thomas J. Fannon will expire in 1932.

The city council yesterday received a recommendation from the city electoral board in regard to the redistricting of the city into voting wards, and a resolution was introduced and placed on its first reading carrying the following new boundaries:

First Ward—To remain as at present.

Second Ward—From the former city limits on the northwest, east of the center line of Washington street extended to the Potomac Yard Bridge, thence following the east side of the R., F. & P. Railroad tracks to Four Mile Run.

Third Ward—West from the center line of Washington street, beginning at King street, west to Washington street extended, to the Potomac Yard Bridge, thence to King street to Washington and King streets.

Fourth Ward — To remain unchanged.

Fifth Ward—Rosemont, from the R., F. & P. Railroad tracks on the east and King street on the west, following King street to the city limits. This lies northeast of King street to the intersection of King street and Braddock road, south of Braddock road to the intersection of Braddock road and Bellefonte avenue, south of Bellefonte avenue from Braddock road to the R., F. & P. Railroad tracks.

Sixth Ward—Starts at the intersection of Washington street and the right of way of the R., F. & P. Railroad to Bellefonte avenue, and lies north of Bellefonte avenue to Braddock road and the line north of Braddock road to the west of the city limits, and is all of the territory west of the R., F. & P. Railroad and north of Bellefonte avenue and Braddock road.

Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., appeared before the council in reference to an offer of the Board of Supervisors of Arlington County to sell to the City of Alexandria the piece of fire apparatus which is located in Potomac and which was recently adjudged the property of Arlington County, for $6,800, and stated that the apparatus is antiquated and not suitable for city use; that it is designed for suburban use, and is very speedy. T. W. McHugh, president of the Potomac fire company, which is now known as Company No. 2 of the Alexandria Fire Department, also appeared and confirmed the report of Chief Duncan.

A resolution was then introduced, and held over under the rules, providing for the appropriation of $12,-000 for the purchase of a new piece of apparatus for the No. 2 company.

The council appropriated $999 for the work of cleaning the streets of snow, this being the largest amount that can be appropriated by council without being held over for final action. The resolution was introduced by Councilman Fannon.

The Stratford campaign is continuing this week with the headquarters at 717 King street open daily and hostesses this week will be Mrs. William J. Boothe, Mrs. C. A. S. Sinclair, Mrs. L. H. Dudley, Mrs. Charles W. Howell, Mrs. Francis H. Fannon, Mrs. Thomas W. Robinson, Mrs. Carroll Pierce, Mrs. William D. Ogden, Mrs. M. C. C. Peyton and Mrs. Charles Ellett Cabell.

Contributions to date have reached the total of $2,375.08, one donation being received through the Alexandria committee of Colonial Dames, from Mrs. Margaret Peyton Wilmot, in memory of her great-grandfather, Francis Peyton, a one-time mayor of Alexandria.

Dr. T. Marshall Jones, coroner, will hold an inquest this morning to determine the cause of the death of Alonzo Crouch, 44 years old, who died on January 23 at the Alexandria Hospital as the result of injuries received on January 22, when struck by an automobile, said to have been driven by Martin J. Manning, of Mount Vernon avenue.

Three appeal cases from police court were nolle prossed in the corporation court yesterday, as follows: Kenneth Poole, fined $190.50, including costs, for prohibition violation; Earl Thomas, colored, who was fined $70.50 and given 30 days for violating the prohibition law; George Wood, colored, fined $50 and costs for alleged violation of the lottery law.

New Department Is Given Assignments by Chief; Pressure Tested.

Special to The Washington Post.

La Plata, Md., Jan. 30.—The La Plata Fire Association, which was organized the first of the month, is rapidly shaping itself for actual fire fighting. A body has been constructed and mounted upon an automobile chassis. Recent tests show that pressure from the water tank, recently erected to supply the town with water, is sufficient to throw a stream of water over any building in the town.

A committee, composed of Thomas P. MacDonagh, Ralph M. Lorenz and H. Maxwell Mitchell, has been selected to purchase a siren to use as a fire-alarm signal. Fire Chief Thomas P. MacDonagh and Assistant Fire Chief Ralph M. Lorenz have organized their department and have assigned positions as follows: Drivers, T. J. Jameson, Beverly H. Barnes, Frank S. Somers, Wilson C. Bowling, Andrew J. Clark, Leo K. Farrall; engineer and electrician, H. Maxwell Mitchell; physician, James E. Nolan, M. D.

The department meets each Friday night for instructions and drills.

INQUIRY ON FOR MONTH

The Kit Kat Inn on the Baltimore pike, long famous for, among other things, the "hot" floor show put on nightly by a cast of charming performers, entertained a party of unexpected customers Wednesday night, it was learned yesterday.

It happened that the eleven men who visited the inn a few minutes after 7 o'clock in the evening were United States Marshal George W. Collier, four deputy marshals, and six men from the Department of Justice. When they entered they had a search warrant, and when they left a short time later they had nine prisoners, of whom four were men and five women, all charged with violation of the Mann act.

The raid was the sequel to a month's investigation by agents from the Washington headquarters of the Department of Justice, working under instructions from J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation, who has jurisdiction over both the District of Columbia and Maryland areas. The Kit Kat is about midway between Washington and Baltimore, but the prisoners were taken to the latter city.

The Federal agents reported that no resistance was offered by those who were in the inn, all of whom were alleged to have been connected with the establishment, no customers being present at the time. Those arrested gave their names as John White, 28; Patrick Morgan, 21; Ann Donald, 23; Marjorie Callo, 22; Betty Dalton, 23; Alice Taylor, 28; Mary Doe, 22, and two colored men employed about the place. All were held at the Central police station in Baltimore for investigation.

First Woman Named To Education Board

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Jan. 30.—Miss Rose McDonald, who for the past two years has been rural supervisor of schools for Clarke County, has just received from Gov. Pollard her appointment as a member of the State Board of Education. She is the first woman in the State to be so honored. Miss McDonald for the past two years has given a great deal of her time studying the situation in the country schools and through her intense interest has been instrumental in instituting a great many improvements, especially in the mountains.

Miss McDonald is also judge of the domestic relations court, which position she has held for the past five years and when appointed was the first woman to be appointed to such a position.

HIGHWAY BILL STIRS VIRGINIA ASSEMBLY

KOINER IS REAPPOINTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Jan. 30.—Sharp argument over the advancement of the Porter-Rhodes highway system bill, which would add 1,587 miles to State roads, and final advancement of the measure to its third reading today gave indication that the road mileage and gasoline distribution features of the present General Assembly are likely to stir bitter fights, and, according to some, find the factions deadlocked at adjournment.

Gov. Pollard announced his appointment of George W. Koiner to continue as commissioner of agriculture and immigration, a position over which there had been much speculation.

Among the chief developments of the day were:

Teachers' Retirement Fund.

Introduction of bills to create a teachers' retirement fund, to give the rural communities free text books, to restrict bill boards, and announcement by Wilbur C. Hall, of Loudoun, that tomorrow he would introduce a bill to place a special tax on chain stores in an effort "to curb monopolistic tendencies."

Appointment, beside that of Mr. Koiner, of Harris Hart to be superintendent of public instruction; of John M. Purcell to be State treasurer and of E. Lee Trinkle, Roanoke, Joseph H. Saunders, Newport News; Miss Rose McDonald, Clarke County; Herbert H. Harris, Lynchburg; Robert M. Hughes, sr., Norfolk; Thomas G. Burch, Henry County, and Robert W. Daniel, Prince George County, to comprise the State board of education.

Former Governor Speaks.

Address of former Gov. E. Lee Trinkle before the House of Delegates in which he urged them not to pass more laws than necessary.

Submission by House committee on prisons and asylums to subcommittee of bill designed to establish prison farm for women, and killing of bill designed to make the director of public welfare chairman ex officio of all boards of directors of agencies under his jurisdiction.

Meantime the Senate got into a good-natured wrangle over Senator Hill Montague's "old horse bill," which would prohibit the working of a horse or mule unfit for service. The discussion began over the language of the bill, which was that no horse or mule unfit for work because of age could be used. Senator R. J. Moell, Radford, wanted to know how old was too old, and said that Traveler, Gen. Lee's horse, had died at the age of 22, while Jackson's faithful mount had lived to the ripe old age of 34. The bill was passed after the age phrase was stricken out.

PUBLIC HEARING SET ON FAIRFAX BUDGET

TAX RATE TO BE ARGUED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The board of supervisors of Fairfax County will meet in the courthouse building at Fairfax at 10 o'clock the morning of Monday, March 3, to hear discussion by citizens of the county on estimates of the revenue and expenditures of the county for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1930, and on local tax levies for the calendar year of 1930.

A summary of the tentative budget adopted by the supervisors shows the estimated total county revenue to be $476,296.07. Included are several appropriations for new projects, but inasmuch as other appropriations have been either increased or omitted and taking into account the normal increase in valuation it is not expected that the tax rate will show an increase after the public hearing is held in March and the budget finally adopted. The necessary levies will be made at the April meeting of the board.

Summary of Expenditures.

A summary of the estimated county expenditures includes $28,172.81 for administration; $1,970 for judiciary; $8,080 for public buildings; $1,200 for elections; $6,000 for care of the poor; $5,500 for public health; $2,400 for combating predatory birds and animals; $204,034.26 for education; $172,-045 for roads; $7,500 for pensions for Confederate veterans; $984 for farm demonstration agent; $1,100 for home demonstration agent; $200 for forest fire protection; $14,000 for reassessment of real estate; $2,000 for road police patrol; $3,500 for prevention of bovine tuberculosis; $260 as fees to the State accountant's office; $1,800 for public welfare; $4,500 for fire protection; $1,050 for part of salary paid county superintendent of schools out of county levy, and $5,000 for emergency funds, which made a total of $471,296.07.

The district revenue and borrowings are estimated to be $75,781.31, while the expenditures for the Centerville district roads are put at $14,900; Dranesville district education, $3,980.94; interest and sinking fund on road bond issue, $21,413.76; Falls Church district education, $6,884.89; interest and sinking fund for road bond issue, $17,889.26; Mount Vernon district interest and sinking fund for road bond issue, $4,843.89; Providence district education, $9,467.94; interest and sinking fund for road bond issue, $2,068.88, while Lee district has no district expenditures. The total expenditures for the six districts are $85,549.56.

Tax Arguments to Be Heard.

On the same day the board will hear citizens on the proposed increase or decrease of local tax levies for the year that began January 1, 1930. The proposed road maintenance outlay from the six district funds show a decrease of $114,792.90, due to the new policy adopted by the supervisors to base the road appropriation for next year on a flat county road tax of $1 with a 1-cent district levy. The average road levy for last year amounted to 97 cents, divided between the county and district levies.

The interest and sinking fund of the road bond issue in Falls Church and Dranesville districts show a decrease of $2,095.22, while the school appropriation in Falls Church, Dranesville and Providence districts have increased $136.13. This makes a total net decrease in the six district funds of $116,781.99.

In summarizing the county and district expenditures, some of the items of the different funds were increased, while others were decreased from last year, the total however, resulting in a net increase of expenditures of $46,141.27.

Expenditures during the year of 1929 and 1930 not set up in the budget last year, but for which a levy was made, include the expenses of the jail and jailor, special officer appointed by sheriff, jail physician, increase in motor vehicle tax, pension and the salary paid the superintendent of schools by county levy, amounting to $15,950, which makes the actual increase in the proposed budget $30,191.27.

Because of the heavy snow in this county yesterday, Judge Howard W. Smith decided to continue the case set for today until the March term of court, which makes yesterday the last day which the court will set for the January term.

The following criminal cases were disposed of by the court yesterday: Charles Mergler pleaded guilty to driving while drunk and was fined $100 and costs and 30 days in jail. Ralph Gaither pleaded guilty to driving while drunk and received a like sentence. Douglas Lacey pleaded guilty to a hit-and-run charge growing out of an accident in which Mrs. Mary E. Quigg was killed. He was sentenced to six months in jail. On motion of Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr, the indictment against Estelle Bailey for possession of a still and mash was nolle prossed.

In the case of the National Bank of Herndon against the Herndon Milling Co. and others, Wilson M. Farr, the substituted trustee, was ordered by the court to pay over to George E. Robey, attorney for the bank, the balance of the sum of $778.86 after paying the costs of the trustees' accounting, including commissioner's fee and clerk's fee for the State and recording of the same to apply as credit on the judgment of the bank against the milling company and others.

J. F. Oliver, of Herndon, was appointed by the court as a trustee of the Frying Pan Old School in place of W. A. Thompson, deceased, with all the duties and powers subject to all responsibilities and liabilities imposed upon him by law.

The following cases were ordered dismissed by the court at the plaintiffs' cost: K. H. Poaton against L. C. Leith; Hoge Grain & Feed Co. against L. A. White; Martha Alexandria against Herbert Davis; R. L. Taylor against Frank Tate et al.; T. J. Beavers against C. Terterman, and First National Bank of Alexandria against C. W. Mills. The suit of the Druo Co., a corporation, against L. G. Anderson, was continued until the second day of the March term.

The District National Bank through B. L. Colton, trust officer, Eugene C. Gott, Emil West and J. Miller Kenyon were appointed trustees of the estate of Sidney West, of Washington, to handle the disposition of certain real estate owned by him in Virginia. They qualified by giving a bond for $12,000. Robert A. Bates was appointed administrator of the estate of the late E. L. Bates. A $5,000 bond was required.

Mrs. Mabel Howard Robertshaw, of Falls Church, was appointed by the clerk of the court as executrix of the estate of George Laws Robertshaw, who died January 20. No surety being required she acknowledged bond for $1,700. William Mayo Herring, C. Parrott and J. D. Smith were appointed appraisers of the estate. Elliott J. Dent presented for probate the last will and testament of his sister, Edith Dent, who died January 24. He was appointed administrator and gave bond for $6,000.

Mrs. J. E. Nickell, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Fairfax Volunteer Fire Department, announced yesterday that the dinner which was to have been given yesterday evening in the old Fairfax Tavern has been postponed until Saturday evening because of the heavy snow storm. Tickets purchased for yesterday will be good on that date.

Due to efficient work by the forces of State and county highway departments practically all the roads in this county were kept open to traffic yesterday. Both groups began work soon after the snow started to fall. Nearly all meetings scheduled last night were postponed. Several automobiles left the road, but no serious accidents were reported. The great depth of the snow has caused much concern among the sportsmen, as they fear that most of the small game will either smother or starve to death. A call has been issued by the game wardens to all persons asking them to scatter grain and other food for the small game and birds.

When the liquor case of Eugene and Alma Miles was called in circuit court yesterday, Miles and his wife indicted as second offenders and free on $500 bond, failed to appear. Attributing their absence to the deep snow, the court decided to wait a reasonable length of time for them to put in their appearance. The witnesses arrived in course of time, and then the court ordered Capt. Heywood J. Burrer, of the road police, to go to the home of the defendants and bring them into court.

Driving through a blinding snowstorm for 14 miles, Capt. Durrer arrived at the Miles home to find that the couple had departed, taking all their effects with them. When notified of the defendants' flight, Judge Howard W. Smith ordered their bonds forfeited and a bench warrant for their apprehension was issued.

STATE CONCLUDES ROMNEY EVIDENCE

INSANITY PLEA IS LIKELY

Special to The Washington Post.

Romney, W. Va., Jan. 30.—The prosecution announced upon adjournment of circuit court here this evening that it had practically concluded its introduction of evidence against Walter Crabtree, of Romney, charged with the murder of three citizens here December 18, and on trial for the slaying of one of them, Justice of the Peace H. Carter Inskeep. The State indicated it would be ready to turn over the evidence-taking to the defense in the morning.

The State's testimony followed two general lines—one the train of murder which Crabtree is alleged to have followed, first slaying Edward Wolford, then wounding 6-year-old Ruth Hott, then killing Justice Inskeep, and finally slaying Jailer Ben B. Miller, all shot at close range, according to testimony of physicians.

The witnesses then closed the story with the arrest of Crabtree in his own home, where he was cleaning his gun.

The other testimony trend was that fellow workmen had heard Crabtree make threats against public officials including Inskeep and Miller. Five workmen testified to this—Frank Haines, Ralph Sanders, H. V. Biser, Russell Buckalew and S. G. Loy.

Nineteen witnesses took the stand for the State today. Both Mrs. Inskeep and Mrs. Miller, widows, also testified. State Trooper Joe Horne told of following the trail of the slayer and his arrest.

Judge G. K. Kump, regular jurist in this district, was a witness for the State, telling how he answered Crabtree's call at the Inskeep home, where Judge Kump stays, and calling Justice Inskeep for Crabtree at the latter's request. Judge Kump heard the firing and heard Justice Inskeep fall.

Former Sheriff R. B. Ruckman, who talked to Crabtree immediately after the shooting, said the slayer talked peculiarly and insisted that he had only killed two men instead of three. Crabtree's talk on the way to Keyser, where he was taken the morning of the slayings for safekeeping, was also unusual, he said. Six farmers, two merchants, two mechanics and two orchardists make up the jury hearing the case.

The State did not touch upon the question of Crabtree's sanity in its direct examination. It is generally expected that the defense will be temporary insanity.

FARMERS HAVE FOUR ROUTES FOR RELIEF

VIRGINIA FARMS STUDIED

Blacksburg, Va., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—There are four roads to farm relief, Dr. William E. Garnett, professor of rural sociology of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, believes after an intensive study of farming conditions in Virginia. Because [illegible] farmers as a class have [illegible] other occupational groups [illegible] ter of income, standard [illegible] institutional services [illegible] for farm relief have been [illegible]

Such proposals, he says, fall into four general groups, or "roads."	1930	1929	1928

Thus, in the opinion of Dr. Garnett, there are the "let alone" road, the road of individual action, the road of voluntary group action and the road of governmental aid. Dr. Garnett points out, the roads, Dr. Garnett points out, accomplish alone the desired end, but all roads—of slow-working [illegible] and economic forces, individual action, voluntary group action and governmental aid must be followed.
